Labor Expects Easy House Victory.

Feud in Springfield

Angry senate pigeonholes all house bills to avenge killing of its own measures, but calms down when lower chamber refuses to fight. Details on page 3.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 21.—[Special.]—The end of a quarter century battle of union labor to place the women workers of Illinois under an eight hour day law became an immediate prospect today when the state senate, on its second trial, passed the bill with just the necessary constitutional vote. The count was 26 to 8, and the measure goes now to the house, where labor leaders think it will have comparatively easy sledding.

About 100,000 women, according to the state department of labor, would come under the provisions of the bill should it become law. More than two-thirds of them work in Chicago, in factories, retail stores, hotels, restaurants and beauty parlors, the principal establishments covered.

Objects to Omission of 250,000.

Not included, however, are domestic servants, and their exclusion cost the supporters one senate vote—that of William E. King, colored Republican from Chicago, who declared that 250,000 women are employed at long hours in the homes of the state. King termed the bill a woman's eight hour law in name only and voted against it.

In the house the bill will be received under the auspices of a speaker sympathetic to labor, Louie E. Lewis. It has the support of Gov. Horner. Most of the Cook county bloc is expected to vote for it, as well as a number of downstaters. Opposition speakers from various employers' organizations, including the Illinois Manufacturers' association, are expected to fight emphatically at public hearings.

Labor Leaders Pleased.

Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union league, Chicago, beamed with pleasure today when the senate vote was announced. She and other labor leaders like Victor A. Olander, secretary and treasurer of the state Federation of Labor, have been urging adoption of the bill since shortly after the present 10 hour law was amended in 1911. No change has been made in the law since that year.

The 10 hour law was passed in 1909 and was broadened to its present scope in 1911. Attempts to amend it to 8 hours have been made at every session since that time, and the big drive was started in 1917, becoming more intense at each session.

The senate has always been the big stumbling block in the path of the 8 hour bill, according to the labor leaders.

Sees Thousands Benefited.

"We are delighted after this long struggle by the senate vote," Miss Nestor said, "and we are looking forward to passage in the house. Thousands of women will work shorter hours if the bill becomes law."

The 8 hour bill changes the maximum hours of labor for women from 10 to 8 hours per day, but not to exceed 48 hours in one week. It exempts graduate nurses, telephone and telegraph operators at certain times, employment in a public emergency, and women who work at the canning of perishable fruits and vegetables.

To cover the Christmas buying season, the measure provides that women employed in mercantile establishments may work 9 hours per day and 54 hours per week for not more than four weeks in one year.

Parole Bills Up Next Week.

Action is expected next week on the important series of five parole reform bills which have passed the senate and are pending on second reading in the house. Their sponsor is Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago] is handling them in the house. The big change in the program would abolish the indeterminate sentence and thus limit the power of the parole board to release convicts. The court would fix a minimum sentence which the board could not disturb.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., April 21.—[Special.]—A basis for negotiation of the fourteen day old General Motors of Canada strike at Oshawa was reached late this afternoon by company and union representatives in the offices of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario. The actual negotiations will open at 1 p. m. tomorrow in Hepburn's office. Louis Fine, chief negotiator for the provincial department of labor, will act with Hepburn as intermediary in the joint conference.

J. L. Cohen.

The situation apparently is one of "saving face" for all concerned. The premier gets his demand that any conference be held in his office, without attendance by "paid foreign agitators," and the company gets around technical recognition of the C. I. O.

Opposing Factions Separated.

J. L. Cohen, Toronto attorney for the United Automobile Workers of America, was the first to arrive at Hepburn's office this afternoon. He was followed by Harry J. Carmichael, vice president of General Motors of Canada, and J. B. Highfield, general manager of General Motors plants in Canada. At no time were the two sides brought together in joint conference.

The following statement was issued by Hepburn at the end of the afternoon:

"Mr. Cohen and Mr. Carmichael this morning discussed and agreed upon a conference in Mr. Hepburn's office this afternoon. Mr. Hepburn readily assented to the agreement and the two groups came here.

"Mr. Cohen states that he and Mr. Millard [C. H. Millard, president of the Oshawa local of the U. A. W. A.] represent the employés of General Motors at Oshawa and that neither he [Cohen] nor Millard is instructed by or represents the committee known as the C. I. O.

"Mr. Cohen has definite word from Mr. Martin that neither Mr. Martin nor Mr. Thompson is returning to Oshawa during negotiations."

Leaves for Washington.

Hugh Thompson, C. I. O. organizer at Oshawa, left there hurriedly this afternoon with the announcement that he was going to Washington, D. C., to discuss the Oshawa situation with Homer Martin, international president of the U. A. W. A. Martin has been attending an executive board session of the U. A. W. A.

Hepburn was jubilant over the departure of Thompson. "It's the C. I. O. I've been after," the premier said.

The premier brushed aside all inquiries as to whether the union negotiators would be recognized as representing the U. A. W. A., one of the ten unions affiliated under the C. I. O. His only comment was that "there doesn't seem to be much demarcation between the two."

Attempts to enter into negotiations were broken off abruptly last Saturday afternoon when the premier found Cohen in Hepburn's private vault, telephoning to Martin at Oshawa. Hepburn broke up the conference with the remark that it was "being run by remote control of paid foreign agitators."

C. I. O. Loses Voice.

The agreement today was the first which settled the status of striker representatives. Hepburn's remarks indicated that they will come here tomorrow without being recognized in any other than an individual way.

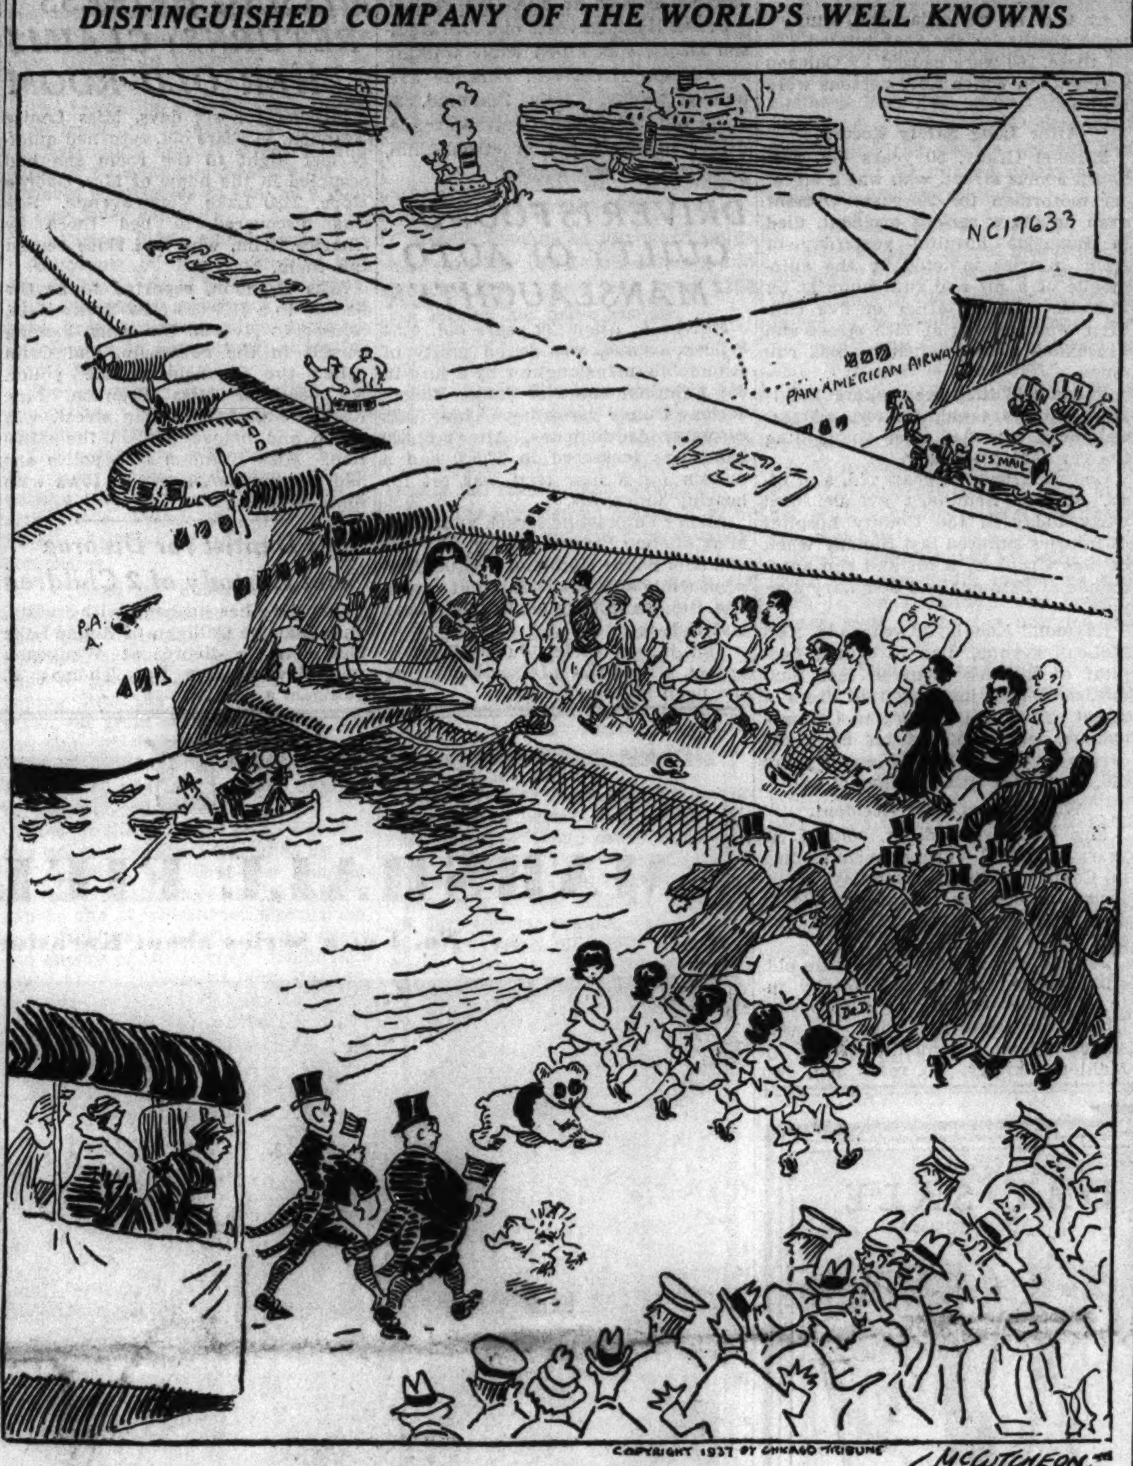
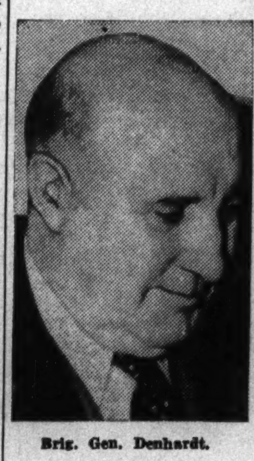
THE FIRST ATLANTIC PASSENGER FLIGHT SHOULD CARRY A DISTINGUISHED COMPANY OF THE WORLD'S WELL KNOWNS



Denhardt Case Testimony Due to Start Today

New Castle, Ky., April 21.—[Special.]—The commonwealth of Kentucky tonight stood ready to begin the presentation of evidence tomorrow in the trial of Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, world war hero and former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of the state.



Brig. Gen. Denhardt.

He is charged with the murder of his beautiful fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, belle of Henry and Oldham counties. Ten veniremen were accepted today and the jury is expected to be completed early tomorrow.

A tragic story resembling the plot of a successful mystery novel will begin to unfold as the first state witness takes the stand. Beauty, wealth, power, social prestige, love, and a mysterious midnight murder on a lonely road are elements of the case which has stirred all Kentucky.

Family Famous for a Century.

Mrs. Taylor, who at 40 was acknowledged one of the most beautiful women in the state, was shot and killed on the evening of last Nov. 6, on a country road five miles east of La Grange, which was her home. A slim, willowy brunette, she was a daughter of the Garr family, socially prominent in Oldham county for more than a century.

While yet in her teens she married Rowan Barclay Taylor, member of another old La Grange family which traces its lineage to Gen. Zachary Taylor, hero of the Mexican war. Her husband died in 1931, leaving two daughters, now 17 and 22 years old. Both have married since their mother's death.

Mrs. Taylor met Denhardt, a swashbuckling soldier-politician, in May of 1936. Then 61 years old, he still was a vigorous figure. He had retired from politics and was operating his 800 acre farm near La Grange, but the glamor of his past still clung about him, and he carried himself as a typical militant Kentucky cavalier.

Denhardt is a veteran of three wars, the Spanish-American, the Mexican border expeditions of 1916, and the world war. In the latter conflict he distinguished himself in the St. Mihiel offensive and thrice was decorated for valor.

Returning to Kentucky he became lieutenant governor, serving from 1923 to 1927, and adjutant general from 1931 to 1935. He still commands two regiments of Kentucky and West Virginia national guard infantry and is a brigadier general of the army reserve.

According to Denhardt's own story, he fell in love with Mrs. Taylor the first time he saw her.

There was a whirlwind wooing and in October, 1936, the general told close friends that he and the comely widow would be married soon.

Daughters Opposed to Match.

Mrs. Taylor's daughters, however, objected violently, and her brothers, Roy and Dr. E. S. Garr, also opposed the match.

On the day of the tragedy the couple drove into Louisville and returned to La Grange early in the evening. Then they drove out the country road, Denhardt says, to have a quiet chat and to allow Mrs. Taylor to breathe cool air because she had a headache.

Two hours later searchers along the road found Mrs. Taylor's body with a bullet through the heart. Beside her lay a long barreled .45 caliber service revolver, identified by Gen. Denhardt as his own. He said she had taken the weapon from a pocket in his automobile, run up the road, and shot herself.

RULER OF 270 MILLION HINDUS WILL FLY TO ANOINT BRITISH KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21.—Five Hindus, headed by the Shri Shankaracharya, who is the religious ruler of 270,000,000 Hindus, plan to fly to London from Delhi, India, so the shri can bless King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain at the coronation on May 12, Indians announced here today.

The Hindus are waiting for astrologers to pick the best moment for a takeoff. The shri will inspire his pilots by reading aloud constantly throughout the flight from the Hindus' holy book. The Hindus will live on dried fruits and milk during the trip.

They will bring with them holy water from the Ganges river, sandalwood paste, Nimba leaves, coconuts and rice mixed with kumkum powder, all of which are required for anointing the king and queen.

Roosevelt Off Wednesday for Fishing in Gulf

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—As he has often done before after introducing a controversial subject to occupy congress President Roosevelt will go on a vacation next Wednesday.

Mr. Roosevelt today announced details of the fishing trip which he has mapped out for himself in the Gulf of Mexico. He will leave the senate and the house stewing over the "economy" plea he sent up yesterday in connection with his message on a revised budget and the relief appropriation.

Home Just a Month.

He will have been home just one month when he departs again next week for another two week pleasure jaunt which may be lengthened as was his last one.

The President's first stop after leaving Washington will be at Biloxi, Miss., on the gulf coast. He will motor to Beauvoir, the old home of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy, and now a confederate veterans' home, as a diplomatic gesture toward southern Democrats who have been showing a tendency to drift away from the New Deal.

From Beauvoir the President will motor to New Orleans, where he will arrive on the morning of April 29. After a luncheon there he will board the presidential yacht, Potomac, and cruise out into the gulf to fish for tarpon.

Plans to Visit Son.

A navy cruiser will accompany the yacht. For ten days or more the President plans to try his hand at deep sea fishing. White House headquarters will be maintained at Galveston, Tex., where Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre will have a small staff of employés. Mr. Roosevelt will keep in touch with headquarters by wireless.

At the end of the fishing trip the President will cruise into Galveston. He will go from there to Fort Worth, Tex., where he plans to spend a couple of days with his son Elliott.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 21.—(AP)—Clark Gable rewarded faithful feminine court attendants with a second brief appearance on the stand today to close the government's mail fraud case against Mrs. Violet Norton, who claimed him as the father of her illegitimate child.

The movie actor, whose carefully sober attire was slightly disarranged by crowding women admirers when he came to court for his debut as a witness yesterday, was recalled only to identify checks paid him in Oregon in 1923. It was in that year Mrs. Norton said she had an affair with him in England under the name of Frank Billings.

An excited crowd of women, smaller than yesterday's, appeared again today.

Hides Until He's Called.

Seeking to avoid a repetition of yesterday's experience, Gable hid behind locked doors in the federal building until time for his brief appearance at the end of a court session in which:

1. It was stated that Mrs. Norton's alleged aids mentioned creation of a $150,000 trust fund for her daughter, Gwendoline, who she claims is the movie actor's child.

2. Gwendoline also made a brief appearance on the stand, but did not meet Gable.

3. A letter from Mrs. Norton to Actress Mae West was read stating, "she is Clark Gable's love child, all right," and describing details of Mrs. Norton's illicit love affair with the man she believed to be Gable.

4. Film studio officials testified they were told "a nasty mess has arisen concerning Clark Gable" and that offers were made to divert, for money, a lawsuit against him allegedly in preparation.

Charged with Letter Writing.

The tall, buxom defendant is charged with having written letters to Gable and others, declaring him to be the father of Gwendoline and demanding support for her.

Four Oregon residents, U. Ernest Nelson, Chris Neilsen, and Margaret Liesure, of Portland, and M. T. Woodward of Silverton, were called to establish that Gable was working there during the years Mrs. Norton said she was his mistress in England. His salary as a lumber worker, Woodward said, smiling, was $3.20 a day in 1923.

From Ralph Wheelwright, M-G-M studio press agent, came the testimony about the $150,000 trust fund. He said Jack L. Smith, private detective and co-defendant with Mrs. Norton, mentioned it to him.

Held It a Frameup.

Wheelwright said he told Smith the studio and Gable considered "the whole thing a preposterous frameup" and that Smith said he thought so, too.

"But he mentioned creating a $150,000 trust fund for Gwendoline. He said he didn't expect to get all of that, but hoped to get a chunk of it."

Gwendoline went on the stand to say that Frank Keenan of Winnipeg, Canada, had financed her trip to California. Keenan also has been named in the indictment, but is not present at the trial.

UNION OFFICIAL'S LOMBARD HOME TARGET OF RING

Dig Into Labor War in Dynamite Quiz.

The sixth bomb in a series of outrages in the Chicago area exploded at 9 o'clock last night at the home of Earl H. Rieck, secretary-treasurer of the Du Page County Building Trades council, at 44 3d avenue, Lombard.

The blast tore a hole in a concrete driveway 50 feet from the house, and shattered all the windows in the garage, into which Rieck had driven his automobile fifteen minutes earlier. He was in the house with his wife and son, 8 years old, when the explosion occurred.

Rieck said he had received no warnings, and knew of no reason for the attack. He declared there has been no recent dispute affecting building trades workmen in Du Page county.

Courtney in Charge.

In Chicago State's Attorney Courtney took personal charge of investigation of the five bombings which were set off in rapid succession in Cook county late Tuesday and early yesterday morning. His investigators attributed all the attacks to a gang of professional dynamiters, pointing out that this theory was supported by the very fact that the motives for most of the attacks appeared to be unconnected.

It is common knowledge that whatever the motive for a bombing the job is almost always turned over to organized professionals. Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police, inclined to the belief that such a gang had allowed its orders for outrages to accumulate and then had perpetrated all in a single night, with the hope that the obvious lack of connecting motives would baffle authorities.

Ten Bombings This Year.

Already this year the number of bombings in Cook county totals ten, more than took place in the whole of 1936. In 1931, two years before Mr. Courtney took office, bombings reached an all-time high with a total of 116.

During his term of office they declined steadily, last year dropping to eight. This marked the virtual extinction of this form of terrorism. Mr. Courtney convicted and sent to prison members of several bombing rings.

The first two of the series of bombings were in north shore suburbs, directed against buildings in which nonunion painters, working under the old Landis award, were engaged in renovation. Then a northwest side dairy plant was bombed, presumably because of price cutting, which has been a frequent source of past disorder in the milk industry. Next the south side homes of two officials of the operating engineers' union, a conservative labor organization with no previous record of violence, were bomb targets.

Same Crew Indicated.

"The interval between these explosions was sufficient that the same bombing crew could have started in Wilmette, where the first bomb was thrown, gone to the Lake Shore Country club to throw the second, stopped at the milk depot, and then gone to the south side," said Capt. Gilbert.

Gilbert assigned three detective squads to the investigation, ordered a pickup of James Belcastro, long touted as king of the bombers, and with Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan took charge of investigation of the two suburban bombings.

Painting and decorating work was being done at the Lake Shore Country club, in Glencoe, and also in the residence of Perry L. Smithers, Chicago insurance executive, at 711 Lake avenue, Wilmette, where the first bomb exploded. The work was being done by the Arthur M. Gelden company, 1240 North Wells street. Gelden is a member of the Landis Award Contractors' association and employs nonunion painters and decorators furnished by the association.

The Landis Award.

The Landis award was made in September, 1921, by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, then a federal district judge, but acting as an impartial wage arbitrator. When Chicago building trades unions refused to accept the award a fund of several million dollars was raised to bring building mechanics to the city to work under the terms of the award.

Charles L. Peirce, executive vice president of the Landis Award Contractors' association, said yesterday that the organization has a membership of several hundred contractors, employing about 12,000 building mechanics. The workmen carry cards issued by the association, but pay it no dues.

Landis award mechanics work a forty hour week at $1 an hour for all trades. The union building trades scale is $1.50 an hour, with negotiations now pending on a raise to $1.70 an hour. Union painters already get $10 for a six hour day.

Hard to Get Off-Season Work.

Although the city has an actual shortage of union painters and decorators during the present moving season, the painters have difficulty finding work at the union scale during other seasons. The result has been a fairly widespread practice of evasion by union painters who have been working secretly after the close of their official work day, or over week-ends, at lower rates of pay. Painters caught in such practices face dismissal from the union.

Gelden asked and obtained a police guard for his offices on North Wells street as soon as he learned of the two north shore bombings. He is to talk to Capt. Gilbert today. He said yesterday that he had received no threats or suggestions that he employ union labor, and knew of no attempts to unionize his workmen.

The other three bombings were at the plant of the Kedzie Creamery company, 4263 Elston avenue, and at the homes of the two union officials, Anton J. Imhahn, 7920 South Sangamon street, and A. J. Landvogt, 9044 South May street.

One Slim Clew.

Imhahn, who is an international vice president of the operating engineers' union, and Landvogt, who is secretary of local 399 of the organization, could give Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police only one clew to the bombing of their homes, and that a slim one.

Imhahn said his home was bombed in 1928. At that time, he said, the union was having trouble with a radical faction among its membership. This faction was driven out of the union shortly afterward, and most of its leaders have left the city since, he asserted.

At Lieut. Egan's request Imhahn and Landvogt submitted the books of local 399 for inspection by state's attorney's auditors. The books were found to be in excellent condition, Lieut. Egan said.

VISITING JUDGES GET ILLEGAL PAY, COURTNEY HOLDS

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday advised Sherif John Toman that the Circuit court had no authority to authorize him to pay visiting country judges from fees collected in the marriage court. For many years the visitors have been paid from this fund and a county board appropriation.

The visiting judges have been under fire from Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, who contends their unfamiliarity with city conditions has cost the city unwaranted damages in personal injury suits.

Because he might be sent to jail for contempt by the Circuit judges, Sherif Toman said he would continue paying the visitors from the fund, which now totals $20,000, but would ask the county board to assume responsibility for the payments at its next meeting.

DRIVER IS FOUND GUILTY OF AUTO MANSLAUGHTER

Melvin A. Allen, 29 years old, 4454 Wilcox avenue, was found guilty of automobile manslaughter by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday. The jurors recommended leniency. Allen's $1,500 bond was increased to $3,500 and a motion for a new trial was set for hearing tomorrow.

Allen's automobile struck and killed Miss Adeline Florence Stech, 23 years old, 3610 South Highland avenue, Berwyn, while she was walking at Ogden and Ridgeland avenues in the suburb last Feb. 9.

SO. HAVEN GIRL IS CHOSEN 1937 BLOSSOM QUEEN

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 21.—[Special.]—Blonde Alice Merson—Miss South Haven—was chosen tonight to reign as queen of Michigan's annual Blossom festival in the twin cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph May 2 to 9. She is the first South Haven girl ever to win the honor.

The new queen is 5 feet 6½ inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. She's a business girl of 22. Her eyes are hazel. The gown she wore tonight was of peach chiffon. Her slippers and belt were of silver.

Second place was won by Miss Battle Creek—Sarah Jane Baxter; third by Miss Dowagiac—Gladys Cauffman; and fourth by Miss Kalamazoo—Loraine Pierce.

MISSING HEIRESS RETURNS; CLAIMS HER OLD ROOM

Missing for six days, Miss Louise Brandon, 34 years old, returned quietly last night to the room she had occupied in the home of Mrs. George Hope, 2480 Lake View avenue. She was discovered in bed there by Charles Orlin, who had since rented the room.

Miss Brandon, reported to be the heiress to a $100,000 New York estate, refused to give up the room, locking herself in the bathroom, and Orlin called the Sheffield avenue police. A friend of Miss Brandon, Mrs. Rachel Brand, 66 Cedar street, was called and helped explain the situation. Miss Brandon told police she had taken a motor trip to Iowa with some friends.

A general effort by unions affiliated with the Chicago Building Trades council to effect a restoration of 1932 wage levels brought results yesterday as far as 9,000 members of the bricklayers' union, local 21, are concerned.

The 1932 scale of $1.70 an hour will go into effect July 1, according to an agreement of the union with the Associated Builders of Chicago. The bricklayers have been receiving $1.50. Their contract expires May 31, but a month's extension was agreed on to permit present jobs to be finished at the old rate.

Plasterers, steam fitters, plumbers, electricians and lathers are negotiating now for the $1.70 an hour figure of 1932. Members of other crafts want $1.62½ cents, or $13 for an 8 hour day. Patrick Sullivan, president of the trades council, said 110,000 men are in affiliated unions.

FREE GIRLS WHO AGREE TO BE NICE TO POLICEMEN

Two young women from Steubenville, O., promised Judge Joseph B. Hermes yesterday that they wouldn't even think of striking another Chicago policeman. So that they wouldn't be tempted, they said, they'd go back to Steubenville immediately.

On the promise, the judge suspended the fines of $100 each he had imposed when he heard Policeman Thomas Zang's story that he had ducked too late to avoid a left hook aimed at him at 63d street and Woodlawn avenue earlier yesterday by Miss Doris Johnson.

Miss Johnson and her companion, Miss Lola Reid, are both 22 years old. They recently both won divorces, and Tuesday night they left 6118 Kenwood avenue, where they were visiting, to celebrate.

WARDEN DEFENDS PINK PANTIES ON UNRULY INMATES

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 21.—[Special.]—Warden Fred Hunt of the Granite, Okla., reformatory, had a sharp retort tonight for Chicago psychiatrists who criticized his method of punishing prisoners by dressing them in pink panties and forcing them to sit in the prison rotunda.

"Ridicule is the best punishment in the world," Warden Hunt said. "It's like standing a child in school with a dunce cap on his head. A town as noted for its gangsters and law breaking as Chicago has no business criticizing."

The warden was replying to a statement by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the Cook county behavior clinic; Dr. David B. Rotman, director of the Chicago Municipal court psychiatric institute, and Prof. Robert H. Gault of Northwestern university. They described the punishment as silly and warned of the danger of encouraging youths with abnormal tendencies.

CASHIER COMES OUT AHEAD IN A CURB EXCHANGE

As two customers left the restaurant of the Ridgeview hotel, 901 Maple avenue, Evanston, the cashier, Mrs. Elizabeth Lapp, noticed she had been short changed $6. She ran after the men, and seized one of them by the coattails. He handed back $3, but the cashier protested that she wanted $3 more.

"I've only this dollar left," said the customer, flinging a bill on the sidewalk, and climbing into an automobile. As the men drove away Mrs. Lapp looked at the money. Instead of $1 it was a $10 bill.

$1,760,000 SLICED OFF BUDGET FOR RIVER PROJECTS

Davenport, Ia., April 21.—[Special.]—The Rock Island district army engineers allotment of $11,200,000 for the fiscal year has been cut by $1,760,000, it was announced today by Lieut. Col. E. E. Gesler, district engineer.

This cut will not affect projects now in progress, he said, but advertisments for bids on the $100,000 power control and lighting project at Dam 12 at Bellevue, Ia., will be withdrawn. Many other plans of the district will be suspended until funds are available.

No. 1 of a Series about Karastan Rugs

"THE WONDER RUGS OF AMERICA"

Skilled Oriental weavers, sitting crosslegged in front of hand looms, patiently knotted the superb originals used as the patterns of Karastan Rugs. Knot for knot, color for color, the clever mechanical "fingers" of Karastan looms duplicate these patterns so exactly that you must make a minute examination to tell which is Karastan and which is original Oriental.

Karastan Rugs are not copies or adaptations . . . they are bona-fide reproductions of true Persian designs. Yarn, color, texture, lustre duplicate to perfection the intrinsic qualities of fine Orientals. Not one single element is lost—it's all there!

And because of the ingenuity of these Karastan "fingers," you can have the joy of owning a magnificent Karastan Rug for a comparatively modest investment.

Karastans are available in many patterns and sizes

ILLINOIS HOUSE TURNS CHEEK AS SENATE SMITES

Plan Works; Unparalleled Feud Calms Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 21.—[Special.]—An all time high for interchamber heat in the Illinois general assembly was established today when the senate removed from its calendar all bills which had originated in the house and tied them up in committees along with all other house measures in its possession. It was estimated that 100 house bills were thus virtually pigeonholed.

For a time it appeared that a stubborn deadlock would ensue in all business in both chambers, but the house made a show of magnanimity by taking up two senate bills ahead of their regular order and passing them by large majorities. One of these was the bill of Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago] to increase the pegged tax levy for the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium from $2,500,000 to $2,850,000.

After some hours the senate's wrath ebbed so much that it declared its intention to release the sales tax extension bills next Tuesday for passage at a post-midnight session Wednesday night.

Trouble Brewing for Weeks.

The day's hostilities trace their origin remotely to the defeat in the house several weeks ago of a bill to limit the admission charge for boxing matches to $10 a seat. The senate, which had unanimously passed this measure, felt affronted.

Yesterday its temper rose when the house approved a motion of Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, the minority leader, to delete the enacting clause from a measure against ambulance chasers which had been sponsored in the senate by Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, the Republican leader.

Senator Searcy promptly accused Representative Schnackenberg and Speaker Louie E. Lewis of collusion in killing his bill.

Last night a deadlock developed in the conference committee of the Chicago park district's pegged tax levy bill. When the seven house conferees stanchly refused to hold hearings in Chicago on the measure, the chairman, Senator Ward, announced that the senate committeemen would hold their own hearing at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the Chicago city council chamber.

Senators Decide on Hostilities.

After that the senate leaders decided to declare war on the house today. Accordingly Searcy opened the action with a motion to take all house bills off the calendar and refer them to the executive committee. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, president of the senate, announced that fourteen other bills sent over from the house and lying on his table would follow the same course.

When word of this development reached the house, the majority leader, Benjamin S. Adamowski, Chicago, got the floor and told what had happened.

"I hope," he said, "that the house won't descend to the same level. We shall conduct ourselves as ladies and gentlemen and not descend to anything so silly and ridiculous."

Conciliatory Gestures Made.

Schnackenberg spoke in a similar vein and Speaker Lewis protested the sincerity of his motives in the bill slaughter. Adamowski then moved that the two senate bills be taken up on the third reading ahead of their order. As a final gesture a bill identical with Searcy's ambulance chaser measure was introduced by Representative Reed F. Cutler of Lewiston.

The feud was blamed by some observers on the suppressed enmity between Gov. Horner's forces, who control the house, and the Nash-Kelly leaders, who rule the senate.

HELD AS WOMAN'S ATTACKER.

Charles Garcia, 28 years old, 3029 North Clark street, was held by Sheffield avenue police yesterday after he was identified by Mrs. Rhodius Elofson, 38 years old, 3224 Diversey avenue, as the man who attempted to attack her at Belmont avenue and Halsted street.

IN DIVORCE COURTS

MRS. JOHN RAILTON.

Mrs. Margery Luxem Railton, 1209 Astor street, outlined yesterday in Superior court the style of living to which she said her husband, John A. Railton, accustomed her after their marriage five years ago. Mr. Railton is president of the B. A. Railton company, wholesale grocers.

Mrs. Railton is suing for divorce on the ground of cruelty and Judge John C. Lewe, after hearing proof of this charge yesterday, listened to evidence on which to base his alimony award.

According to a stipulation, Railton has a $35,000 income, yearly dividends of $15,000, $25,000 life insurance, and one-quarter interest in the grocery concern. Disputing his charge that she can support herself Mrs. Railton said her former job as a $25 a week mannequin is not suitable after her husband accustomed her to $13,500 home furnishings, a troop of servants, a $5,500 automobile, an $800 a month household allowance, jewelry worth $9,000, a $4,000 mink coat, three cases of liquor a week, and lavish entertainment.

EDITH MASON.

Reno, Nev., April 21.—[Special.]—Edith Mason Polacco, former prima donna of the Chicago and Metropolitan Opera companies, was granted a divorce here today from Giorgio Polacco, noted operatic conductor, whom she divorced once before. They were married a second time May 15, 1931, at Zurich, Switzerland. In interim she was married to and divorced Dr. Maurice A. Bernstein of Chicago.

At the hearing, which was held behind closed doors, Miss Mason charged mental cruelty. By a written agreement, she retains custody of their daughter, Graziella, 12 years old. A property settlement also was made out of court.

SENTENCED AFTER BRAWL.

Roy Jones, 20 years old, 5937 South Elizabeth street, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court yesterday for assault in a tavern brawl on Jan. 23.

ASSEMBLY URGES HORNER TO WAR UPON RAG WEED

Asks Call for State-Wide Drive in August.

Springfield, Ill., April 21.—[Special.]—The Illinois house of representatives launched today a campaign against ragweed, which is regarded by medical authorities as the principal cause of hay fever.

With a chorus of assent from every member present, the house approved the Wilson resolution, calling upon Gov. Horner to designate Aug. 8 to 22 as ragweed destruction days.

The resolution also proposes the establishment of an extensive program of destruction against weeds in general—as an economic measure for the farmers themselves as well as a boon to hay fever sufferers.

Expect Wide Coöperation.

Advocates of the resolution predicted that it would be the forerunner of a state-wide movement in which farm organizations, medical societies, and leaders in agricultural education would join.

The governor is supporting the resolution. Senate concurrence is expected next week.

The resolution was drawn by J. H. Lloyd, incoming director of agriculture. It was introduced by Representative Frank B. Wilson [D., Polo], chairman of the agricultural committee.

Head Off Pollen Crop.

Medical authorities pointed out that the beginning of ragweed destruction on Aug. 8 would be just in time to prevent the pollen from escaping into the air. The pollen is given off from Aug. 10 to 15 up to the time of the first frost.

Some physicians attribute 70 per cent of the hay fever of late summer to the ragweed pollen.

Foes of the ragweed point out that the pollen is carried for miles by the air currents, and that the only effective campaign against its ravages can be one of widespread dimensions.

Agricultural leaders term weeds the enemy of the farmer. They take much of the nutriment from the soil, say the farm experts, and the best of it is lost in the pollen, which is comparable to the fruit of many plants in richness.

PUT BEES ON AIR; DROP A HIVE AND STAF TAKES AIR

Boston, Mass., April 21.—(AP)—A swarm of 30,000 bees tonight took possession of a studio at radio station WEEI when their keeper accidentally dropped their hive.

John Van De Poele, apiarist of the state department of agriculture, had taken 50,000 bees to the station so that the drone of the immense swarm might be reproduced in a broadcast.

The broadcast was successful, but one of the two hives slipped on the way out, causing the greatest radio station excitement since a lion broke loose in another Boston studio several years ago.

Using a smoke gun, Van De Poele attempted to chase the bees back into the hive. He suffered 300 stings and said he would have to kill 10,000 bees to clear the room.

Bessie Plaskus as she heard judge sentence her for drunk driving, and Charles Rusk, who was fined $200 for letting her drive his car.

Mrs. Bessie Plaskus, 25 years old, 7623 Aberdeen street, was sentenced by Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court yesterday to 20 days in the county jail for drunken driving.

She was arrested on March 30 after driving an automobile into a street car at 59th street and Princeton avenue. Her escort, Charles Rusk, 39 years old, 8417 Oglesby avenue, was fined $200 for disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Mary Reid, 45 years old, 114 Home avenue, Oak Park, a widow who was found guilty last Friday of reckless driving, appeared before Judge Weiss yesterday and was sent to jail for ten days.

Three youths charged with speeding appeared before Judge John Gutknecht in the Traffic court yesterday. One is Donald Thackeray, 16 years old, 512 Orchard lane, Winnetka. The others are Robert Randall, 22 years old, 7410 Rhodes avenue, and Louis J. Hoey, 18 years old, 1518 East 71st street. Randall was forbidden to drive his car until May 10. Thackeray and Hoey were ordered not to drive until June 14.

Seventeen years ago Mrs. E. O. Palmer lost her diamond engagement ring on the lawn of her home at 636 Park boulevard, Glen Ellyn. When she sold the property to Paul Green eight years ago she told him and his son Christie to keep an eye out for the ring.

They were spading up the lawn to plant grass seed yesterday when Christie, who is 16, turned up the ring.

Mrs. Palmer, who now lives in Warrenville, west of Wheaton, gave him a reward of $100.

Girl Runs Away to Escape Onions in Dad's Grocery

Celia Russo, 19 years old, who ran away from her home at Peru, Ind., last Sunday, was found sleeping in a hallway at 91st street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday. "When a girl is 19 her father has no right to spank her," she told the police. "Anyway I don't like the smell of onions in his grocery." She was turned over to the Travelers' Aid society.

TEACHER TELLS OF 1927 INJURY AT RAPE TRIAL

Claims Crime Impossible for Him.

Edward Strobel, 45 years old, a former school gymnasium teacher accused of the statutory rape of a former girl pupil 15 years old, told a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert Crowe O'Connell yesterday that for the last eight years he has been physically incapable of committing such an offense.

This testimony was admitted to the record over objections by Prosecutor Emmett Moynihan after the mild mannered, bespectacled defendant had denied the charge against him and told of an alleged blackmail attempt by the girl's family.

Denies Secret Meeting.

"I never had a secret meeting with the girl," Strobel testified under the questioning of his attorney, James M. Burke. "Neither did I embrace her nor make any indecent proposals to her. This case is blackmail."

The state has contended that Strobel, while a physical education instructor at the Darwin elementary school, invited the girl to his home at 4004 Nelson street last Oct. 15 to help her with a history lesson and there attacked her.

Strobel testified that his wife, Rose [who has repeatedly reiterated her faith in her husband], was present during most of the ten minutes the girl spent in his home.

Tells of Accident.

As to his infirmity, Strobel testified that it was caused by serious injuries incurred in an automobile accident ten years ago.

The witness testified that after his injury he submitted to one examination in the Robert Burns hospital and to another by Dr. Benjamin Breakstone, 55 East Washington street. Attorney Burke promised that Dr. Breakstone and a hospital representative will be called as witnesses before the case goes to the jury today.

Strobel told the jurors that last Jan. 16 he was summoned to the office of Attorney Earl J. Walker at 30 North La Salle street. Attorney Walker said the girl's mother was demanding money and a week later suggested that Strobel pay $1,000, the defendant testified. He said he had persistently denied the charges and refused to pay.

Strobel also told of the insanitary condition of his cell in the Maxwell street station. He is contending that his confession, now part of the evidence, was signed to avoid a return to a cell overrun with rats and vermin.

VALLEE IS GUILTY AS A ROWDY, BUT COURT RULES A FINE IS 'OUT'

Boston, Mass., April 21.—[Special.]—Rudy Vallee, lightweight crooner who wouldn't mind being called the "fighting Irishman," was convicted of assault and battery today in a courtroom session at which there was standing room only.

It seems the curly haired singer brawled with a Boston newspaper photographer over some picture snapping, and also because Rudy allegedly called the camera man a name reflecting on the Irish.

Vallee denied that he "punched or struck with my fist or elbow," and explained why he never would have called his opponent, Benedict Fitzgerald, a name "reflecting on the Irish."

"Being of Irish extraction myself," the diminutive orchestra leader said proudly, "I hardly would have used such an epithet."

Municipal Judge Daniel J. Gillen let Vallee off by placing the charge "on file." The judge said Rudy would not have to pay a fine and that by placing the charge "on file" he would not have a record in the eyes of police.

VALENCIA FEARS REBELS WILL USE GAS IF DEFEATED

Ready with 'All Means' to Meet Attack.

VALENCIA, Spain, April 21.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight declared it "would instantly have to take recourse to all means in its power" if the rebels adopted poison gas as a civil war weapon.

Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo made the declaration in a note to Great Britain replying to a British request of April 10, also made to the rebel leader, Gen. Francisco Franco, for guarantees gas would not be used.

The Spanish reply declared the government considered itself "under no obligations to offer any guarantee of its future actions other than of its conduct throughout the past." The note, however, disavowed any intention of initiating use of gas.

Del Vayo's reply charged the rebels had committed every "imaginable infamy" in conducting the war.

Plan Blockade Dash.

LONDON, April 21.—(AP)—Two food laden British freighters were reported tonight waiting at St. Jean de Luz, France, ready to run the Spanish rebel blockade into Bilbao, besieged Basque capital.

"If those two ships start toward Bilbao, there are plenty of our warships in the vicinity to rush to their assistance quickly if they are molested on the high seas," an admiralty spokesman said. "We'll see they are protected until they reach the three mile limit, then they'll proceed at their own risk," he declared.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, reëmphasized the government's policy in the house of commons today, replying to opposition questions.

Dutch Sailors Freed.

AMSTERDAM, April 21.—(AP)—The Netherlands government received word tonight that officers and crew of the Dutch steamer Andra were safe. The Andra was captured two weeks ago by Spanish rebels.

The Netherlands legation at Lisbon, Portugal, informed the foreign office here that the crew had been liberated by rebel captors at Salamanca and that reports officers of the ship had been executed were without foundation.

Hula Dancer Dies

San Pedro, Cal., April 21.—(AP)—Mae Purdue, 23, dancer, died today of burns suffered when her grass hula skirt was ignited at a water front café last night. Detectives H. L. Evans and Roscoe Sewell held Mathew Donahue, 57, a mechanic, while they investigated a report he ignited Miss Purdue's skirt when she refused him a date. Donahue denied the charge.

MADRID TOLL HITS 200 IN 10TH DAY OF REBEL ATTACK

Shell Blasts, Flying Debris Spread Death.

MADRID, April 21.—(AP)—Rebel shells, pounding mercilessly for hours in the fiercest bombardment in the half year siege of Madrid, caused the havoc today that the world's capitals dread in modern war. The barrage started before dawn and lasted throughout the daylight hours. Fully 250 shells found targets in this metropolis of 1,000,000 population.

It was the tenth successive day of rebel shelling and raised the total of known fatalities to approximately 200 with at least twice that number wounded. Thirty-two persons were known to have been killed this morning alone.

The Gran Via, the "Broadway" of Madrid, literally had become a major war front. Deafening explosions followed by the sickening crash of falling débris, came steadily. Rebel batteries raked the city with a machine gun type of fire from easily maneuvered anti-aircraft guns, interspersed with the heavy explosives of large cannon. Widespread sections were punished.

15 Wounded in Street Car.

A shell striking a street car wounded 15 passengers. One woman was carried out with her legs splintered. A man and his wife were killed in their bed in an apartment building. One shell fell in a large bank building, killing five employés and customers and wounding 20 persons.

Explosions dug deep holes in the sidewalks and swept like gusts of wind through doors where the glass had been blown out. Each time, people fell injured and others dragged them to the subway entrances or to first aid stations.

Persons caught downtown thronged the subway tunnels and building basements to escape the spray of shrapnel. They waited for hours, fearful of venturing home.

Shells fell at intervals of two and three minutes, sometimes at 30 second intervals. Militiamen with drawn pistols halted automobiles and commandeered them for ambulances.

Aid Station Crowded.

In the Telephone building doctors and nurses worked feverishly in an improvised first aid station in the basement. Militiamen and passersby streamed in with wounded, some on stretchers and others laid out on men's coats. Four out of 15 patients died within a half hour.

The explosives fell two-thirds of the way across the city, several in the historic Puerta de Alcala built by Charles III., which still bears the marks of cannon balls fired by Napoleon's army.

Government officials ascribed the fierce bombardment to an attempt by rebels to force the defense army to release its stranglehold on University City, the devastated model education center in Madrid's northwest. Efforts of the rebels to relieve a crack garrison of 3,000 men, isolated there supposedly with dwindling supplies of food and water, have failed.

Renew Push Toward Bilbao.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, April 21.—(AP)—The Basque government and Gen. Emilio Mola's rebels both claimed victory today in fresh fighting through the tumbled Basque hills rising southeast of Bilbao the beleaguered Biscayan capital.

Farther south, the rebels said, 150 new 10 inch siege guns broke through the Basque defense lines in the Vergara sector where Carlist volunteers and Foreign Legionnaires thrust toward the coast. The Basques were subjected to a machine gun strafing by 30 rebel planes.

Both sides claimed possession of El Gueta, a village nestling below three-humped Mount Inchorta. Capture of the mountain would give Gen. Mola command of two highways leading to Durango and enable him to tighten his lines around Bilbao.

PRINCE JUAN BELIEVED FRANCO'S CHOICE FOR NEW SPANISH RULER

SALAMANCA, Spain, April 21.—(AP)—Monarchist leaders tonight disclosed rebel Gen. Francisco Franco's statement, "The door is left open" for a king resulted in a virtual agreement between Carlists and Bourbon supporters that Prince Juan, youngest son of Alfonso XIII., would occupy the throne if a restoration occurs.

Carlists said the prince of the Asturias, 23 years old, would be acceptable to them since their pretender, Prince Carlos of the senior Bourbon line, died childless in Vienna last year.

"The new Spain needs a new king," said a Carlist leader after Gen Franco's decree creating an authoritarian state abolished all old political parties and created a single party system. "We traditionalists prefer the prince of Asturias, who is a known sympathizer with the ideals of the new Spain," he declared.

Errol Flynn Miffed Over Spanish War Fund Report

Errol Flynn, swashbuckling movie star and author, had no part in raising a $1,500,000 fund in Hollywood for the Spanish loyalists. In fact, Mr. Flynn who passed through here en route from Spain, where he was assembling material for a magazine article, was angry at the reports emanating from the west coast. "I was in Spain as a neutral to see what really was going on," said the actor, who was accompanied by two tawny lion dogs from Africa.

MUSSOLINI TO CUT TIES, LET AUSTRIA SHIFT FOR ITSELF

New Bonds with Hitler Prompt Change.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VENICE, Italy, April 21.—With the canals of Venice as a background, Premier Mussolini will meet Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria tomorrow to close with appropriate solemnity one page of Italian diplomatic history and begin another.

In well informed circles it is believed Il Duce's main purpose in inviting the chancellor to the conference is to scrap the Fascist version of the Monroe Doctrine for central Europe which three years ago, after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, prompted a dramatic Italian mobilization on Brenner pass.

Now, although Italy is as interested as ever in Austria's independence and her imperial preoccupations, her entente with Germany and Germany's rearmament make it impractical or impossible for her to maintain the same kind of watch dog protectorate over Austria that has long been the keystone of Fascist foreign policy.

Direct Aid to Be Withdrawn.

Instead Il Duce will offer Schuschnigg, it is believed, diplomatic support in negotiating more secure relations with Germany and Austria's Balkan neighbors, for doubtless he will stress the value of Italy's close understanding with Germany and her newly cemented friendship with Jugo-Slavia in attaining this objective.

Austria will thus continue to benefit from Italian guidance, but no longer will be under direct Italian tutelage and protection. Mussolini is counting on his influence with his friends, rather than on arms, to safeguard Austrian independence. The ultimate aim or hope of the new Italian policy seems to be the establishment by negotiation of a central European Switzerland.

There is a rough parallel between this evolution of Italian foreign policy and France's relations with Poland. France guaranteed Poland's frontiers against two potential enemies—Germany and Russia—and then concluded an alliance of her own with the second of these two powers, forcing Poland to make friends with the other.

Fascist Policy a Retreat.

With regard to previous policy, the new relationship which Il Duce appears to be seeking in Austria is a retreat since it involves less heavy commitments, but Fascist circles do not consider that Italy is losing prestige thereby and have organized the customary gorgeous show to celebrate the event.

Schuschnigg will arrive at 4 p. m. and will encounter Il Duce immediately either in the governor's palace or on the yacht Aurora. He will leave Friday afternoon. Meantime, the two foreign ministers, Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy and Guido Schmidt of Austria, will discuss the technicalities of the new policy.

Restoration of a monarchy naturally will not be discussed during these two days, as Italy's accord with Jugo-Slavia makes it impossible for her to countenance the project.

When Mussolini gets back to Rome on Sunday he will meet Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief aid to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. Goering and his wife left Berlin today for a vacation in southern Italy. Rome heard increasing reports that Mussolini would fly to Germany for a meeting with Hitler May 4 at Berchtesgaden.

WINS DEATH STAY FOR SLAYING, BUT HE WANTS TO DIE

Corydon A. Black, 35 years old, expressed no gratitude yesterday when told that the Illinois Supreme court had saved him from death in the electric chair tonight. The high court granted a writ of supersedeas which stays Black's execution indefinitly pending his appeal.

Black, who served a prison term in Kansas for arson, was convicted on Jan. 28 of the murder of his divorced wife, Cornelia, in her apartment at 1550 West 95th street last Oct. 8. He insists she drank poison in a suicide pact which he survived after slashing his wrists.

"The only girl I ever loved is dead," Black said yesterday when informed of the stay. "I want to be with her. If the state puts me in the chair it will find how easily I will take it."

9 CO-EDS ATTEND COURT TO ACCUSE ALLEGED PEEPER

Nine University of Chicago co-eds appeared before Judge Stephen Adamowski in Domestic Relations court yesterday to testify against an alleged Peeping Tom at Beecher hall, girls' dormitory. He is Donald Neal, 29 years old, 6634 Greenwood avenue, a stockyards watchman. The co-eds, who made considerable effort to dodge photographers, were further annoyed when the hearing was continued to May 3 at the request of Neal's attorney, Harry A. Silverstein. The co-eds explained that they would be having examinations at that time.

Husband Told to Get Job or Face Alimony Boost

Judge Philip J. Finnegan advised Charles Hawkins yesterday to get a job within a week or face the prospect of having a $6 a week alimony order awarded his wife increased. Attorney Leonard A. Ash, counsel for Mrs. Arlene Hawkins, 1540 Fargo avenue, told the court that expenses for her baby, Holly, have increased since the child was born three months ago. Mrs. Hawkins suit for divorce is pending.

U. S. JURORS AGAIN HEAR YELLOWLEY IN LIQUOR INQUIRY

The April federal grand jury yesterday resumed its inquiry into methods of liquor law enforcement in this district. Findings will be reported early next week by the foreman, Sydney S. Eckstone, a manager for the Franklin Mutual Life Insurance company.

E. C. Yellowley, Chicago district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, which has been criticized for failure to seize higherups in liquor cases, appeared for the second time during the inquiry and was with the jurors for two hours.

Others called were Brice Armstrong, a former prohibition agent now employed by the alcohol tax unit, and Miss Grace Welch, who is in charge of tavern permits in the office of the collector of internal revenue.

GOVERNOR CALLS TROOPS TO QUELL RIOTERS IN MAINE

Police Unable to Handle Shoe Strike Mobs.

Lewiston, Me., April 21.—[Special.]—National Guard troops were called tonight for duty in the Lewiston-Auburn area after rioting at Auburn in which state police used tear gas and clubs to disperse a mob of 1,000 persons.

Judge Harry Manser.

The unruly and belligerent crowd milled around two of the 19 factories involved in a general shoe strike in the two cities. It was the second consecutive day of violence.

Informed that local authorities were unable to handle the mob, Gov. Lewis O. Barrows at Augusta ordered out eight companies of National Guardsmen.

More Troops if Needed.

"I'll order out the entire military forces of Maine, if necessary, to preserve constitutional authority," the executive said. "When there is open defiance to the orders of our courts and our officers of the law, there is little difference from anarchy. We shall not tolerate this situation for a moment."

The trouble followed a state Supreme court injunction, issued by Judge Harry Manser, outlawing the widespread shoe strike which affects about 6,500 workers.

The court held, under the Wagner law, that the United Shoe Workers' union, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, "undertook to institute itself as a bargaining agency before it was a duly constituted agency."

Today's mob rushed toward nearby Auburn after leaving a massmeeting in Lewiston city hall, where Powers Hapgood, New England secretary for the C. I. O., and other organizers had aroused them.

Routed with Tear Gas.

The paraders swarmed to the bridge connecting the two industrial cities, where a squadron of state police was stationed. Police yesterday turned back a similar attempt to pass after a mêlée in which the troopers swung clubs and the marchers threw stones.

The same weapons were used today as the strikers tried unsuccessfully to break through the police line and descend on the Auburn factories. Clubs, stones and fists were used freely before the strikers finally were driven back to Lewiston with tear gas.

Organizer Hapgood charged officials with showing a "Fascist" attitude in trying to restrain us from our rights under the Wagner act."

Shoe factories in Auburn, where most of the nineteen plants are located, opened today under the Supreme court injunction outlawing the strike. No violence occurred until after the strikers attended the massmeeting.

Break Lock, Occupy Plant.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.—[Special.]—Twenty-six sitdown strikers occupied the plant of the Artcraft Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., here today after breaking a lock and forcing their way inside last night.

The whole maneuver was engineered by a ruse in which several hundred pickets, most of them from other nearby mills, participated.

After a day of disorders in which most of the windows in the plant were smashed, the pickets formed in a jeering, jostling mass.

When a commotion arose in front of the office 20 policemen near the shipping room door rushed to the spot, leaving their former position unprotected.

A crowd of husky men then formed outside the shipping room, the lock was broken and about 75 men were hoisted over shoulders into the building.

LEWIS UNION AIDS OPEN "BIG PUSH" IN MINING FIELD

Washington, D. C., April 21.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, have begun a "big push" to organize the miners of Harlan county, Ky., union officials announced today.

They indicated it would be the most vigorous attempt in history to unionize a field which is sometimes known as "bloody Harlan." National unions never have been able to obtain a permanent foothold there.

William Turnblazer, a district president of the U. M. W. A., announced that sixteen organizers had arrived in Harlan within the last twenty-four hours. He declared the organizers had posted notices in mining territory that "the Wagner act now is the law of the land, and has been upheld by the United States Supreme court."

ONTARIO PARLEY ON STRIKE PEACE WILL OPEN TODAY

sentatives of the employés." The premier and the company both have refused to recognize the C. I. O. or the U. A. W. A. in past attempts at negotiations.

Although Thompson, before he left, said he was flying back with Martin tomorrow, this was discounted in view of the statement signed by Cohen.

Cohen and Millard, when they come here tomorrow, will be accompanied by a delegation of plant stewards. Thus, although they contend they are not representing the C. I. O., the strikers' delegation will be composed of an attorney hired by the U. A. W. A., the president of the U. A. W. A. local, and shop stewards created under the U. A. W. A. system.

Strike "Pay" Is 45c Each.

The first allotment of "strike pay" from unions in the United States was announced by Thompson before he left Oshawa. He refused to disclose the amount, but it was learned that only $1,700 was received.

This sum would give each striker about 45 cents.

General Motors announced in Oshawa that the week's pay due strikers would be ready tomorrow and that there would be no "quit slips" in the envelopes.

FORD PREPARES FOR WAR WITH UNION IN FALL

Seeks to Cut Costs by More Mechanization.

[BY A STAF CORRESPONDENT.]

Detroit, Mich., April 21.—[Special.]—Vast and revolutionary changes in the manufacture of automobiles are being undertaken here as Henry Ford moves rapidly to take advantage of the seven month "breathing spell" allowed him by the postponement until November of the threatened C. I. O. crackdown.

The greatest secrecy attends the preparations of the Ford Motor company to improve its methods and lower costs, but information trickling through the organization indicates in a general way what Ford had in mind in his recent statement that his company will demonstrate "wages, production, and competition such as the world has never seen before" when present strike troubles subside.

Vast Additions to Plant.

Huge expenditures being made for new electric generating equipment, bigger and better gas storage tanks, larger ships, and a tremendous new tire manufacturing plant are only part of the picture. The whole organization appears to be keyed toward one definite idea—the turning out of better products at lower cost.

The question of what Henry Ford will do to combat the unionization efforts of the United Automobile Workers of America and its parent, John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization, is uppermost in the minds of workers and manufacturers alike in this center of the industry. It is, in fact, the chief topic of interest in American industry today.

The seventy year old enigma of the motors industry was quoted recently as saying that he will combat unionism with high wages, increased efficiency in manufacture, and lower prices for his products—raising the minimum daily wage from $6 to $10. Mr. Ford subsequently disclaimed responsibility for these reports.

New "Industrial Revolution."

His associates and competitors here, however, believe that he may be definitly planning for a revolution in industrial production methods somewhat along these lines to combat a labor movement which he views as revolutionary. They suspect that Ford is convinced that the way to meet war is with war.

When the leaders of the C. I. O. this week decided that Henry Ford would be a tougher nut to crack than General Motors or Chrysler and postponed until November the unionization drive against his plants they may have given him just the time he needed to prepare to lick them.

Here are some of the big doings quietly going on in the 1,100 acres of Ford Motor company plants in this vicinity:

1. Excavation work has just started on a $3,500,000 tire and rubber manufacturing plant which will greatly reduce Ford dependence upon outside tire manufacturers. This single brick and steel building, covering 450,000 square feet of floor space, is expected to turn out half the company's tire requirements. It may do even better, for the machinery ordered is estimated by the Akron firm building it to be capable of producing 18,000 tires a day.

2. New economies in the assembling of Ford cars appear to be in prospect through greater use of welding. A company announcement this week of plans for quadrupling the present 5,000 kilowatt electric generator output in the Windsor, Ont., plant disclosed that the increase was necessitated by the welding process. Only a few days before the company had announced it would increase the potential power output capacity of its River Rouge plant by 50 per cent through the purchase from the General Electric company of the largest turbo-generator of its kind in the country. The generator alone will cost 5 million dollars.

3. Another announcement this week disclosed that the company is building a 2½ million cubic foot capacity gas tank, the largest of its kind in the United States. Completion is set for late this summer. The tank will contain blast furnace gas. A 10 million cubic foot tank of another type has been under construction at the River Rouge plant for several months.

4. In June two new 300 foot canal motor ships, the largest of their kind ever built, for use between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic coast, will be added to the Ford fleet.

As if preparing himself for an industrial revolution, Mr. Ford has spent 217 million dollars in modernizing his plant during the last eight years. Within the last year or two steel mills, glass plants, foundries, pressure boilers, and generators—all on a gigantic scale—have been added to his resources. The development program now has reached the point where the company has adequate sources of steam and electricity for any new scheme of manufacturing, with a minimum of man labor and a minimum of cost. This long has been Mr. Ford's dream.

Would Increase Sales.

Any substantial reduction in the cost of automobiles—such as Mr. Ford brought about with his model T in 1910—would be followed by an increase in the sales of motor cars, a stepup in the consumption of basic raw materials, and a rise in the general economic welfare which would soothe the unrest of labor.

If mechanical ingenuity in the automobile plants will permit one man at high wages to do the labor of two at lower wages, then the current labor and economic problems are solved, in Mr. Ford's opinion.

His new methods, his aim for the future, and entire economic philosophy are in contrast with the theory of unemployment relief practiced by the Public Works administration, the Works Progress administration and other alphabetical agencies of the New Deal. He would employ less men to do a given job at a lower cost, whereas the PWA and WPA regulations require employment of more men regardless of higher costs. He would promote general prosperity by boosting the production of each individual so as to increase his earning power and he would boost the consumption of each individual by lowering costs.

An insight to the Ford method can be found in a visit to the main power unit of the River Rouge plant here. There is a battery of boilers, each as high as an apartment house, consuming pulverized coal at a rate of thirty tons an hour. Compressed air does the stoking and removes the ash.

There is a conspicuous absence of laborers.

"Who is operating these big machines?" a visitor asked a guide.

"The control board is over there," answered the guide, pointing to a distant wall.

Before a battery of switches, gauges, push buttons, and tiny signal lights were a couple of engineers. They were half of a crew that stokes 2,000 tons of coal a day. Under outmoded methods there would have to be an army of workers to generate the 7 million horsepower hours. But under expensive hand stoking automobiles would be too expensive for many to buy and so there wouldn't be the demand for this much power.

"Would Mr. Ford really close his plant?" a company man was asked.

"Do you remember when he said that he would move to Canada if the United States repealed prohibition?" the man retorted.

Does Mr. Ford have an ace up his sleeve for the present crisis? Few, if any, of his 124,000 employés know the answer. The company's usual spokesman for formal statements, William J. Cameron, would not comment this afternoon. Mr. Ford was not available for one of his infrequent informal interviews.

Co-Ed Signs for Film

ADAIR FREEDMAN.

Here's one way to get into the movies: Pay no attention whatever to Hollywood, and let the movie scouts beg you to take a job. It isn't guaranteed, but it worked for Adair Freedman, 17 years old, a Northwestern university co-ed. Miss Freedman studied her lessons and won a few beauty contests. Then the scouts saw her pictures, and yesterday Miss Freedman, who lives at 1633 Hyde Park boulevard, signed a seven year contract with Warner Brothers. She's the daughter of Mrs. Frank P. Abrams.

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—[Special.]—Diana Gibson, former Chicago department store model now in the movies, today revealed that she has been married for nine months to L. John Myers, a radio technician. The ceremony was performed at Yuma, Ariz., on June 20, 1936. "I didn't want any one to know of the marriage because of the mistaken belief in Hollywood that marriage doesn't mix with a career," Diana said.

HOLLANDERIZING
The most scientific cleaning of fur and lining

Maybe your fur coat likes mahogany sawdust . . . maybe cedar sawdust agrees with it best. You wouldn't know, of course—but your fur knows and so does A. Hollander & Son.

As the world's largest dressers and dyers of pelts, they know that solvents destroy a fur's life-giving oils. So not one drop is used in Hollanderizing, the cleaning process they originated. Instead, they maintain huge sawdust mills just to grind various woods to various meshes.

Everything about Hollanderizing is scientific and painstakingly thorough. Expert eyes, eagle sharp, inspect your coat at every stage. Expert hands, skillful with blow hose, with light rattan beaters, with steam iron, spotting cloths and glazing fluids, tend it. And the amount of sewing that goes on would amaze you! Linings and seams are loosened, regardless of the work it makes, to let the cleansing sawdust penetrate.

A passion for detail, an amazing personal thoughtfulness, characterize Hollanderizing. Fragile white furs are segregated . . . drums are padded for gentle tumbling . . . sawdust is constantly blown off and renewed, for freshness . . . linings are "sized" to restore their original lustre.

Little, careful things are done. Funny little crocheted "bootees" protect buttons . . . worn labels are replaced with fresh ones . . . even lipstick stains, deep down in pockets, are searched out and removed.

Yet rates are no more than for ordinary cleaning—in some cases even less! And results are very superior. Even the lining looks like new.

Doesn't Hollanderizing sound like typical Field service? We thought so, too, and that's why we arranged it for our customers. Just ask Field's to Hollanderize your fur coat—or your cloth coat trimmed with fur.

REORGANIZATION OF GOVERNMENT HELD UNLIKELY

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Congressional leaders predicted today that one result of President Roosevelt's budget message enjoining congress to keep appropriations within the budget estimates would be the sidetracking of Mr. Roosevelt's drastic governmental reorganization scheme.

Economy advocates have opposed the reorganization bill from the outset because it proposes to deprive the comptroller general of his control over expenditures in the executive agencies and make him a subordinate of the secretary of the treasury. Moreover, they have opposed the measure because it contemplates virtually no economies, since instead of abolishing bureaus and independent agencies it would merely regroup approximately 100 of these establishments in ten existing and two proposed additional departments of government.

Would Abolish Bureaus.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], a member of the joint congressional committee considering the President's reorganization bill, maintains that the way to effect economies is to abolish and not transfer bureaus and agencies; that a thoroughgoing reorganization of the executive branch would result in a saving of 1 billion dollars a year.

The reorganization scheme also is widely opposed because of the proposal to vest in the President vast new powers over the quasi-judicial regulatory and rate making agencies.

See Cut in Relief Fund.

Informed observers in congress expressed the opinion today that Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.] would succeed in his effort to slash the President's request for 1½ billion dollars for the next fiscal year to 1 billion dollars. It is believed that the house will pass a bill giving the President a billion and a half dollars, but that the senate will lop off half a billion and that $1,200,000,000 will be agreed upon in conference.

In addition to this slash, the President's own leaders in congress are planning to effect a saving of at least 300 million in the regular departmental appropriation bills, which would make a total of 600 million below the President's estimate of expenditures for the 1938 fiscal year. If receipts should come up to the estimates, this would balance the budget except for the statutory debt requirement of 402 million and leave 182 million dollars to apply on that.

WOUNDED BY BURGLAR WHOM HE SURPRISES RANSACKING HIS HOME

Michael A. Turano, 40 years old, a telegrapher in a brokerage office, was shot in the side last night by a burglar he surprised ransacking his apartment at 4021 Washington boulevard.

Anna Turano.

Returning from a short walk with his wife, Anna, Turano found the front door of the apartment bolted from the inside. Mrs. Turano waited while her husband started for the rear door through a passageway at the side of the building. The burglar leaped out of a bedroom and, drawing a pistol, fired at Turano. At the Garfield Park hospital it was said Turano's wound was not serious.

Leon Sayers, 38 years old, 1643 East 67th street, a chemist, was wounded slightly early today when one of two robbers he encountered at 67th place and Blackstone avenue fired two shots at him. Police took him to Jackson Park hospital.

HAMILTON SUED FOR SEPARATION IN KANSAS COURT

Topeka, Kas., April 21.—[Special.]—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee and manager of Gov. Alf M. Landon's presidential campaign, was sued for separate maintenance in District court here today by Mrs. Laura Hamilton.

Mrs. John Hamilton.

She asked custody of their two children, Daniel, 20, and Laura, 12. The suit charged "gross neglect of duty, abandonment, and extreme cruelty." While it did not specify the amount of separate maintenance sued for, the suit asserted Hamilton is the owner of considerable property and receives a salary of $25,000 a year.

Hamilton has been residing in Washington, headquarters of the Republican committee. He visited his family here last January when he came to Topeka to attend the Kansas day ceremonies. The couple was married Jan. 28, 1915.

Frank R. Vosburgh was incorrectly listed yesterday as the newly elected police magistrate of Melrose Park. The winner in the three cornered race was George Bosco, who lives at 1010 North 21st avenue in the suburb.

COURT HITS BANK OVER $54,458 FEE PAID SWEITZER

Judge Harry M. Fisher indicated yesterday he would deny a motion of the First National bank to strike a counterclaim filed against the bank by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company for $54,458 allegedly paid improperly to Robert M. Sweitzer during his tenure as county clerk. The bank was told to file briefs by June 2.

"If the bank entered into a clandestine agreement with a public officer for the payment of an illegal fee, and the county can recover from the surety, then the surety could recover from the bank," Judge Fisher said.

The county is suing Sweitzer and the surety company which bonded him for $533,817 for shortages and interest. The surety company filed a counterclaim against the bank after the county instituted its suit seventeen months ago.

BRITISH ANGERED OVER NEW TAX ON BUSINESS PROFIT

Proposal Is Called Heavy Blow to Industry.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 21.—Great Britain was in an uproar tonight over the proposed tax on industrial profits. The tax was proposed in parliament yesterday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in introducing a budget of $4,314,240,000, which is the heaviest one since the world war.

Sir Robert Horne.

Members of the Conservative party described Chamberlain's succession to leadership of his party, if not to the premiership itself, as being in jeopardy as a result of what seems to be strong opposition to the tax. Conservative party organs declared the graduated profits levy has in fact split the party wide open.

Fear Business Paralysis.

Chamberlain's tax on the growth of profits, which means against profiteering on the manufacture of armaments and from which he said he expected to get $100,000,000 in revenue, is compared to a wartime levy. Opponents argued it would demoralize industry.

The proposal had an immediate bad effect on the stock market with industrial, iron and steel shares slumping several points. One stock broker was quoted as saying that Chamberlain's budget speech depreciated industrial securities by at least 1 billion dollars.

Conservatives, led by Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, bitterly attacked the tax in the house of commons and suggestions were made in political quarters that the scheme may be modified slightly. Horne urged Chamberlain to concentrate on freeing international trade from restrictions and advocated a pact between the United States and Britain as the first step.

See Prosperity Retarded.

Financial experts contended the measure will fall especially heavily on businesses just recovering from the depression.

The Midland council of the National Union of Manufacturers called a special meeting for Monday to discuss the proposal which the council's secretary said will halt expansion and throw many persons out of work. It was emphasized that small businesses will be hard hit by the tax which applies to all profits above $10,000 a year.

EMPLOYE OF MORGAN STRIKES CAMERAMAN ON DECK OF VESSEL

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—One of J. P. Morgan's employés struck a photographer in the face today while the cameraman was trying to take a picture of the financier walking to his stateroom on the Queen Mary.

The photographer announced his intention of getting a summons for the employé, and Mr. Morgan gave a lecture on how unpleasant he found it to be confronted by photographers everywhere. Mr. Morgan sailed for England to attend the coronation.

The financier was asked whether he would wear knee breeches at the coronation.

"I shall wear whatever is demanded of me as a private citizen," he said, a trifle sharply.

JAMES GERARD OFF FOR BRITAIN AND CORONATION

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's special representative at the coronation next month, James W. Gerard, former ambessador to Germany, sailed on the Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary today without his coronation breeches. He said that he would have them made in England because an American tailor would make "plus-four knickers."

The costume for governmental representatives not in uniform is "black evening coat, white waistcoat, white tie, black knee breeches of the same material as the coat, black buttons, black buckles at the knees, black silk stockings, black court shoes [pumps] with bows, not buckles," according to the earl marshal.

Mr. Gerard found nothing wrong with this ornate attire and said that he would attend in "a gunny sack with holes cut for the arms" if English tradition demanded him to do so.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve

GRACIOUS ATTITUDE

By CALEB

A MAN drove his car into an important downtown garage and asked that his cooling system be checked.

Hours later, immediately after he had driven away from this garage with his car, he discovered that his winter front was missing. He knew it had been on the car when he left it for service because the service man had pointed to it and discussed it with him.

Two days later he returned and asked for his winter front. When he went to pick the car up that evening the only service man on duty handed him a bill for a "wash" and across the bottom was noted: "There was no winter front on this car when it was worked on."

So far as the service man was concerned, that was final. So final was his air that the customer didn't even stop to argue the matter.

But next day he wrote the garage and told his story.

An executive of the garage phoned him. "We are very sorry this happened," he said, "and any time it suits your convenience we will supply you with a new winter front. We expect you to be completely satisfied in all your transactions with us and we are very embarrassed when something of this sort occurs."

Then he added (an indication of the apparent impotence of management to completely eliminate mad chance and the penalties and distresses resulting from human fallibility): "When something of this sort goes wrong, unfortunately it seems that one or two other things go wrong for the same customer on his next subsequent transactions. If anything at all disappoints you in our service on your next visit here—or any time in the future when you are in—please immediately pick up your telephone and tell us, and permit us to straighten it out."

IT is one thing to attempt to eliminate all errors. It is another thing to attain the objective.

So long as transactions are human, human susceptibility to error brings about occasional embarrassments. Perfect service is a desired goal—but when that's impossible, a gracious and courteous attitude in adjustment helps take the worst edge off disappointment.

HEAVENS FALL ON BLACK MESSIAH AND WHITE 'SON'

Girl Accuses Chief Aid; Wife Raps 'Divine.'

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—New woes from two secular sources invaded the ebbing peacefulness of Father Divine's "heaven" today, adding to the distress of the Harlem cult leader who is himself a fugitive from justice as a result of a stabbing episode.

Father Divine.

The wife of the Negro whose followers believe him to be God revealed she had broken with him after telling him to his face that "you're not God, you're just a damned old man." She also said she was keeping title to numerous "heavenly properties" held in her name.

From across the breadth of the country came more trouble of a mundane nature. The "Jesus the Christ" of Father Divine's west coast "heaven" was indicted on Mann act charges in Los Angeles, Cal., following a school girl's story of her betrayal.

White Follower Accused.

John W. Hunt, 33, wealthy white follower of the Harlem cultist, was accused by Delight Jewett, 17 year old Denver High school girl, of offenses in his impressive Beverly Hills home in Los Angeles and at a hotel in Palm Springs.

The girl, who is also white, was said to have recounted that Hunt described himself to her as "John the Revealer."

The indictment of Hunt and three other persons, whose alleged offenses were not made public, threatened to play considerable havoc with the cult's Los Angeles "heaven."

Property Brings Battle.

The "so-called wife" of Father Divine, who uses the cult name of Faithful Mary, said the estrangement was caused by the Negro's desire for personal jurisdiction over the properties amassed by his curious realm and held in her name.

Divine always called her his "so-called wife," insisting that only a spiritual relationship existed between them, a condition he sought to establish in the homes of all his followers.

"He told me I'd better give up everything or he'd tell the angels," Faithful Mary related. "He said he would put me in the kitchen and wouldn't let me sit with him at banquets any more. He tried to get the deeds but I just told him:

Hotel Her Chief Peeve.

It appeared Mary's particular grievance concerned an attempt to take control of a hotel she owns at High Falls, N. Y. The property involved in the squabble includes restaurants, peace missions, farms, dress shops, and miscellaneous other items.

While these disciples brought new troubles to the kingdom, Father Divine was being awaited at the office of District Attorney William C. Dodge where he was expected to surrender on a bit of his own sinning.

He was wanted on a charge of felonious assault growing out of the stabbing early yesterday of Harry Greene, 37, a Weekhawken contractor. Greene had gone to a Divine meeting with a friend, Paul Camora, a process server.

U. S. MUST SHOW WAY FOR PEACE IN WORLD, SENATOR LEWIS SAYS

Harrisburg, Pa., April 21.—(AP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] told the Pennsylvania legislature in joint session today that the United States must take the lead in any world-wide move for peace.

At the same time Senator Lewis warned against lending money to foreign nations, and recommended that negotiations with other governments be conducted individually, and not as a part of any international league or court.

"The day is upon America when the United States should establish and declare an American foreign policy," Lewis asserted. "America must tender herself as mediator in the conflicts between the nations of the world."

Senator Lewis paid tribute to President Roosevelt and Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania.

Cleaner Finds $512 Sewed in Rug Sent by Mistake

When Tom Fitzpatrick, employed in a cleaning plant at 4633 Cottage Grove avenue, examined a rug sent in yesterday he was surprised to find a pocket, complete with flap, sewn on the under side. He was still more surprised to find $512 in small bills tucked away in the pocket. About that time the phone rang and Mrs. Etta Conley, 6709 Blackstone avenue, breathlessly explained that the wrong rug had been sent to be cleaned, and that she would be right over.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

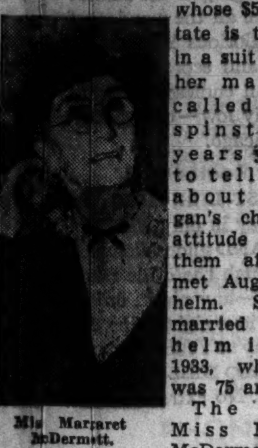
SHIFT IN MARY'S LOVE IS RELATED IN WILL CONTEST

Spinster Tells How Augie Wooed and Won Wife.

Fifteen nieces and nephews of the late Mrs. Mary Scully Fagan Wilhelm, whose $500,000 estate is the stake in a suit to annul her marriage, called upon a spinster of 68 years yesterday to tell a jury about Mrs. Fagan's change of attitude toward them after she met August Wilhelm. She was married to Wilhelm in May, 1933, when she was 75 and he 37.



Miss Margaret McDermott.

The witness, Miss Margaret McDermott, a life long friend of Mrs. Wilhelm, took the stand in the court of Judge Grover C. Niemeyer and testified that before Wilhelm's ardent courtship began in 1931 Mary frequently told her that her nephews and nieces were her nearest and dearest and would get all the money she had.

Will Voided by Marriage.

The marriage to Wilhelm invalidated a will made by Mrs. Fagan in 1930. The 15 relatives claim she was of unsound mind at the time of the wedding. She died a few months after the marriage, leaving Wilhelm the beneficiary.

Miss McDermott lives with her nephew, Richard Kavanagh, 1711 South Ninth avenue, Maywood, whose wife, Rosemary, is a grandniece of Mrs. Wilhelm and one of the parties to the annulment suit. Miss McDermott said Mary often visited her, referring to Wilhelm as Augie, her boy friend.

Describes His Courtship.

The spinster said that occasionally Mary and Augie were together at her home, giving her a chance to observe Augie's ardent courtship.

"He just devoured her with his eyes," she testified.

Attorney Dwight McKay, one of Wilhelm's counsel, tried to show in cross-examination that the youthful exhibitions of Mrs. Wilhelm, which complainants say showed a deranged mind, were natural. He also sought to bring out that her memory was good and that she was able to recall many details of a trip to Europe. This Miss McDermott said was true.

Power of Virginia, were married today at the London register office. Admiral Lord Beatty died on March 10, 1936, and Viscount Borodale succeeded to the title. His mother was Ethel Field Beatty, daughter of Marshall Field of Chicago, who died July 17, 1932, leaving her son $1,000,000.

SERVED IN TRIAL OF MALONE AS HE SAILS FOR EUROPE

Henry Veeder, an attorney for Swift & Co., was served with a subpena in New York yesterday as he was boarding the liner Queen Mary to start a two months' visit in Europe. The summons demanded that he appear in Chicago on May 24 as a witness in the income tax evasion case against William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission. Veeder continued on his voyage, but he must now return home more than a month earlier than he had planned. Federal officials here, who rushed the subpena to New York, declined to indicate the nature of Veeder's testimony in the Malone trial.

CHICAGO AIRPORT TRACK REMOVAL PLAN AGREED ON

City and Railroad Will Swap Properties.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

City authorities and officials of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad yesterday reached an agreement on a plan for the removal of the railway's tracks from Chicago airport. When the final costs of the removal project are computed and accepted the work of clearing the field can begin.

The proposals accepted by the city council call for an exchange of property. The railroad agrees to deed to the city its right of way along the line of 59th street between Cicero and Central avenues. This 125 foot strip bisects the square mile of land bounded by 55th and 63d streets and Cicero and Central avenues.

Present Field too Small.

At present the city field consists of the southern 320 acres, of which about half, or 160 acres, are fully developed for airport purposes. This field is far too small for the amount of trafic it already bears and for safe operation of the giant 40 passenger airliners to be flying the country's airways before the end of 1937.

With the railroad tracks removed, the airport will be expanded to cover the entire square mile of 640 acres. Runways which now are 2,200 to 2,800 feet in length will become from 5,000 to 5,500 feet in length. With the field thus enlarged it will provide Chicago with airport facilities equal to those of any city in the country.

City to Provide New Right of Way.

In return for the railroad right of way, the city agrees to furnish the C. & W. I. with a new right of way which will extend for half a mile from 59th to 54th street just west of Central avenue, and thence east for the full mile between Cicero and Central along the line of 54th street, paralleling the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt line. Cost of moving and reinstalling the tracks will be borne by the city as will the increased annual cost of maintenance and operation over the longer route.

The point at issue now is cost. Last week railroad engineers presented a table of figures which indicated the project would cost $889,537. Previously the city and a group of disinterested engineers who made a survey of the proposed plan, estimated it would cost about $500,000.

Mayor Discusses Rail Figures.

"I believe the railroad's figures given us last week were high and were presented solely for the purpose of starting action," said Mayor Kelly in commenting upon the difference between the two estimates yesterday. "The railroad's figures are an asking price, as it were."

The mayor said that much of the construction work and virtually all of the track removal work which is listed as an item of $412,000 in the railroad's figures would be done by Works Progress Administration labor which would cost the city nothing. Moreover the city will be able to furnish some of the material and labor for the track construction at costs far below those quoted by the railroad.

The city plans to raise the necessary funds for construction through creation of an airport authority and issuance of a revenue bond issue. Interest and principal of the issue could be paid out of passenger tolls, rents, and other income from the airport.

The city council after accepting the plan yesterday adopted a resolution urging the C. & W. I. to have its trustee, the Banker's Trust Company of New York City, send out two engineers to determine their cost estimate as soon as possible. Meanwhile the city will do the same. Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, was asked to confer with WPA officials to determine just how much of the job WPA labor can do.

Goldfish Surplus in Elgin; City Will Give Them Away

All the goldfish in Elgin's two park lagoons got a brief respite yesterday from being confined to goldfish bowls. Elgin has too many goldfish and Park Commissioner Barbara Lasher planned to drain the lagoons today to thin them out and give some away. But it was postponed until next week because the rain put too much water in the lagoons. When the water goes down any one with a jar or a bowl can have some new pets.

"We've Bought a Home to avoid Rising Rents!"

• When vacant homes and apartments become scarce, rents rise. During the last year increasing scarcity has brought an average advance in rents of about 10%. What has caused this shortage? Is it likely to continue?

During the depression years, very few new dwellings were constructed in the Chicago area. Thousands of buildings were burned, demolished or condemned as unfit for occupancy. Meantime the population of Chicago and suburbs increased.

Residential occupancy now over 96%

Improvement in general business has caused an "undoubling" of thousands of families. Recently, marriages—delayed by hard times—have become more frequent. Living quarters must be provided for thousands of newly married couples. As a result of these factors, average residential occupancy has jumped from 72% in 1932 to 96% today!

To protect themselves against rent increases many families are now buying homes. Attractive opportunities to buy—in many cases below today's replacement cost—still exist in Chicago and suburbs. Payment can usually be made in convenient monthly installments.

What to do when buying a home

When you buy your home you should find the following suggestions helpful. Examine carefully the property you buy. Your home is probably the most important purchase you will ever make. You will want to choose it wisely—to be sure that it fits your needs and your income. Deal through your real estate broker. He can help you in many ways. Finally, insist on a Title Guarantee Policy. It will protect an important part of your investment.

Why don't you plan to buy a home now? Ask a real estate broker to show you properties for sale in the community in which you wish to live. If you can make a reasonable down payment, your monthly installments on the balance will probably amount to no more than you are now paying for rent.

Let your broker help you

You can get much help in buying a home from your real estate broker. He knows local conditions, trends, zoning laws, character of the neighborhood and other factors affecting real estate values. He will tell you about the various methods of financing your purchase.

History of famous site in title records

Subdivided in June, 1839, the site of Chicago's fort became the "Fort Dearborn Addition to Chicago." Today the London Guarantee Building occupies part of this historic spot. The complete legal history of this valuable site is contained in the Chicago Title & Trust Company's 46,000 volume records of the millions of transactions affecting the 1,100,000 parcels of land in Cook County. Based on these records, this Company's Title Guarantee Policy protects the property owner against loss from defects in his title. Insist on this protection when you buy property.

Remember the last housing shortage?

The clipping at the left from a Chicago newspaper dated April 17, 1920, shows what happens when a severe housing shortage develops. In 1917 there were hundreds of vacant apartments and houses in the Chicago area. Rents were low, concessions common. Three years later apartment seekers were offering bonuses for living quarters.

Many north siders remember when this busy section looked like the scene on the left. During the last quarter century the steady increase in Chicago's population has converted many vacant areas into built-up communities.

'L' LINES SPEED REORGANIZATION AS COUNCIL ACTS

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] will petition Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today to appoint a special reorganization committee of five members for the purpose of working out a reorganization plan for the company.

This move of the elevated lines was announced yesterday at the same time that the city council approved Mayor Kelly's plan for operation of city owned buses on Foster and Kimball avenues and authorized Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to purchase thirty-three buses at a price not to exceed $400,000.

O. K. on "Citizens' Committee."

D. F. Kelly, chairman of the mortgage bondholders' committee of the elevated lines, announced his group had approved the plan for the appointment of a "citizens' committee" with power to negotiate for a reorganization.

The special committee, Mr. Kelly said, would be empowered to work with the city in devising a plan which would be fair to the holders of bonds and other securities of the Transit company and its other creditors and permit of the rehabilitation of the elevated lines and their most advantageous use under a proper ordinance from the city.

Judge Wilkerson two months ago approved a petition of the elevated company for reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy laws. The company has been under his supervision since going into receivership in 1932.

Mr. Kelly said he hoped that the proposed new committee would be able to bring about promptly a fair working agreement with the city and a satisfactory plan of reorganization.

The city council's action in approving the advertising for bids for city owned buses followed a threat of Mayor Kelly last week to operate lines in Foster and Kimball avenues unless rapid progress is made in reaching an agreement with the Chicago Surface Lines on a reduction in the system's property valuation.

The mayor maintains the company should make a big cut in the present 170 million purchase price value before a new ordinance is granted.

Mayor Kelly submitted a letter to the council suggesting the move to avoid long delay in giving the service. Even under the proposed arrangement, it was stated, it will take four months to get delivery of the buses after the order is placed.

Money for Buses Available.

Mayor Kelly proposes that the money from the 67 million dollar city traction fund be used to buy the new buses.

"If the traction question is not settled by the time of delivery," Mayor Kelly told the council, "some way can be found to operate them. If the question is settled some arrangement can be made to sell the buses to whoever obtains the franchise."

Residents of the north and northwest sections have been fighting for nearly five years to obtain bus service in the two streets.

The city council two years ago authorized the elevated company to operate feeder buses in Foster and Kimball avenues, but the surface lines were granted the necessary certificates of convenience and necessity by the Illinois commerce commission.

The surface lines already have approval of federal court to purchase buses for the operation but have been unable to obtain a city franchise.

DANGEROUS THOUGHTS IN KANSAS.

The moving picture censors of Kansas have decided that the remarks of Senator Wheeler of Montana, a leader of the Democratic opposition to court packing, are too blunt for Kansas ears to hear.

The newsreel known as "The March of Time" had presented the senator as saying: "You can say that the privilege of appointing postmasters will not be accorded to me. You can say what you please, but I say to you and Mr. Farley and to everybody else that I will vote against this proposition because it is morally wrong, it is morally unsound, it is a dangerous proceeding." All of this passage was ordered stricken from the film.

What excuse the board of censors may have offered for the deletion we do not know. Perhaps the ladies who constitute the board may have felt that Senator Wheeler's remarks were not "nice." Perhaps they felt that the tender minds of Kansans should not be corrupted by the senator's insinuation that the loss of patronage faces the President's Democratic opponents. How could Kansans continue to revere the presidency, and respect the President, if it were suspected that the man could so stoop to abuse the powers of his office? Perhaps, too, the ladies felt that whatever the provocation and the facts, it was improper for Senator Wheeler to suggest that a President was capable of advocating anything immoral and dangerous.

Former Gov. Landon has protested against the order. The chairman of the board, a Miss Mae Clausen, though a Republican, is an appointee of the Democratic governor of Kansas. Her decision on matter of censorship is final. The other two members of the board, both Democrats and both appointed by Gov. Landon, have only advisory powers. They concurred in the decision.

Mr. Landon has emerged from retirement to call the matter to the attention of his successor, Gov. Huxman. Mr. Landon has insisted that the governor is responsible for the act of his appointee.

The incident suggests two observations. The first is that Gov. Landon was entirely correct in placing responsibility for this outrageous abuse of the censorship directly upon Gov. Huxman. Miss Clausen is his appointee. What she has done provides clear evidence of her unfitness for the position she holds. If the governor cannot persuade her to change her mind he can remove her for cause.

The other observation is that the freedom from censorship granted to the press in the federal and state constitutions should be extended to the newsreels when they present matters of public interest and importance. Just as the publisher, though free from censorship or other forms of prior restraint, is answerable both criminally and civilly for the abuse of his right, so the makers and exhibitors of newsreels may be held accountable.

Moving picture censorship exists because it was thought that without it Hollywood would run hog-wild and present, in the guise of entertainment, indecencies and improprieties which would be injurious to children especially. Whether censorship is necessary has often been disputed, but the right to censor dramatic presentations is well established in Anglo-American law. In England a national official, the lord chamberlain, exercises it. In America the censorship of the drama is recognized as within the police powers exercised by local government.

A newsreel is entertainment, but it is not imaginative fiction. Mr. Wheeler was not play-acting. He is a senator of the United States, a former candidate for Vice President of the United States, a man who is taking a leading part in the debate on one of the most important political questions ever to face the American people. It is important that the American people know what he thinks on this question. The right of the moving picture companies to present his views to the public should be as unquestioned as the right of the newspapers to print his remarks or his right to utter them. If the laws of any of the states permit the kind of censorship which has been exercised in Kansas these laws should be changed to accord with the spirit of American institutions.

PASS THE GRAHAM BILLS.

The overwhelming vote by which Senator Graham's bills to correct certain recognized defects in our marriage and divorce laws were passed by the senate indicates an awakened sense of responsibility in this field of public policy, which we trust is shared by the house. The bill requiring not less than three days' notice of the intention to wed was defeated in 1935 by an amazing exercise of influence by two county clerks who thought it would reduce their revenue. That the legislature yielded to this influence against the plain considerations of public good on which this measure is founded was a sad commentary on the character of the 1935 legislature. The Lake county clerk is now out of office and has been succeeded by an incumbent who takes a more enlightened view of the situation at which the bill is directed. The Cook county clerk apparently has reconsidered. It is apparent that the senate has also reconsidered and we trust the house will promptly concur.

Hasty marriage has become an evil from which both participants and the community should be protected. In the era of prohibition the "gin wedding" became a flagrant scandal and there is no provision in our present law to prevent it. The Graham bill provides a reasonable check upon undue haste in wedlock and no rational argument has been presented against its prompt adoption.

The other bills are directed against the abuse of separate maintenance and unlimited "temporary" alimony, providing that either member of a pair living apart for two years may obtain an absolute divorce upon a proper showing. A previous bill with this intent was held unconstitutional on the ground that one of its provisions was discriminating, and the new bill has removed that defect. Present dower rights and protection of the rights of children are provided in this legislation.

Senator Graham who has led the effort for these reforms in the senate and Judge Desort who initiated the measures acted upon Tuesday are to be congratulated upon the prospects of success.

NEW CHARGES AGAINST TVA.

The president of the Edison Electric institute, Mr. C. W. Kellogg, has added specifications to the charges against the Tennessee Valley authority. He says that steam plants could furnish power in TVA territory at 41 per cent of the cost of the power which the government is generating at its dams. He insists, as Mr. Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Power company, has repeatedly done, that the government is fudging its accounts. Money actually spent for power development is being charged to navigation or something else.

Of course no one supposes that Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Willkie speak as disinterested observers. But if they are not impartial, neither are they irresponsible. It may safely be assumed that no one knows better than they how seriously they would injure their own cause by making unfounded accusations. On its face the case they present is a strong one, supported as it is by quotations from the TVA board and from the reports of government engineers.

Mr. Kellogg, for example, said the other day that the army engineers had estimated the cost of canalizing the Tennessee for navigation at less than 75 million dollars. The TVA is spending 306 million dollars for its dams. He concludes that the difference between the two figures is the amount properly chargeable to power. After adjustments he finds that the capital cost for power should be 231 million dollars.

"To date," he observed, "not one penny of the cost of construction of its dams has been allocated to electricity by the TVA authorities."

Obviously this is a most serious charge to bring against the government's agency. It argues a deliberate attempt to deceive congress and the public, an attempt to destroy and discredit private enterprise by falsifying public accounts.

Congress has shown little interest in these accusations, but fortunately the public need not depend upon congress to investigate them. Thanks to the decision recently taken by the Western Society of Engineers and the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, an impartial investigation of the facts regarding TVA may be expected. These societies have announced a determination to set up boards of technically trained men to survey the government's projects. Presumably TVA will be one of the activities investigated and the findings will be published.

The engineers have intervened only because congress has persistently folded its hands. Congress has heard the charges against TVA; it has been told repeatedly that most of the other hydro-electric schemes are wasting the taxpayers' money by hundreds of millions of dollars; yet congress under administration control has made no move to investigate the accusation that Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Casper-Alcova, Fort Peck, and other such projects are never going to be worth a small fraction of what they are costing.

As congress has not done its duty, the task must be assumed by private citizens who are competent to undertake it. The engineering societies have properly assumed the responsibility. It is to be hoped that they will proceed with as little delay as possible. The TVA is a good place to begin.

Editorial of the Day

THE CONTROL OF THE OCEANS.

[Buenos Aires Herald.]

A remarkable map of the world with the seas shaded to show under whose domination they would fall in the event of war has been published by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In this map all the North Pacific and a part of the South Pacific ocean are shown as under the control of the United States, the southern part being a relatively narrow strip along the coast of South America.

Most of the North Atlantic and the Indian ocean and part of the South Pacific fall under the sway of Great Britain, while the Mediterranean is shown as completely dominated by Italy.

The Baltic and part of the North sea are shaded in the German colors.

Japan is shown in control of the western Pacific from Sakhalin in the north to the Philippine islands in the south, while Russia is apportioned the western part of the North Pacific into the frozen arctic seas.

The broad expanses of the oceans which may be called "no man's seas," and which are open to raids by submarines and cruisers, lie in the South Atlantic, the western part of the South Pacific and the Arctic oceans.

It is noteworthy that France is accorded no more than a share in the control of the eastern Atlantic lying off Spain, Portugal and North Africa.

On broad lines this arbitrary apportionment of the oceans is indisputably correct, although opinions might differ regarding the precise limits marked in the map in question.

A patriotic Frenchman, however, may feel inclined to snort at the very minor rôle his navy plays in this division of the world's waters, especially in the Mediterranean.

TURNED A DEAF EAR.

He approached the judge with all kinds of politeness.

"Your lordship, I'd like to get out of jury duty," he said.

"For what reason?" asked the judge.

"I can only hear with one ear," was the excuse offered.

The judge smiled.

"It's all right," he said. "We only hear one side at a time."—Montreal Star.

HITHER AND YON.

There is much talk of the evils of the parole system, but no one has yet answered the unasked question in our mind: the prisons are always overcrowded, even with the turn-'em-out-quick system in operation, and where'll the criminals be stored if it's decided to keep them in longer? . . . We can't remember reading a yarn about relief into which the author's philosophy didn't intrude; nor one that explained even theoretically what the relief client is entitled to have—food and shelter from zero cold, yes; but a bathtub, medical and dental services, movies—where's the line to be drawn? . . . Mr. Masefield's coronation poem wasn't good enough—it would not have made the Line, either. . . . Britain's 25 per cent income tax seems exorbitant; on the other thumb, 75 per cent should be enough to buy umbrellas, Scotch, mackintoshes, suet pudding, and tweeds; all one needs in that climate. . . . Martin K. Ash feels sure that the radio comics' guild will furnish a rear guard for the next expedition of archæologists to a Tutic tomb.

SIR: Possibly the solution of the perennial problem—what to do with the old razor blades—has been found in Taylorville, Ill., where they have an ordinance to prevent any one feeding the things to hogs. Undoubtedly you recall the reaction to the 18th amendment. L. A. S.

STRICTLY SPEAKING, avers Maurice L., they should end at the knee, but when they don't the ambassadorial pants needs must be known as breaches of etiquette. If he does it once more we'll sick the dogs on him.

A DADDY'S PRAYER.

Dear God, be good to him and take his hand
Who never here was left one hour alone;
Being so young he will not understand
A home so very different from his own;
And when the shadows fall let him kneel down
Beside Your knee to say his evening prayers,
Then put on him his little woolen gown
And lead him, as I used to, up the stairs.

And when he's tucked in bed kiss him good-night;
He knows an angel guards him night and day,
So he won't cry when You turn out the light
And softly close his door and go away;
And then—oh, then, give courage to his dad!
You took him, God, and he was all I had.

VIRGINIA saddens us. There are, she has discovered, only six inhabitants in Utopia, Kas. Then she adds: "That's why it's Utopia." And only last fall we were nigh convinced there were more than six Utopias in Kansas.

FISHING ON SUNDAY.

Spring . . . nostalgia for Hometown and the clandestine fishing trips with Dad on Sundays when I should have been in church. We were up at four for a hasty breakfast. Then we seized a lunch prepared by Mother—fried chicken, hard boiled eggs, green onions, cookies such as only Mother could make—and hurriedly departed before the neighbors should arise and report that we were goin' fishin'. A three mile walk, more fun than riding in the buckboard, and we were at Buck creek; its water so clear you could see the big fish swimming about. . . . No fancy bait; just big fat worms dug from a special place Dad and I had found; and soon the thrill of the first bite . . . bobbin disappearing . . . and I had caught the first catfish, all of six inches long. I know now that Dad had left his hook unbaited so I'd have the honor of the first catch. . . . All day we fished, stopping only long enough to eat the lunch, and at the end there'd be a string of sunfish and cats. . . . Then home through the dusk, tired but so happy from a day with nature at her best. Mother would clean the fish, dip them in cornmeal, fry them in butter to a golden brown and serve with hot biscuits and mustard greens. No food ever tasted better. Jin-Jin.

BIGGER, BETTER WEATHER.

Sir: Lollyville has more weather than any city I ever lived in. Been here four months. I've seen lightning so good you could wind the clock, turn your socks inside out, brush your teeth, and read next day's Racing Form on just one flash. When it rains you never get your feet wet if you tuck 'em on the seat under you as you drive—unless you meet a bus that throws very high waves. Even on the hottest summer days you can always find cool spots about the size of a piece of confetti if you'll feel around on a cake of ice. But to get the full effect of the Lollyville weather you have to stick around in winter. One local booster told me last January that when his kids blew soap bubbles they would freeze so hard [bubbles, not kids] that it was possible to play marbles with them. Joe Buzzard.

DO NOT BE ANXIOUS ABOUT YOUR HEART.

EVERY little while some one will appear at a physician's office with the statement: "I think I have heart trouble and wish to find out what it amounts to." The symptoms presented may point directly to circulatory difficulties, and one need not wonder that the patients themselves are disturbed. But then, errors in diagnosis are made even under the best and most favorable circumstances, hence physicians have learned to place less and less reliance on the existence of a murmur—the soft, blowing noise that may replace the usual brisk "click" of the beat.

I have in mind the case of a young woman who was told by her physician that he could detect such a swish. I do not believe that he realized how seriously the situation would be viewed by the family or by the victim. The murmur was not an organic lesion, that is, there was no change in the structure or function of the pumping organ. It was one of those sounds which may be heard when the blood becomes too thin or does not contain enough hemoglobin.

The fact is that the patient had chlorosis, or green sickness, which was remedied as soon as she was able to absorb enough iron. As the hemoglobin rose in amount and approached normal the murmur disappeared. Although she improved in all respects, her cautious parents were unwilling to permit the slightest exercise. The young man to whom she was engaged was shooed away, father telling him solemnly that he was sorry, but daughter was in no condition to think of marriage.

Nearly a year elapsed before she fell into the hands of a physician who explained that an abnormality detected at each contraction and pulsation did not necessarily mean disease. He had a hard time convincing the parents, but a gradually increasing exercise program proved his contention. Within two or three months the patient was her normal self. I am glad to say that friendship with her betrothed was renewed. He had not journeyed beyond recall.

But there are other functional affairs [not organic or structural] that simulate cardiac disorders down to the finest point. They occur in supersensitive individuals, often the overconscientious, worrying type, who may complain of palpitation or of exhaustion. The slightest exertion increases the rate of the beat brings on breathlessness, and if they are subjected to exciting episodes they will frequently be obliged to go to bed to quiet the trembling of the heart as well as of the muscles.

Many of these persons will say, "I can't get a real good breath." Nevertheless there is not a single sign that the physician can put his finger on which will tell him definitly that the muscle is actually diseased. It is evident, then, that the panting or puffing is of nervous origin.

Of course, it goes without saying that every one with a rapid pulse should be studied from the standpoint of too much thyroid secretion. Occasionally there is a toxemia which has made the heart muscle a bit more irritable and hence less stable. But that does not mean that it is affected organically. It does indicate, however, that a focus of infection should be located and eliminated.

We can exclude heart disease in these persons, first from the fact that the organ is not enlarged and because there are no symptoms whatsoever of heart failure. We can usually identify the real trouble by noting that the patient is anxious and frightened about himself. A man with large responsibilities, if the pressure of business becomes too great, may settle down into one of those states of supposed illness.

It is well to investigate the engine of the body now and then, but in the absence of some structural or muscle defect, for the relief of symptoms, the attack must be directed to the nervous system. More rest, more play, less worry, fewer fears will effect a cure. Have an electrocardiogram taken by all means. That record, plus the findings of the physician, will prove reassuring in most instances.

BLINDED BY MEASLES.

W. F. B. writes: I am blind in one eye, the result of measles in childhood. Will the other eye be affected eventually?

REPLY.

Probably not. Special care of the good eye, however, should be exercised. Should pain or inflammation appear in either eye, consult a skilled ophthalmologist at once.

LARGE ANKLES.

R. D. W. writes: I have noticed that many young girls, especially those who work in offices, have very large ankles. How may this condition be overcome?

REPLY.

Large ankles are natural to some people. Dancing, massage, and special exercises may help to reduce them.

RUPTURE IN EYE.

Mrs. J. O. writes: Several months ago a blood vessel in my eye broke because of high blood pressure and highstrung nerves. Will this ever heal?

REPLY.

Your eye condition will heal in time, but it may take a year or more. There will be—probably—some loss of vision. Cultivate a quiet, philosophical outlook on life and try not to get excited about anything. Keep your general health good and rest a lot.

ACNE SCARS.

REPLY.

There is not much that can be done. Sometimes light therapy helps. If the lesions are unsightly skin grafts made by a skilled surgeon may be applied.

SEEING DOUBLE.

W. writes: What causes a person to see double with one eye while the other is normal?

REPLY.

A person sees double when there is some irregularity in the action of the muscles which move the eyeball. It is a symptom of several nervous diseases and often a temporary attack follows an injury to the eye, intoxication, or some disease such as diphtheria.

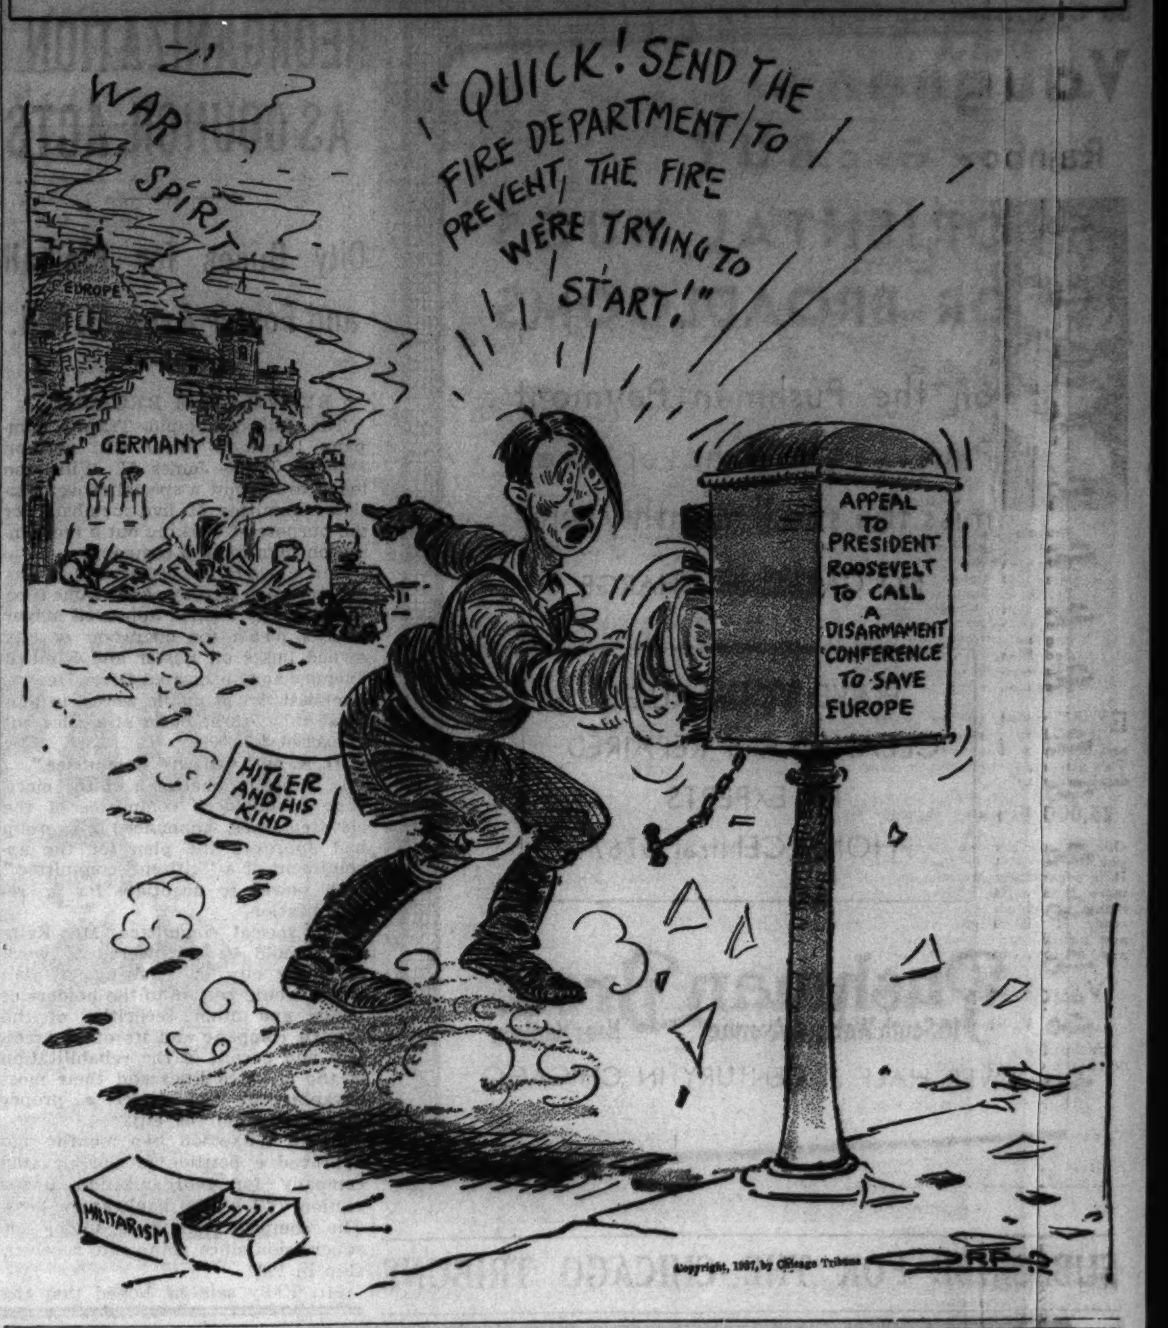
FOOD FOR BRAINS.

F. writes: Is there anything to the old idea that eating fish adds to one's brain power?

REPLY.

No. Fish is a choice and tasty addition to the menu, supplying important food elements.

AN INCENDIARY TURN IN THE ALARM



From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

APRIL 22, 1917.

WITH THE BALFOUR PARTY.—Great Britain's high commissioners to the international war council, to begin in Washington next week, set foot on American soil at a place which cannot be named and now are on their way to the capital. Arthur James Balfour, former premier and now secretary of state for foreign affairs of the empire, was the central figure of the party.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Fielding H. Yost, the famous coach of Michigan university football teams, announced that football practice would be discontinued at the institution for the present. He thrilled football candidates with a plea that they "do a man's part in the defense of their country."

LONDON.—The coming week may see startling developments in Austria. Developments in the dual monarchy have taken so sensational a turn that real peace overtures are looked for in several well informed quarters.

CHICAGO.—A. A. Sprague, president of Sprague, Warner & Co., filed charges against three young men who refused to rise when the national anthem was played in Orchestra hall by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The young men were locked up at the Clark street station and held pending the arrival of Hinton G. Claybaugh, chief federal investigator.

LONDON.—England wonders that in a war of democratic principles so clearly defined by President Wilson there should be opposition in the United States to democracy's supreme common duty—compulsory, universal, military service.

CHICAGO.—Bread is going to cost more—either more will be charged for a loaf or the loaf will be smaller. But William Schulze of the Schulze Baking company told THE TRIBUNE that no change would be made before May 1.

MINEOLA, N. Y.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in a forceful address, advocated that steps be taken at once to limit the amount of grain used throughout the United States for brewing and distilling intoxicating liquors. He also advocated that joy riding in automobiles be stopped so the nation's supply of gasoline may be conserved for war purposes.

CHICAGO.—Orders emanating from President Wilson, directing the arrest of "not more than twenty-five nor less than fifteen" persons suspected of being cat's-paws in the German espionage system of the middle west, were reliably reported to be in the hands of the local government.

MORTGAGE FOR LOAN.

Cicero, Ill., April 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me just [1] how or what kind of a mortgage I should make out [2] to my father, who resides in Cook county and holds $1,500 mortgage, and the drug store I have in mind is located in Du Page county?

3. Just where should I register the chattel mortgage, in Cook county or Du Page county?

4. How often does one have to renew a note or chattel mortgage?

5. Could you send me a sample chattel mortgage or mortgage blank?

6. I should like to know what to give my father for the $1,500 he loaned me? Also, do we have to have witnesses, and how many? Does it have to be sealed by a notary? O. L. K.

1. Depends on facts that are not before us.
2. Do you mean that you are going to purchase property from your father and give him a purchase money mortgage?
3. The statute says: "The recorder of the county in which the mortgagor shall reside at the time when the instrument is executed and recorded, or in case the mortgagor is not a resident of this state, then in the county where the property is situated and kept." [Ill. Rev. Stat. Chap. 95.]
4. At the expiration of three years there can be a one year renewal.
5. We have no copies for distribution, but you can obtain one from any stationer.
6. In view of the obscurities of your facts and of your evident inexperience we advise you to employ an attorney.

AMATEUR FLYING.

Chicago, April 17.—A lot has been said concerning the dangers of amateur flying, but I would like to offer a little information on that subject. In the first place, how many people know that unlicensed pilots flying unlicensed planes are actually safer in the air than a licensed pilot in a transport plane? This may sound a little fantastic, but one has only to look up the records of crashes to verify my statement. The accidents in home-made planes are far less than those in which commercially produced planes were involved. The reason for this is that the vast majority of amateur planes have a top speed of less than 100 m. p. h.

What I want to know is why Illinois is less progressive than other states in this matter. At least one other state will license amateur planes, while most of them will allow amateurs to fly their planes provided they keep off commercial airports. However, in our dear state if some fellow builds a plane and flies it from his uncle's cow pasture he is very apt to land in jail.

Many amateurs have ideas that are quite feasible, but because of old-fashioned state laws they can't develop them. The United States government will allow amateur flying, but our state prohibits it. Why? WILLIAM E. STARRETT.

THEY MADE THEIR BED.

Chicago, April 16.—Should your curiosity be aroused by loud guffaws and chortles of glee emanating from the west side, be informed that it is only I in a state of mirth induced by the discomfiture and injured dignity of the southern representatives in congress over the passage of the anti-lynching bill by the house.

Perhaps I'm too vindictive, but for me, about the only act proposed or passed by congress lately, which has given me any satisfaction or amusement, is this bill aimed at the south. Let the southern leaders of the Democratic party who earlier in this administration prostituted their principles in their unreasoning desire for party power and prestige now squirm and grow hot under the collar in one of the first contemplated applications of power by this federal monster which they created in their insane flush of victory.

Poetic justice, I calls it!

JOHN JERSIN.

SKEEZIX'S MISSING LICENSE.

Park Ridge, Ill., April 12.—Please inform Cartoonist King, who gives us "Gasoline Alley," that the police are [or should be] handing out free tickets to autoists who have failed to secure their state license by this time. Skeezix's car does not seem to have any.

ROBERT K. BRUCE.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 15.—On Jan. 21 we called your attention to the use of the term "war between the states" for "war of the rebellion" in your issue of Jan. 19.

More recently this term has been used again in your columns. On April 4 Frank Cipriani used it in his article, "The Shooting of Jim Fisk," and again in your issue of April 11 in an article on "Damyankees Get Cool Reception Up in Evanston" the term appears.

The only authority for the term "war between the states" is the United Daughters of the Confederacy. It has neither constitutional, governmental nor congressional approval.

We believe that the policy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is against approval of the slaveholders in rebellion, but the use of the disloyal term, "war between the states," signifies approval of the confederate states of America as a separate, legally organized government; but our government never recognized them as other than rebels and as rebels they surrendered. [Carveth Wells, who recently used the term "war between the states," in a broadcast over W-G-N, states, amazingly, in a letter to us, that he never heard of "the war of the rebellion."]

Some one on your staff, assuredly, is interested in promoting this gesture of disloyalty in the use of the term "war between the states." We hope you will put a stop to his activities.

[MISS] LUCY S. STEWART,
Secretary, Society for Correct Civil War Information.

THE DRAFTING OF BILLS.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 16.—In your paper of April 14 I read that Representative Dies [D., Texas] has introduced a resolution "providing that the executive department may not hereafter draft legislation for congress except at the specific request of a standing committee." The resolution stated that it was evident that much of the difficulty in congress in passing valid acts was due to the unskilled manner in which bills had been prepared by "theoretical lawyers" in the executive department.

That does not quite seem to coincide with President F. D. R.'s recent accusation that the Supreme court had "assumed legislative functions." By looking at the New Deal record of the past four years it is apparent that Representative Dies is placing the unconstitutional assumption of legislative power right where it belongs. G. D. C.

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT.

DEAN LEE RAPS NEW DEAL PLAN TO PACK COURT

Characterize Program as 'Gross Impropriety.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—Dean Edward T. Lee of the John Marshall Law school, Chicago, told the senate judiciary committee today that President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the Supreme court during the pendency of cases in which the government is interested is a "gross impropriety" which would amount to contempt in any common law or equity court.

Dean Lee.

"The Supreme court would have been justified, in the judgment of all law respecting citizens," said Dean Lee, "in announcing, when this bill was proposed to congress, that it would not decide any cases involving questions of constitutionality, in which the administration and congress were politically interested, until public agitation and hostile criticism had abated and reason had resumed its wonted sway.

Atmosphere of Agitation.

"The Supreme court has more than once set aside a verdict of a jury and a judgment of a court when the evidence showed that they were rendered in an atmosphere of agitation and terror prejudicial to a calm consideration of the constitutional rights of the defendant."

Dean Lee defended the Supreme court as a protector of the inalienable rights of the individual, "as shown in the Schechter [NRA] case, a case of a Jewish citizen; in the Scottsboro case involving some helpless Negro boys; in the Meyer case, involving a German Lutheran school teacher in which the court held invalid a statute of Nebraska forbidding the teaching of foreign languages in school; and the Oregon compulsory education case in which a society of Catholic sisters were defendants charged with violating a law of Oregon requiring children between 8 and 16 years of age to be sent to a public school."

Concerned About Labor.

The witness said that all Americans were concerned about the labor situation in this country, but that the trend was backward to serfdom. Instead of the old English serfdom where labor was bound to the soil and could not change its habitation, he declared, the trend now is to a "serfdom where the man who works for wages is bound to his job and cannot quit it for another without leave and license of a labor boss or a burocrat."

"'We do not know where we are going but we are on our way' sums up the situation," Dean Lee said.

Baby Swallows Safety Pin; Bronchoscope Removes It

Bruce Cavanaugh, 9 months old, swallowed an open safety pin yesterday while his mother, Mrs. Leo Cavanaugh of Kankakee, was giving him a bath. X-rays disclosed the pin had lodged in the bronchial tubes. The child was taken to St. Luke's hospital in Chicago, where the pin was removed with a bronchoscope. Last night Bruce was doing well.

Gerard Brenden Darrow, with one of books he has studied to acquire knowledge of native birds of North America.

Robins on the south shore needn't think they're keeping any secrets from Gerard Brenden Darrow. At the age of 4 he knows their family history and their scientific name, and probably can tell them more about building a nest than they know themselves.

Gerard is known as a prodigy in the field of ornithology. He knows so much about the subject that the Audubon society recently honored him. In his home at 7718 Kingston avenue Gerard recited the names and habits of 365 birds yesterday, and appeared surprised that his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Darrow, couldn't do as well.

POLICE CAPTURE 3 ROBBERS WHO BEAT WOMAN, 86

Rogers Park police yesterday arrested and obtained confessions from three men less than twenty-four hours after they had tortured Mrs. Louise Crass, 86 years old, 6449 Magnolia avenue, and looted her apartment of valuables worth $4,000. Mrs. Crass lives with her son, Dr. Edgar Crass, a loop oculist.

The prisoners are Delmar Murphy, alias Tracy, 27, colored, former houseman in the Crass apartment; Leonard Anderson, 37, 856 Wilson avenue, and Thomas Atkins, alias Booth, 444 South State street. Atkins recently completed a Bridewell sentence for assault and battery and pandering.

Murphy gained entrance to the apartment on a pretext. Then he admitted the others who bound Mrs. Crass and a maid. They beat Mrs. Crass, a semi-invalid, with a hammer handle before digging out a wall safe which contained jewelry. Murphy was recognized by the women. He was arrested in a restaurant at 12 East Illinois street. The loot was recovered.

STATE ATTACKS CHILD MARRIAGE; ACCUSES MAN, 32

Madisonville, Tenn., April 21.—(AP)—District Attorney General R. Beecher Witt said tonight the mother of 12 year old Geneva Hamby, child bride, had sworn out criminal warants against Homer Peels, 32, the bridegroom, and the clerk who issued their license. The mother, Annie Hamby, also signed an annulment bill.

Witt said the warant charged Peels "wilfully, unlawfully and fraudulently" falsified the girl's age in an application for a marriage license.

Monroe County Court Clerk Fred C. Payne was accused in the warant, Witt said, of issuing a marriage license without first having it sworn to by Peels.

PUBLISHERS HEAR SENATOR CLARK RAP COURT PLAN

Roosevelt Lacks Voters' Mandate, He Says.

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri told 600 members of the American Newspaper Publishers' association at a golden jubilee meeting today that the President of the United States and the Democratic majority in congress had no popular mandate "to pack the Supreme court."

"No such mandate was received from the people, for the all-sufficient reason that no such issue was submitted to the people," Senator Clark declared as principal speaker at the session in the Grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria.

"Indeed," he continued, "an entirely different issue was submitted to the people by the Democratic national convention. That was the issue of the submission of proper amendments to the constitution to authorize necessary social legislation, and whatever mandate there was in the last election was in favor of that proposition.

Only One Theory Possible.

"Not by the farthest stretch of imagination can it be fairly said that the American people expressed themselves in favor of changing our fundamental law by enlarging and packing the Supreme court, unless one holds to the doctrin that under our system a tremendous vote of confidence in a free country as a reward for a past nobly performed amounts to the equivalent of a ukase from the people that the king can do no wrong.

"Certainly on no other theory can it be conceived that the last election was a popular mandate for changing the constitution by packing the Supreme court. I know that millions who voted approval of our platform and for reëlection of our President had no such idea."

The speaker said his objection to the President's plan is not so much because it would increase the size of the Supreme court as because it "amounts essentially to abolishing the Supreme court as it has existed since the foundation of the republic."

Urges Fight for Freedom.

Prof. Harold L. Cross of Columbia university urged the publishers to defend freedom of the press.

"You are trustees in defending the right and freedom of the press," he said. "It is no special privilege you hold for yourselves. You have no right to surrender this freedom, nor any right to endanger it by excesses."

He asked the publishers to be unbiased, act like professional men "and conduct researches and make findings of facts."

U. S. HOUSING BILL INDORSED BY CITY COUNCIL

The city council in a resolution yesterday urged congress to pass the Wagner-Steagall housing bill which would make available federal funds for low cost housing projects to relieve the growing shortage here.

Municipal housing authorities, under terms of the bill, would be able to borrow from a 200 million dollar appropriation up to 100 per cent of the cost of any building, amortizing the loan by bonds secured by rents. Private corporations, such as neighborhood groups, might borrow up to 85 per cent of the cost in the same manner.

Ald. John E. Egan [13th], chairman of the council special rent and housing committee, sponsored the resolution.

Common Sense Methods Cure Finicky Eater

Child Usually Responds to Intelligent Treatment.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

That Waterloo of so many mothers—that battlefield strewn with mothers' nerves, headaches, heartaches, and self-control—their child's mealtimes, could usually be avoided if they would just travel the simple route marked with the sign post: Common Sense.

I could give you and have given you elaborate and detailed directions for, first, avoiding eating troubles with your child, and, second, for curing them once they have been established. But sometimes I feel like saying: "Never mind all this detail and analysis, sound though it is. Just sit down and figure out what would be the common sense road to take and then take it."

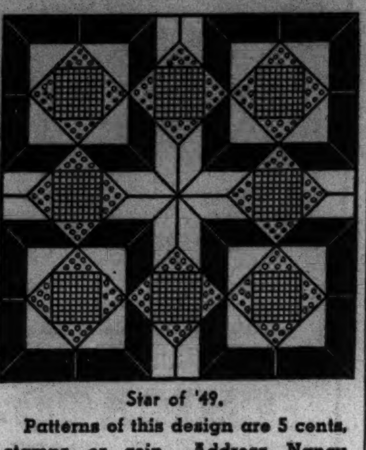
Now I know that real common sense is rather rare, instead of being widespread, as its qualifying word, "common," implies. But there are many persons who possess it and exercise it in relation to nearly everything, except this matter of a child's eating. They seem to feel that a child's eating, a child's relation to food, is a thing apart. This is not really so, generally speaking, and the exercise of common sense probably would prevent [or solve] more than half the eating troubles with which parents meet.

The carrying out of a common sense program I shall have to leave, in detail, to your common sense! But I will give you a clew that I think should start you traveling on the right road. That clew consists of thinking of your child, in relation to food, in the same way that you think of the adults of the family in relation to food. Instead of going at the job of getting food into your child as if it required an elaborate, strange technique, go at it as if it were a simple, normal process for a child to eat—which it is. That there will be some individual problems goes without saying, but the principle suggested always holds good. Let that be your clew.

What common sense means in relation to this difficulty will be discussed tomorrow.

"Curing and Preventing Mealtime Troubles" is the name of a leaflet which will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a large 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quilt Is One of Two Blocks with Identical Title



Star of '49.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Star of '49" is one of two pieced quilt patterns of the same name. Which is the authentic design is a moot question. The block illustrated today rates as one of the handsomest of the many star patterns. It is not difficult to piece, but the many patches in the single block require time and patience in setting them together. The finished block measures 21 inches square, and only 12 pieced blocks are used in one coverlet measuring 91 by 106 inches when completed. These blocks are set together with four inch bands of white material. Light and dark red printed materials and white are used in the color scheme.

One of the loveliest things about April is the proximity to May with her blossoms, May baskets, and May morning breakfasts.

The early rising sun and the freshness of the spring air make this the loveliest month of all for a breakfast party. Church organizations, club, high school or college group, find May breakfasts delightful and happy occasions which will be long remembered.

A breakfast which follows a simple menu pattern may be quite as enjoyable as a five or six course affair, and is to be more highly recommended because of its air of informality. Food should be attractively served, and the table decorations should be springlike in theme.

These menus for May morning breakfasts are not elaborate, but each may be the foundation of a lovely party.

To make the grapefruit baskets in the first menu and the orange baskets in the wedding breakfast plan, large, smooth skinned fruit is required, one grapefruit or orange for every two persons. The fruit is cut in two and the halves are hollowed out, the fruit flesh to be combined later with other fruits which go into the basket, if desired. To make the handles, cut a rim one-fourth inch from the top of the grapefruit or orange half, cutting to within a half inch of the middle on each side. Lift the rims to form handles and tie them together at the top with a ribbon bow in whatever color harmonizes with the table decorations.

If any of the recipes suggested in these menus cannot be found in a standard cookbook we will be glad to furnish them upon receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

Adviser Gives Hints on Cure of Shiny Nose

Both Oily and Dry Skins Suffer from Ill.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

While a "shine" is usually associated with an oily skin, it may accompany a dry skin, but when a dry skin shines it usually is flaky or scaly. However, if yours is an oily skin, my suggestion is that you first look to your diet. There is a reason for the excess oil, and often it is due to excess consumption of fatty foods. Fatty meats, which include pork, ham, bacon, duck, and goose, should be taken sparingly. Fried foods are on the prohibited list, as are large quantities of butter, cream, and rich desserts. You don't have to eliminate fats entirely, but choose in their place, energy foods that are more easily digested.

General sluggishness of the whole system may be responsible for an oily condition of the skin. Exercise is needed to stimulate circulation. A brisk walk of three or four miles every day, a game of golf, tennis, or horseback riding, soon will start the blood coursing through your veins.

Of utmost importance is cleanliness. It is essential because an oily skin is subject to pimples and blackheads, even acne. Because an oily skin can take a great deal of punishment in the way of cleansing, scrub it with soap, water, and a complexion brush at least once a day, preferably morning and night. And you may find it an excellent plan and well worth the effort, first to use a cleansing cream, this by way of softening the dirt that has lodged in the pores, and to make certain that all makeup is removed. Don't be afraid to work in your cream. The massage is stimulating. For the soap and water washing, let the water be warm, also for the first rinsing. Then splash on plenty of cold water to close the pores. If you think it necessary, an astringent may follow.

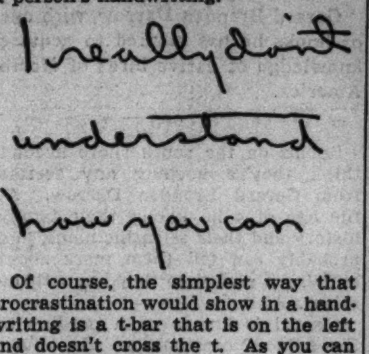
Cleansing must not be overlooked during the day. When you feel your makeup needs freshening, don't repowder or dab on rouge without first taking the precaution to remove the old makeup. A liquid cleanser, followed by an astringent, may be used for the purpose. Repowdering or applying rouge, without first removing all makeup and dirt, only tends to grind the dirt more deeply into the pores, and so adds the additional problem of coarse pores and blackheads to the original oiliness.

Writing Shows Tendency to "Put It Off"

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

A reader is perplexed. He says he has been following my articles with interest and that his analysis was about 100 per cent correct but he adds: "You marked procrastination. True, procrastination is one of my faults but I cannot in any way conceive of how you detect that trait in a person's handwriting."



Of course, the simplest way that procrastination would show in a handwriting is a t-bar that is on the left and doesn't cross the t. As you can see, this man doesn't neglect to cross his t's. He crosses every one, yet his handwriting still reveals that he would procrastinate.

Let me remind you again that the same quality can show in different ways in handwriting. This man writes a calm, deliberate backhand. All the letters are wide and rounded at the top. The combination of characteristics would tell without any doubt that he not only takes his time but gives everything careful consideration before he acts.

Can you imagine any one so analytical and calm and reflective doing anything but procrastinate and put things off? He couldn't rush if he tried.

The persons who show the t-bar procrastination that I have mentioned usually are inclined to be aggressive, writing with a forward slant and often rather pointed letters. They are the deliberate procrastinators, probably because they so often get into trouble by rushing ahead impulsively.

You can safely depend upon it that no true backhand writer ever is impulsive, no matter how nervous he may happen to be nor how spontaneous he may act. Inwardly he is checking himself.

All backhand writers are by no means procrastinators, but those who write a wide, very rounded and leisurely hand are almost sure to need a little pressure before they show signs of action.

Dressy but Quite Simple

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

You can't always wear tailored things, dear to your heart as they may be. There are times when you must dress up a bit, even though it be on a simple scale. For those of you who have feminine but plain tastes, we have designed this graceful afternoon frock which takes to shirring, sash, and wide skirt. Either printed or plain materials make up well, and either sheers or heavier fabrics are appropriate. The neckline may be a plain V decorated with a rather fulsome bouquet of your favorite posies, either real or artificial, or it may have a slightly rolled edge in a contrasting color to harmonize with the sash. The shoulders are broad and the sleeves slightly puffed. The latter may be either long or short. We think you will like the waistline detail. It gives an illusion of length.

This might be considered a "basic" dress, because there is an infinite variety of touches which you may employ to make this frock different every time you wear it. You may change the bouquet or substitute a clip. Lace and organdy edgings also are in order and extremely smart right now.

Style No. 3370 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Bishop Oxnam Warns Friends of Writers Against Dictators

Creative writing of the finest kind is impossible under dictators and Americans must be careful that their government does not drift in that direction, warned Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the Methodist Episcopal diocese of Omaha here last night.

The bishop, formerly president of DePauw university, was the principal speaker at the sixth annual award dinner of the Friends of American Writers' Foundation for Literature in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel.

The organization's Mary Malcom fellowship in American Literature at Northwestern university was awarded this year to Miss Viola Ruth Dunbar, 1934 Sherman avenue, Evanston. The prize for a book of poetry by a midwestern author went to Lionel Wiggam of Northwestern university for his "Landscape with Figures," and the prize for a book of historical nonfiction to Edward F. Rines, 1232 Albion avenue, for his "Old Historical Churches of America."

Linn Wedding Saturday Will Be Small One

Less Than Dozen Relatives Will Attend.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS MABEL LINN, who has been at the Drake hotel for several days, moved out to Lake Forest last night to be with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, until her wedding to Sterling Byrd Lacy of Denver. Dr. Oliver Brackett of the Lake Forest Presbyterian church will officiate at the wedding, which is to take place in the presence of less than a dozen relatives on Saturday afternoon at Pointed Roofs, the Linns' Shoreacres home.

Mr. Lacy and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Lacy, are arriving tomorrow in time to attend the bridal dinner the Howard Linns will give that night at home. Neither Miss Linn nor Mr. Lacy will be attended. It was hoped that the bride's good friend, Mrs. Walter Dillingham, could come from Honolulu to be the only one outside the family at the wedding, but she could not secure pasasge on a Clipper ship in time. Mr. Lacy will take his bride to Denver to live.

Musical Today at Woman's A. C.

A record crowd is expected this morning at the Woman's Athletic club for the last Thursday morning entertainment of the season. Instead of a lecture the program today will be a musical one, to be given by Amy Neill, violinist, and Dorothy Orton, soprano.

Among those who have made reservations for luncheon following the musical, which will begin at 11:30 o'clock, are Mrs. Harry L. Street, Mrs. James S. Kemper, Mrs. Wilson Renshaw, Mrs. Edwin W. Sims, Miss Lyla Woodruff, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mrs. Conrad H. Poppenhusen, and Mrs. Henry Pope.

Mme. Marie Sidenius Zendt, Mrs. George Zendt in private life, is giving a luncheon at her apartment in the Seneca hotel today for Miss Else Brems, mezzo-soprano of the Royal Opera of Copenhagen. Miss Brems, a stunning brunette, appeared in recital before the Musicians Club of Women Monday and was received enthusiastically.

Tomorrow afternoon Miss Brems will be the special guest at the Cordon's after-the-concert-tea. Robert Long will give a musical program. On Sunday the Cordon will have a supper and musical with Amy Neill, violinist; Stella Roberts, violinist; Sydnie Smith Cooley, contralto, and Margaret Farr, pianist, giving the program. Agnes Conover will be the accompanist.

Adlai E. Stevensons to Move to New House.

The Adlai E. Stevensons will be moving into their new home in Des Plaines the first of next month. Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Mr. Carpenter will return from Italy May 15 to spend a month in Chicago before returning to Europe for the summer.

The Carpenters are going to Sweden to spend a month near Stockholm, where they will have a house near that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Ives. Mr. Ives is the American consul in Stockholm, and his wife is Mr. Stevenson's sister.

Good news to the friends of the former Deborah Leonard and her husband, Dr. Frode Jensen, is that the young man, who will be graduated in June from the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, will take his internship at the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago. The night that he receives his degree, June 1, the Jensens will sail for Denmark to visit his parents. They will come to Chicago July 15, when Dr. Jensen will begin his 18 months' internship.

Just Finished Sonata Played by Hindemith

BY EDWARD BARRY.

About 9:45 last night there walked out upon the stage of the Arts club a shy, serious faced, heavy set man who happens to be one of the most important of living musicians. He is Paul Hindemith, pioneering German composer whose musical heresies have been making a stir in the world for many years. The present visit to America is his first.

His immediate purpose when he came before the audience last evening was a performance of a viola sonata which had been finished that very afternoon. This presentation rated as a world premiére, of course, and as one of the promptest premiéres in all musical history. Even Haydn, after completing a symphony, usually delayed a first performance for six or seven hours.

The entire evening was given over to Mr. Hindemith's works. Preceding the new viola sonata was a presentation of the Opus 22 quartet by the Mischakoff string quartet. Following the sonata, the composer and a chamber orchestra performed "Der Schwanendreher," a concerto on old folk songs. Hans Lange conducted the last work.

Mr. Hindemith's musical heresies have sprung from his determination to examine anew every one of the accepted laws of the art and to determine for himself whether these laws are necessarily and permanently valid. His music has freed itself from [or has lost—according to one's point of view] the shackles of tonality, of cadenced melody, and of conventional meter.

Admirers of the style point to the vast new expressive power of such emancipated music. The opposite faction claims that the result is chaos, something entirely hostile, not only to our long accepted ideas of musical beauty, but even to any reasonable conception of musical beauty.

There was fuel for everybody's fires on last night's program. The new viola sonata seems terrifyingly angular, possessed of little that can be related to logical form, and—most serious of all—maddeningly poor in the sort of thing that may be recognized as an authentically fine musical idea.

But in the quartet and in "Der Schwanendreher," Hindemith has not only swept aside the restrictions that surround the older music, but has definitly provided something to make up for their loss. The sheer sound of the music is beautiful and its emotional content wide and deep.

The logic and workmanship which have given the hearer finely chiseled and clearly formed musical ideas, with all extraneous matter cleared away, find in these works a justification that hints at some strange paths that future music may take. The expressiveness of Hindemith's unincumbered melody, for instance, might convince one that the widely accepted laws of harmony and tonality may have strangled several original spirits of the past who lacked Hindemith's courage and aggressiveness.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Whether one enjoys modern music or whether one belongs to the old school that deplores the lack of melody in most modern compositions, I do not see how any one could have helped having a delightful time at the dinner and musical given at the Arts club for Paul Hindemith. It was a rare party.

If you did not like the music you had only to look out through the great windows of the lounge and watch the constantly changing picture of Michigan avenue and the river. But it seems to me that the pictures outside and the music went together; they all were part of the great pattern from which life today is cut.

Not a sound from outside distracted from the sounds inside except the blast from a sand boat as it came through the bridge, a majestic sight, and as the music critic sitting near me remarked, "It's on pitch." The acoustics of the lounge are wonderful; not so the dining room which, when there are 200 dining in it, sounds like a madhouse.

Predicts Style Supremacy for Black Sheers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Doubters can't argue with shop window displays. It must be spring and quite a few days into this hesitant season, for the first of the black sheers have been draped on the wax ladies. Evidently, we're really going to wear black for a day in town this summer.

The dressmakers have been contriving for days and the results are grand. You can wear one of those adroitly draped dull black dresses with very sheer coat of net or allover lace. For color accents wear a sash belt and perhaps a bit of the same color on a saucy small hat. These coats or jackets ought to be popular. The sleeves are moderately full at the shoulder lines but it is a smooth fullness and the skirts flare smartly. One has a satin binding all around the edges of the black net. Another duet has a butter yellow crêpe sash and a stunning black lace hip length coat. Chiffon, lace, dotted or plain net and later filmy organza, all in black are the materials for these sheer jackets. And you'll find long coats as well as the shorter lengths, in all the new showings.

Tailored nets, stiffened chiffons, marquisettes, organzas in black and navy make effective one piece new sheer dresses. All the sleeves are elbow length, necklines are soft and feminine and the skirts slim and sharply plaited, either directly in front or at the back. What is deflantly new—the sheathlike underslips of either crackling black taffeta or crêpe, with the top edge heart shaped then trimmed with black cobweb lace, that shows through the sheer dress.

Good Morning!

"The Woman I Love" proved a great disappointment to me.

Miriam Hopkins and Paul Muni are names to reckon with. But in this opus Miss Hopkins, unfortunately cast, fails to inspire sympathy, and Paul Muni, for some strange reason the only bearded man in the cast, has a part that he plays, probably, better than anybody else could, but which isn't worth his time.

The unimaginative story is localed in France at the time of the world war and all of the principals, none of whom speaks with anything of a French accent, are supposed to be French. So much more credibly might the characters have been either English or American.

As the picture opens a mysterious lady meets and accords her favors to an ardent young flyer about to join his escadrille at the front.

Developments reveal that the lady has given a fictitious name; that her adoring husband [Mr. Muni] is a pilot—a most unpopular one with a "jinx" reputation—who belongs to the same escadrille as the boy.

Well, Jean and Maury become warm friends, and the latter, assigned to a post as observer, asks for the former as his pilot, a request that endears him to the lonely man and, apparently, breaks the spell of bad luck that has darkened his life. . . . He becomes head pilot.

The discovery by Jean that the woman he loves is the wife of his friend, wreaks tragic results—and so, to a depressing ending. . . .

There's not much about this opus that's believable. Especially incredible to me was Jean's treatment of Maury after he makes his discovery.

Young Hayward is boyish and appealing, however, and any fault in his depiction lies rather with the scenario than with his acting.

Mr. Muni touches your heart. His getup makes him resemble certain pictures of Christ. Possibly this likeness was intended and explains the beard—for Maury is persecuted, suffers, turns the other cheek, and forgives and does good unto his tormentors.

Billboard—Error—Mrs. Hall—Irony—D. A. R.

REMINISCENT note: Not long ago workmen in preparation for razing an old building at Dearborn street and Wacker drive removed the billboard which for some years had hidden the weatherbeaten and decaying walls. They brought to view a number of torn and discolored posters and placards. Hurrying pedestrians stopped to read the announcements of "coming" attractions—Mae West in "Diamond Lil," Hal Skelley and Barbara Stanwyck in "Burlesque," Dorothy Gish in "Young Love," Elliot Nugent in "By Request," Waring's Pennsylvanians in "Hello Yourself," and Violet Heming in "This Thing Called Love," and torn fragments that read "Gigli" and "Jack Dempsey."

WHEN the Goodman theater mailed the contract for her rental of the theater for her dance program next Sunday to Marian Van Tuyl the letter was addressed to "Ida Noyes Hall, University of Chicago," and began, "My dear Miss Hall." Miss Van Tuyl, who is head of the dance department of the university, with headquarters at Ida Noyes hall, finally received the letter and contract.

A FEW days ago a large bouquet of yellow roses in Ida Noyes hall commemorated the birthday of Ida E. S. Noyes [April 16, 1853], according to the Reynolds club paper Town Topics, Ida Noyes hall was given by her husband, La Verne Noyes, four years after her death and was dedicated by him to her. In the steel box sealed in the corner stone of the building is this letter addressed to her by her husband, who was a believer in a future life in which his wife was conscious and active:

I am writing a letter to you this morning to be sealed in the box in the corner stone of Ida Noyes hall . . . as if I knew that you would consciously receive it and get information from it and be pleased with its contents, as I know you would have been before your departure. If it does not come to your conscious mind it may come to the hands of some living persons a thousand years hence. . . . I have given in your name to the University of Chicago a very beautiful building . . . as a home for the social activities of the young women at the university. . . . In accepting this gift the board of trustees of the university declared in formal resolution its "especial gratification that there is to be commemorated in the quadrangles of the university the name of a gracious and gifted woman, whose rare qualities are well worthy of admiration and emulation by successive generations of our young women."

BEFORE George Kaufman passed through Chicago on his way to the coast, stopping off to visit relatives and to see how "You Can't Take It with You" was going, he had taken his mother to Florida. One day, stretched out on a couch, he had commented lazily to her, whom he likes to tease: "I wonder if the President is married."

"Why, of course he's married," responded Mrs. Kaufman. "Why do you ask such a question?"

"Well, I didn't know. You never see anything about his wife in the papers," answered her son.

A FRIEND back from Washington, where she attended sessions of the D. A. R. convention, relays this story: At a D. A. R. meeting the various members announced who their patriotic ancestors had been. One said she was a descendant of Gen. So-and-So, another that she was a great-granddaughter of Maj. Blank, and a third that her ancestor had been Col. Somebody. One little woman did not join the general acclaim as to her antecedents, and finally one of the officers asked her if she didn't care to reveal the identity of the member of her family who had fought in the revolution.

"No, I don't mind telling," she answered. "I think I must be descended from the only private in the revolutionary war."

SYNOPSIS.

Malcolm and Susan Dubenny's parents died in a flu epidemic during the war. Susan was taken by her mother's parents, the Somervilles. Mrs. Somerville refused the boy in hatred of his father, who had eloped with her daughter. Malcolm went to live with his Aunt Lorna and Uncle Hugh Lowell, his father's half-brother. When 18, Malcolm, who had not seen his little sister for nine years, went on a secret mission to Crofter's End, the Somerville estate. In the woods of the estate the children met. Susan, not knowing, denied she had a brother. Malcolm left, deeply hurt. Mr. Somerville's sister, Alison Loftus, returns to England after a long absence and visits Crofter's End. She antagonizes Mrs. Somerville by her concern about the fate of the boy, Malcolm, and her visit is cut short. Mrs. Somerville fires a faithful servant, Ella Winch, without notice for falling in love. Sue flies to her defense. Mr. Somerville makes up the injustice. Sue questions her grandmother about her parents and is told her father was a scoundrel. Mr. Lowell suffers an accident and Malcolm leaves school to enter his uncle's newly established firm. He is romantically interested in Sylvia Field, his chum's sister. Sylvia drives to Crofter's End, meets Susan, and tells her about Malcolm. Susan confronts her grandmother with the truth, then flees to Malcolm with Sylvia.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

UNITED.

Malcolm on the telephone: "Frightfully sorry, Sylvia, but I've promised to go out with Tim. . . . But what has happened, what do you mean by urgent? We'll be there . . . but I wish you'd tell me . . ."

Tim to Malcolm: "She's run over some one, the careless little devil, and wants us to bury the corpse in the garden, or run into a police trap and got the wind up."

Sylvia to Malcolm at the restaurant door: "I want a word with Tim. Go in and pinch us a corner table, will you?"

It was too early for regular diners, and the little room was empty, except for a girl in blue who rose up at his approach. Malcolm glanced at her casually and then stopped dead. Brother and sister faced each other, not with hauteur on one side and a blaze of wordly success on the other, as once he had pictured the meeting; not with the indifference and indignation of that summer morning on a country road. She had made a quick step forward.

"Sue!" exclaimed Malcolm.

"Yes . . . Sue Dubenny," she said in eager explanation. "I didn't know. Malcolm, I didn't know."

. . . .

Under the stars in Richmond park the four held a council of state. There was no question any longer of taking her home to Crofter's End. Malcolm was quite firm on that point, saying when he had heard even a little of what there was to tell, a houseful of raving lunatics was no fit place for her. He was of age and her nearest relative and proper guardian therefore.

Sue watched Malcolm's profile and listened to his voice, fearful that this was a dream from which she would awake. She was a little lightheaded after the day's excitement, but happier than she could ever remember to have been. Here was her brother who had dropped like a meteor in her path. She thought him quite as wonderful as he had once planned to be, a delightful state of affairs which could never have been attained but for a foolish woman's determination to keep them apart.

Sue, listening to his plans for her, said eagerly: "I don't want to be a nuisance to anybody. I have an aunt in London, if I can find her tomorrow, and I'm pretty sure she'll help me, until I can find a job. Grandfather turned her out of the house, so she can have no love for them."

"You needn't worry about any aunts," he said. "I have a first class specimen of my own if it comes to that. Aunt Lorna, she's the person for this emergency, and you'll come home with me tonight."

"Won't your Aunt Lorna object?" asked Sue doubtfully, though eager to do what he desired.

"Really?"

["Rifraf," said the echo, granny's voice, "in a squalid room in a back street, with dirty window curtains."]

Sue didn't care in the least.

. . . .

And Charlotte? She, who had believed Barker's picture of that long-ago event and embroidered it for her own comfort, her impregnable defense for refusing the scoundrel Paul Dubenny's son not merely a home but his sister's acquaintance, knew nothing of her loss or of the truth which would soon be told.

She had reprimanded Pender severely and Sue would be pleased at that and find that granny did love and consider her after all. She even mounted the stairs herself to the girl's room to report the battle and explain a few further reasons why she must forget her uncouth brother, but she was not there, nor anywhere in the house, it seemed.

Jonathan had not come in for tea either. Charlotte sat in the drawing room where she would see Sue come in from the garden or her walk, supposing the lovely weather had tempted her out. The scenes and unaccustomed exertion had fatigued her. She slept.

At eight o'clock, when the booming of the gong roused her from a confused and uneasy dream, Jonathan was already reading a mysterious telegram:

"My sister is with me, Malcolm Dubenny."

. . . .

Lorna Lowell sat up in bed and sipped her morning tea.

A noise in the passage reached her ear, voices, subdued laughter, and a shuffle of slippered feet. Malcolm was up early then, in spite of his evening with Tim in town, she thought.

There was a thud on her door and the young gentleman in question opened it and put his head in.

"Can you lend me a dressing gown?" he demanded mysteriously.

Lorna stared.

"One of mine . . . for you? Are you going out in fancy-dress then?"

"Not today, lady. Fact is I brought a girl home with me last night. As we were late and I didn't want to rouse the household, I shoved her into my room, and rolled up under a couple of blankets in the spare room myself. Minnie took her in my shaving water and got the start of her life, because I overslept and was too late to warn her."

"Is this some of Sylvia's deviltry?" asked Lorna with suspicion.

"No, it isn't any one in the least like Sylvia." Malcolm, enjoying himself, had opened her wardrobe and was peering inside. "Just a girl I picked up," he said. "She had nowhere to go and naturally I couldn't leave her to sleep in the park."

"Malcolm!"

"All right, I've got one, thanks," cried the young man from the door, waving her best negligee, and was off, while Lorna jumped out of bed, and then stood distracted, not knowing what to do next.

She was horrified. Had he lost his senses? How dared he do such a thing and with such an air? But not Malcolm . . . they couldn't be going to have this kind of trouble with Malcolm?

Then she heard the sound of voices and laughter behind Malcolm's closed door.

It was too much. She knocked sharply and called him.

"Come along in," he invited hospitably, opening the door.

"Certainly not. I want to speak to you at once."

"She's not nearly as bad as she sounds," he assured the stranger within, and with a laugh produced her—a figure dressed in a pair of his silk pajamas which hung loosely upon her, enveloping hands and feet.

Lorna found herself gazing at two Malcolms, or so it seemed to her excited fancy, though one was a good deal softer and more ethereal than the other.

"It's Sue, Aunt Lorna," said Malcolm. "She's not a Piccadilly prowler."

"Sue . . . my dear! Malcolm, how can you!" exclaimed his aunt in a breath, and the pair shouted with laughter. "I should hope she doesn't know what you mean."

"I can guess," said the late Miss Somerville of Crofter's End, speaking for the first time, and then overcome by politeness, she shook back one of the long sleeves and held out her hand saying, "How do you do."

Twenty Extras Hurt as Wagons Upset During Film Chase

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—[Special.]—Twenty motion picture extras and stunt men were hurt in a mountain side accident involving three horsedrawn vehicles today when one of the wagons overturned on a downhill chase near Corona, Cal. The accident occurred during a scene for a movie titled, "High, Wide, and Handsome," starring Irene Dunne.

John Slater, one of those seriously injured, was the hero of the accident, swerving his four horse team to avoid the wreck of the lead wagon which had upset on soft dirt. Slater had to turn too sharply, and his wagon also upset.

Eddie Warren, driving the third wagon, drawn by six horses, drove into a telephone pole to avoid the struggling men and horses and split his team down the center. His wagon remained upright, with none in it suffering other than shock and shaking up.

Miss Dunne and her leading man, Randolph Scott, were on horseback galloping ahead of the wagons.

Twins Please Studio So Parents Go Home for Third of Triplets

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—[Special.]—Several days ago Movie Director Jack Conway started a quest for four sets of twins, seven or eight months of age, blonde, blue eyes, and to have an Irish appearance. Today Mr. and Mrs. Myles Andrews appeared, talking with an unmistakable brogue and introducing Kathleen and Sheila Andrews, both 7 months.

"What fine babies," said Conway. "I wish I knew where we could get some more like them."

"Do you want more?" Mrs. Andrews demanded excitedly. "Man, why didn't you say so? Myles, you run home and fetch Janna."

The Andrewses had triplets last September. Janna was put on the studio pay roll with her sisters. "You are a wonderful woman, Mrs. Andrews," Conway assured her, "and we shall now be needing only two more sets of twins."

The babies are to alternate for each other as "the Kelly twins" in a movie story titled "Saratoga." Relays of babies are required to get a day's movie camera work done, because California law permits a baby under one year of age to be used before the movie lights and camera only thirty seconds at a time, and only half an hour in a day.

D. A. R. Fights Court Packing in Resolution

Delegates Are Guests at White House.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—No sooner had the Daughters of the American Revolution officially declared against President Roosevelt's court packing scheme here in convention today than they donned their best bib and tucker and sallied over to the White House to shake hands with Mrs. Roosevelt.

In point of interest the annual reception tendered by the President's wife is the top for the 5,000 Daughters who make a yearly pilgrimage to Washington for their continental congress.

Clouds obscured the warm sunshine of the past several days during the reception, but throngs of white gloved women, large bouquets of spring flowers, and the red coated Marine band provided gayety within the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt, gowned in figured pencil blue chiffon, received in the blue room. Standing to her right was Mrs. William A. Becker of Summit, N. J., president general of the Daughters.

In the large delegate body this morning in Constitution hall vigorous applause greeted the reading of the resolution which condemns President Roosevelt's court packing scheme and asks that such change be made only through constitutional amendment. The resolution was adopted with only 150 dissenting votes.

With this official action of the national society, Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson of Winnetka, Ill., chairman of national defense for the D. A. R., will now accept an invitation to appear before the senate judiciary committee.

Other resolutions adopted today by the continental congress placed the D. A. R. on record against the rebuilding of the front of the capitol building and also against the destruction of Japanese cherry trees for the erection of a Thomas Jefferson memorial in the tidal basin.

In still another resolution adopted unanimously the Daughters reaffirmed their stand that every public servant should be required to take an oath of allegiance to the constitution.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Villain Still Pursues Her

Linn Wedding Saturday Will Be Small One

selberry Jr., and his bride of a few months are building a home near Asheville, N. C., so they will not be year 'round residents of Winter Park.

Le Cercle Français will leave the quiet hominess of its own headquarters to give a card party, fashion show and tea at the Drake hotel next Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Daniel Taylor is chairman of the event, which is an unusual step for Le Cercle to be making.

Mrs. Taylor has invited several young women to act as models in the show which will start at 4 o'clock, when tea will be served. The card playing will begin at 2 o'clock. Proceeds will go to the educational and philanthropic fund of the organization.

Mrs. Hadar Ortman of Evanston is chairman of the rummage sale the Mary Crane league is holding today and tomorrow at 1027½ Davis street, Evanston. The doors will open at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and the sale will continue until 10 o'clock tonight. The hour for the opening tomorrow will be 8 o'clock. Proceeds from the sale will go to the Mary Crane nursery school at Hull house, which the league supports.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

MAJOR SUIT SUPPORT.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

A take-out double always implies major suit support.

When the doubled bid is a major suit, strong support in the other major may be expected by the doubler's partner. If, at times, such support is lacking, then the doubler will have equivalent values.

The following hands justify take-out doubles of an opponent's bid of one heart: ♠ K Q 5 3 ♥ 7 2 ♦ A Q J 5 ♣ K J 10. Double; an ideal type of hand with three and one-half-plus honor tricks and support for any suit partner bids.

♠ K 10 9 ♥ 5 ♦ A Q J 6 3 ♣ A J 6 5. Double; although there are only three spades, the support for all suits is good and a take-out double best expresses the strength of the hand.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I played a rather interesting hand at the local country club recently. I am not defending either the bidding or my opponents' leads, but I do feel that it was a nice contract to fulfill.

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	2 spades	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Double [final bid]

"The opening lead was the ace of hearts, followed by a low heart which was won by dummy's jack. On a club lead from dummy East jumped up with the ace and returned a club. The king won, and the diamond finesse was successfully taken. The diamond ace was cashed and a third round ruffed with the deuce of trumps. After that a straight cross-ruff followed. Poor West, who still had his original six trumps, had to play one on every trick, but never actually took a trump trick. Five odd were made, the defenders' aces being the only cards to win tricks.

"Yours very truly,
"V. C. B., Philadelphia."

The moral is that too many trumps may be a white elephant. West should have opened trump and continued with trump leads at every opportunity, admittedly very few on this hand. This defense would have given West two trump tricks instead of none. Incidentally South should have started with a one spade bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Please give the law covering the point in which a defender plays to a trick when it is his partner's turn to play.

Answer: Law 8: If a defender plays to a trick when it is his partner's turn to play, declarer, unless he has played from both hands, may require the other defender to play his highest or lowest card in the suit led and, should he be unable to follow suit, to play a specified suit.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

A JO-JOTTE POINTER.

I already have told you, when you play Jo-Jotte, to try to name a trump suit in which you have the jack, nine, or both. These cards, which have no scoring value in a suit which is not trump, become the two highest cards of the trump suit, worth respectively 20 and 15 points.

At the same time the ace, which is the highest card of any other suit, is relegated to a lower rank in the trump suit, becoming third highest [under the jack and nine] rather than highest. Look at this hand:

♠ J ♥ A 10 K ♦ K ♣ 8

Hearts seem to be the strongest suit. Count the hand's value at hearts: Ten points for the ace, 10 for the ten. Total, 20 points, and, furthermore, your opponent may capture the ace or ten by leading out the jack or nine, which would be higher cards if hearts were trump.

The proper thing on this hand is to bid spades. Then the spade jack assumes a value of 20 points. The ace and ten of hearts will be the highest hearts and will be worth 10 points each. Total value of the hand, 40 points, enough to make a bid.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Virginia Clark, Chicago radio star, and James O. Bengston, an official of the Chicago Apparatus company, yesterday obtained a marriage license. Before departing for Benton Harbor, Mich., in the afternoon with Kathryn Campbell, the headliner of "Bachelor's Children" on W-G-N-Mutual, and Frank Rahr, CBS executive, to help pick Michigan's blossom queen last night, Miss Clark told friends that they would be married on Saturday at Fourth Presbyterian church chapel.

Virginia Clark.

Ben Bernie on Tuesday evening put on what he called a super trailer of his new picture, "Wake Up and Live." That was an understatement. The program was given over entirely to ballyhoo for the picture and logrolling for people who had to do with making it. Darryl Zanuck, boss of 20th Century-Fox, got the biggest plug; Gordon and Revel, the song writers; the director, Walter Winchell and other players were treated to honeyed phrases; yes, even the publicity department was praised. And Louella Parsons.

Broadcasting has certainly come to a pretty pass when you can't tune in a Ben Bernie program without hearing Louella Parsons. She has had much to do with starting this terrific ballyhoo for Hollywood pictures and personalities on the air. You hear a lot of it from Cecil B. De Mille on the Radio Theater, too.

Junior Leagues Plan Dinners for Conference

Expect 325 Delegates at May Meeting.

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The Evanston and Chicago Junior League conference committee entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in the chic new clubrooms of the Chicago League at the Drake hotel, to discuss plans for the coming five day meeting of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, May 17-21.

Miss Marjorie Kimball of the Chicago League and Mrs. Alfred H. Taylor of the Evanston League are co-chairmen of the conference, which will have 325 delegates from the 145 leagues in the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Honolulu. It will be the seventeenth conference of the leagues.

A highlight of the national meeting will be the dinner parties several Chicago and Evanston hostesses will give on the Wednesday night of the conference when the delegates will be divided into nine groups representing the nine geographical regions into which the association is divided. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy will entertain at the Casino; Mrs. Carol W. Alton, Mrs. John J. Louis, and Mrs. Arthur W. Rogers of the Evanston League will give a joint dinner at the Racquet club; and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Nelson L. Buck, Mrs. Lansing Warner, and Mrs. Henry H. Windsor Jr. will entertain at dinners at home.

There will be no masculine guests at any of the affairs planned for the visitors except for the second night when the delegates will take dinner in groups of two or three with their hostesses, who may on that occasion include their husbands and provide masculine friends for their visitors.

The first night will find the delegates and Evanston and Chicago League members at a banquet at the Palmer House; and on the fourth night the leagues will give a dinner party at the Arts club. The conference will be concluded with a meeting and luncheon at the Casino on Friday, May 21.

The meetings and luncheon on Monday will be held at the Drake; on Tuesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel, and on Wednesday at the Chicago Historical society where the exhibition of fine arts and handicrafts of association members will be on display. Thursday's meetings and luncheon will be held at the Woman's Athletic club.

Mrs. Peter L. Harvie of Troy, N. Y., president of the association, will be the houseguest of Miss Honor Merrell. Miss Merrell is carrying off the honors for wholesale entertaining for she is to have five other guests, including Mrs. Billy Shaw Howell of Charlotte, N. C., Mrs. Cyrus Philipp of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Helen W. Leovy of Pittsburgh, who with Mrs. Harvie form the executive board of the A. J. L. A.

Those delegates who are not put up at the home of League members will be taken care of at hotels, but all of the visitors must be driven in league members' automobiles wherever they go, and the problem of transportation is a pressing one now to the conference committee.

Hollywood, Cal., April 21.—[Special.]—James Hilton, the English writer of "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Lost Horizon," and other book and movie hits is due back in Hollywood with his new and secret wife, Galina Kopernik. The Russian actress got a Mexican divorce just about the same time the British author got a Juarez decree from Mrs. Alice Hilton, now in England. Miss Kopernik's recent spouse is Max Rabinovitch, who was accompanist for Feodor Chaliapin and who now acts as pianist on Doris Kenyon's concert tours. Hilton and his new wife have bought a home in Hollywood.

HUNT VAST GANG OF 'WRECKERS' IN SOVIET INDUSTRY

'Worse than We Believed,' Commissar Says.

MOSCOW, April 21.—(AP)—The vast extent of wrecking activities in Russian industry was disclosed to the nation today by Vyacheslaff Molotov, president of the council of people's commissars.

V. M. Molotov.

Though admitting all the facts were not known yet, he said: "We already know enough to say that serious injury has been inflicted on our national economy, and on heavy industry in particular."

Blame "Trotzkyist" Agents.

Molotov's survey of wrecking and other activities, by what he called "Trotzkyist and other agents in heavy industry and other divisions of our system," was given in a speech before the plenum last month of the communist party and only published today.

"Already hundreds of business managers with communist party tickets, as well as nonparty engineers and technicians occupying responsible positions in the commissariat of heavy industry, where they have been carrying out criminal wrecking activities for a number of years, have been exposed," he declared.

"It is necessary that all roots of this criminal gang be competely exterminated as soon as possible."

Accuses Five Vice Commissars.

He named five former vice commissars, including four former vice commissars for agriculture, as among the wreckers discovered in the past.

Molotov declared: "One must bear in mind that all the criminal activities were only preparatory to more serious and more dangerous blows to be inflicted upon the country in the future with the beginning of war."

COSSACKS TAKE PLACE OF GPU AS STALIN'S GUARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 21.—A decision to take extraordinary precautions to protect Dictator Josef Stalin and other Russian commissars during the May holidays was adopted today at a special meeting of the council of people's commissars in Moscow.

The GPU [secret political police] will not furnish special guards as in the past. Instead, the general staf of the Red army will be held responsible for the safety of the high government officials during their public appearances on May 1 and May 2. A recently formed Cossack division has been assigned to protect the soviet leaders.

The council's action, according to observers, is due to fear that some ousted GPU officials may attempt to assassinate Stalin.

LASTING SILENCE AND SAVINGS win Chicagoans to Servel Electrolux

HAS NO MOVING PARTS

MRS. JOHN DVORAK
Housewife, 4941 N. Tripp Ave.

After three years' experience with the refrigerator that "has no moving parts in its freezing system," Mrs. Dvorak says: "We purchased our Servel Electrolux in April, 1934. We find it economical to operate. We are well pleased with it. Our friends have seen ours and liked it so well that they also bought a Servel Electrolux."

MR. ANDRE DIMETROS
Business Man, 213 Superior St.

A club owner to whom efficient refrigeration is vitally important, Mr. Dimetros says: "My Servel Electrolux keeps my foodstuffs at exactly the proper temperature, which of course brings my customers back. It costs less than a dollar per month to operate. Have never had any expense for service or service parts."

MRS. ELEANOR LAMBACH
Hotel Manager, 909 Foster Ave.

Says Mrs. Lambach: "In 1935, we installed 88 Servel Electrolux in the kitchens of The Admiral, residential hotel. They have materially assisted us in maintaining a high percentage of occupancy. Their quiet and efficient operation has contributed to tenant satisfaction. The freedom from expense for repairs is appreciated by the management."

MRS. WILLIAM ZIPP
Home Owner, 4639 Race Ave.

Having had an opportunity to test her refrigerator in constant, daily use through two long, hot summers, Mrs. Zipp says: "I purchased my Servel Electrolux refrigerator just two years ago. I am well satisfied, as it works like a charm, and recommend it highly to everyone. I find the operating expense of my Servel Electrolux does not run over $1.00 per month."

NOW, with all the summer ahead, is the time to buy an automatic refrigerator. And an ever-growing army of Chicagoans will tell you that the best choice is a Servel Electrolux.

"It never makes a noise," they'll say. "And you save money with it, year after year, on operating cost, food bills and upkeep."

Servel Electrolux is able to bring you this longer, more satisfying service—because of its different, simpler operation. There are no moving parts in its entire freezing system! A tiny gas flame circulates the refrigerant, which produces food-preserving cold and sparkling cubes of ice, unfailingly.

Parts that do not move cannot wear and cause noise, cannot lose their efficiency and increase the cost of operation. Throughout its long life, Servel Electrolux assures the same silent, money-saving refrigeration as it did when new.

CUBS, PIRATES RAINED OUT; TRY AGAIN TODAY

Grimm Would Like to Save Pitchers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs and the Pirates may play their series final this afternoon. And they may not. The weather man seemed to be muttering a bit in his forecasts for this afternoon—something about showers by night, which might mean anything for 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Wrigley field.

Bill Lee.

If the Cubs and Pirates do play the pitchers nominated for yesterday's rained out adventure will be asked to perform. Their names are William Lee and Edward Brandt.

In the event the game is postponed the Pirates will be free to go to Pittsburgh for their home opener, with the Cincinnati Reds. The Cubs will have nothing to think about except going to St. Louis to meet the Cardinals in a three game series, the first of which, tomorrow, will be the Cards' home opener.

If Lee works this afternoon the starting pitchers in the Cardinal series will be Charley Root, Leroy Parmelee and Larry French. If Lee gets another bye this afternoon he will open against the Cards, Root will pitch the second game and Parmelee the third. This will leave French ready to pitch against the Cincinnati Reds at Wrigley field Monday.

Pitching Staf Weakened.

It probably won't take much precipitation or many clouds to bring about postponement of today's scheduled encounter. Manager Grimm does not have to use up pitchers on playless days and if ever a manager had need of conservation in the pitching department at this point in the season it is Charles John Grimm, what with Curt Davis not given a chance to get his stiff arm working for two weeks and Tex Carleton out for at least a month.

The panic will be worse if Parmelee turns in any such spectacle as he did in his last two exhibition appearances. It scarcely is rational, however, to brand Leroy on the basis of those two flops. The big fellow is bound to be bearing down when he goes against the Cards Saturday or Sunday. They always do when they first face the team that has last given them the bounce.

Considerable sentimental interest as well as hardheaded practical baseball observation will prevail in connection with Root's start. The fine old gentleman of the Cubs has worked harder this spring than any one in the Cub ensemble and most of the time showed more class than any of the pitching fellows. Thirty-eight year old fastball pitchers are a gamble any time they start but Root's indomitable fighting spirit and his excellent physical condition make him a man apart.

Knuckle Ball Fools 'Em.

Besides he's not depending entirely upon his hopping fast ball this spring. Figuring that a guy is never too old to learn Charley tinkered with a knuckle ball late last season and now has the pitch developed to the point where he was able to vex the White Sox and Browns no end.

Lee is sure to give a good account of himself whether he pitches this or tomorrow afternoon. Bill took his time about getting in shape but now has only a little battling with his temper remaining in his preparation program.

Manager Grimm has taken no steps to bolster his pitching staf. His on agin, off agin attitude toward Clay Bryant was in the on agin phase yesterday.

Batter Up!

Get your eye on the pitch, smack it and start running—to your nearest mail box.

But first of all, make out a check or money order payable to The Tribune Charities, Inc., for your tickets to the International bouts between the amateur boxing champions of Europe and Chicago's Golden Gloves team.

Prices are: $3.30, $2.20, $1.65 and $1.10. Mail your orders to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

The date of the fights in Chicago Stadium—May 28—is only a little more than a month away.

THE GUMPS—HE'S GOT HER WORRIED

Talking It Over

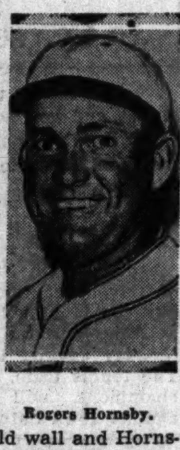
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 21.—After the Browns had hammered Vernon Kennedy from the mound today in a fifth inning assault that included two home runs, Manager Jimmy Dykes announced that he had sentenced Monty Stratton to face the St. Louis sluggers in the second game of the series tomorrow, but maybe a smart barrister can save him. . . . Ted Lyons, who was scheduled to work for the Sox in the opening game against the Tigers at Comiskey park Friday, will have to delay his debut another day, because Sugar Cain has been given the assignment. . . . Jack Knott will pitch for the Browns tomorrow. . . .

Monty Stratton.



Rogers Hornsby.

The crowd of 7,090 that turned out for today's inaugural was a sharp increase from the 1,300 attendance at last year's opening, but nevertheless the stands looked like old Joe Humphries' bridgework. . . . There were many yawning gaps. . . . The postponement of Tuesday's game cut at least 30 per cent from the expected turnstile count. . . . Rogers Hornsby's home run into the center field bleachers in the fifth was one of the longest in the history of Sportsman's park. . . . It is 425 feet from home plate to the center field wall and Hornsby's wallop went into the tenth row of bleacher seats. . . . When Kennedy, Sox pitcher, returned to the bench after the Browns had knocked him out, he said to Manager Dykes: "I hope I get to pitch to Hornsby once more." . . . Which is much like Red Riding Hood demanding a rematch with the wolf. . . .

This was the Browns' first game under new ownership. . . . No other club in the major leagues is so definitly a civic enterprise. . . . The actual purchase of the club from the Ball estate was underwritten by a small group of St. Louis business men, but when it was announced later that fans generally would be invited to participate in the ownership more than 900 men and women purchased stock. . . . Already the new organization has one of the largest scouting stafs in the major leagues searching for talent. . . . In the office of Bill De Witt, business manager, hangs a huge map with different colored pegs showing the club's minor league affiliations, which provide places to develop every degree of talent. . . . The only out of the state director in the organization is Al Curtis of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is a relative of Jesse C. Harper, former athletic director at Notre Dame, now the owner of one of the largest cattle ranches in Kansas. . . . Howard Stephens, St. Louis shoe manufacturer, another director, was a pitcher for Yale in his undergraduate days. . . .

Two hundred cadets from Christian Brothers college, attired in white trousers, blue coats and white caps, maneuvering behind their own band, assisted in the flag raising ceremony. . . . President William Harridge of the American league, who was the guest of Donald L. Barnes, president of the Browns, paraded to the flagpole with Mayor Dickmann, who was installed in office yesterday. . . . Mr. Harridge returned to Chicago tonight to get himself into shape for another parade to the flagpole at Comiskey park Friday. . . . He appeared to have a slight charley horse when he reached his box, which was due, no doubt, to the heavy field. . . . It's getting so a big league executive ought to have a month of spring training to fit himself for inaugural ceremonies. . . . Johnny O'Hara, who used to broadcast Chicago games regularly, is at the mike daily for KWK of St. Louis. He expects to be back in Chicago next season. . . .

Rogers Hornsby was presented with a floral horseshoe before the game by Miss Elizabeth Thompson, queen of the Veiled Prophets, who are said to be the bluest of St. Louis blue bloods. . . . As further evidence that St. Louis really does things in a big way, Mayor Dickmann, a southpaw, went to the mound to throw the first ball. . . . His first two heaves were so wild that he had to take a third before the catcher could locate the ball. . . . Telegrams of good wishes from Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Jimmy Austin, former Sox coach, were displayed prominently in the Chicago dressing room. . . . Jimmy Dykes, who has a cold in his shoulder and a little misery in his right leg, expected that he would be able to play when he left the locker room, but decided otherwise after infield practice. . . . He probably will be in the lineup tomorrow. . . . Six players formerly owned by the Cleveland Indians had a hand in today's contest. . . . They were Berger, Sewell and Bonura of the Sox, and Knickerbocker, Vosmik and Hildebrand of the Browns. . . .

Tony Piet's right thumb, injured in a hotel door, is improving rapidly and he will be available for service in two or three days. . . . It was feared yesterday he would be lost to the south siders for ten days. . . . Edward J. Hughes, Illinois secretary of state, was whooping it up for the Sox. . . . He will be at Comiskey park Friday for the opening game with the Tigers. . . . Gov. Henry Horner, who was here yesterday, returned to Springfield after the game was postponed. . . . Steve Mesner, rookie third baseman, is getting lonesome for his native Los Angeles. . . . He probably will be heading back that way in another month or two. . . . Pitcher Bill Dietrich left for Chicago this afternoon to confer with Dr. Philip Kreuscher, White Sox physician. . . . Dietrich has stomach distress and a severe cold. . . .

President Harridge is elated with the increased attendance at American league opening games. . . . The 1936 inaugurals drew 78,754 paid customers, while this year's attracted 137,000. . . . The biggest gains were in Philadelphia, New York and St. Louis. . . . Larry Rosenthal, Sox center fielder, delayed so long in recovering Clift's fly to short center in the third inning that the Browns' third baseman stretched what should have been only a single into a double. . . . He scored a moment later when Hemsley singled over second. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Realist, owned by W. P. Gaines of Kentucky, won the feature stake race at Aurora. . . . Willie Ritola, Finnish distance runner, shattered the world record for the 5,000 yard run. . . . Babe Ruth of Louisville, Ky., knocked out Paul Wangley in the sixth round at Chicago.

GREY GOLD BEATS BRADLEY HORSES IN DERBY TRIAL

Billionaire, Brooklyn Lose to Long Shot.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., April 21.—Col. Edward R. Bradley's drive for a fifth Kentucky Derby victory began in a gloomy atmosphere here this afternoon. April showers had drenched the Keeneland track. A bad start came in the trial purse at a mile and a sixteenth and Col. Bradley's Derby hopes, Billionaire and Brooklyn, both very tired colts, finished second and third in the race. The winner was Grey Gold, a mud running son of Sir Greysteel-Crock o' Gold, that was foaled in Maryland. He is owned by E. W. Duffy of Detroit.

Never before had he won a race. He acted badly at the post. A dozen times he lunged through the stall gate to delay the beginning of the race. Once more he was brought up from behind and was in full motion when Starter Hamilton gave the field the word to go.

Away Two Lengths in Front.

Grey Gold was away two lengths in advance of any of the others. That start decided the horse race then and there. Billionaire chased him in second place all the way around. Brooklyn, Col. Bradley's main hope for the Derby, chased along in third place and raced wide for the entire trip.

At the head of the stretch Jocky Steffen raced Billionaire up almost on even terms with Grey Gold. There Billionaire faltered. Jocky Basil James next challenged with Brooklyn and he too faltered.

Grey Gold finished two and a half lengths in front of Billionaire. Brooklyn was a half length back of Billionaire in third place. Hal Price Headley's Derby colt, Old Nassau, was five lengths back and in fourth place. Chigre finished fifth and Albubble was last. Albubble ran away a mile and a quarter during the tedious delay of 11½ minutes before the start.

Bradley Still Hopeful.

Col. Bradley, just back from Palm Beach 12 hours earlier, watched the race.

"Don't take our defeat too seriously," he told his friends after the race. "Both colts needed the race and track conditions had nothing to do with it. Brooklyn likes this kind of going and Billionaire's race proved conclusively that he can go in it in pretty good fashion.

"The Derby still is two weeks and a half away. I'm not going to give up yet. Both colts will go in the Blue Grass stakes here one week from tomorrow. I'll know more about them then."

The Bradley entry was at 1 to 5 in the betting so the April showers didn't bring any May flowers to those in the big mid-week gathering at Kentucky's dream track.

And Mr. Weil Was Right.

Added to the hubbub of the rainy afternoon at Keeneland were the shouts of a Chicago group following the running of the Claiborne purse at 6 furlongs.

Ike Weil, Chicago's ex-bailif, proudly walked into the open air paddock and saddled his Derby candidate, My Grandson, for this short dash. Mr. Weil had been endeavoring for a week to make people believe he had a fast horse in this son of Gonfalon-Megam. The 3 year old never before had faced the starter, so Kentuckians would not believe him.

Weil was correct and the Kentuckians were wrong. Jocky Basil James shot him to the front when the start came. He kept him there the rest of the way home. My Grandson was running stronger at the finish than he was at the start.

Another Derby Winner.

He galloped home the winner by four lengths. He was drawing away from his opponents all through the late stages of the race. Zingali finished second, Col. Bradley's Buginarug was third, and Bradley's Bet a Million was fourth.

Weil is confident My Grandson is going to win the Derby.

French Bouts Show Quality Is the Thing

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 21.—France has only 4,000 amateur boxers registered with its national federation, which is a small number compared to those registered with Germany and Italy, where boxing is a part of the national state program. France is like England, Ireland, and most northern nations, as well as the United States, in that amateur boxing is conducted by amateur sportsmen.

However, France's achievements in amateur boxing in recent years rival those of any nation, and the program of national competitions far exceeds that of America, where only junior and senior championships are contested. Paul Rousseau, president of the Federation Française de Boxe, at his office in the Place Boulotiere today, discussed the setup of French boxing in general and the European championships at Milan, Italy, on May 5, in particular.

Team to Fight Chicago.

Out of the European tournament will come the team which fights Chicago's champions in the 6th international Golden Gloves show May 28.

"France's boxing year runs from October to May, with tournaments scheduled in each month," M. Rousseau said. "The principal defect in the plan is the lack of public interest in Paris and the financial difficulties resulting therefrom."

The outstanding boxing centers of France are Clermont, Ferrand, Roubaix, Tarbes, Pau, Sochaux, Strasbourg, Montfeliard, Melun, Limoges, Bordeau, and Dijon. Frequently, crowds of 10,000 watch the departmental and provincial championships decided in these centers, while as few as 2,000 attend amateur bouts in Paris.

"France also has professional boxing, with a natural loss of a number of amateur stars," Rousseau continued. "This condition is impossible in Ireland, where Belfast is the only city having professional matches. Professional boxing also has declined in Germany, with those nations prohibiting export money.

First Tourney Each Year.

"France's novice tournament is the first to be held each year, being conducted in October. In November the various clubs and societies compete in a national meet. This is a preliminary to the beginning of the national championships.

"In December France's 91 departments pick their champions. In January these victors are sifted further in three provincial championships. The February tournaments are inter-

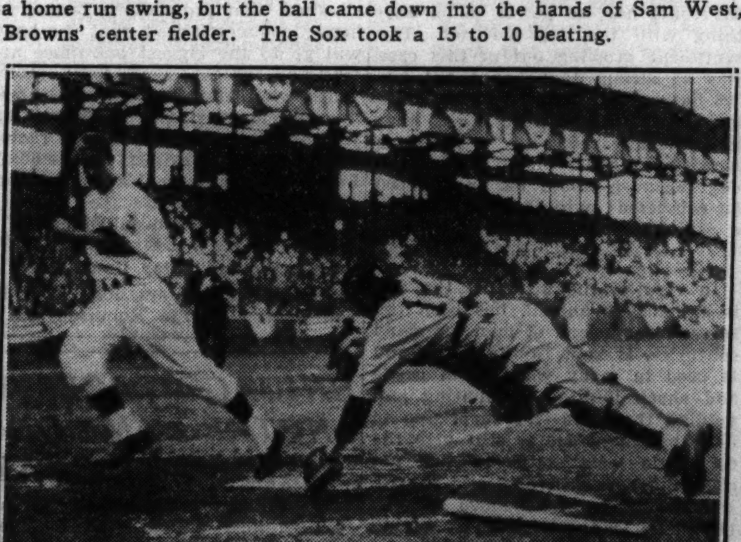
Larry Rosenthal of the White Sox takes what was intended to be a home run swing, but the ball came down into the hands of Sam West, Browns' center fielder. The Sox took a 15 to 10 beating.



Another for Knickerbocker. The Browns' shortstop beats the throwin to the plate for the second of his three runs of the afternoon. He scored from second base on West's single to right field. This occurred in the second inning. Sewell is making a futile lunge.

STRICKLAND GETS DRAW WITH MANN IN TEN ROUNDER

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Maurice Strickland, awkward New Zealand heavyweight, held Nathan Mann, hard punching battler from New Haven, Conn., to a draw in the 10 round feature at the Hippodrome tonight. Strickland weighed 184, Mann 186½.

It was the second successive draw for Strickland, who made his debut with an even battle against Arturo Godoy of South America a few weeks ago. Strickland was too much of a puzzle for the heavy hitting Mann. All arms and stiff-legged, Strickland was so awkward he was tough.

CLIFT HAMMERS OUT FIVE HITS, ONE A HOMER

Hose Stage Six Run Rally in Eighth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—The delayed American league inaugural here today was a swell affair for the Browns but a somewhat harrowing experience for the White Sox. Probably because they were stunned by the sight of 7,090 spectators at one of their openers, the local assortment of old, middle aged and young men went beyond all reason in their season's maiden effort. They almost blew down the fences as well as the enemy with their drives to triumph over the Chicago entry by 15 to 10.

All the usual flag raisings, wild pitches by politicians and brass bands in various stages of development were put on as part of the program but their contributions were merely snickers in a sea of healthy laughs. The big fun maker, for everybody except James Dykes, the boss of the Sox, was Vernon Kennedy. His ears were pinned back in the first inning and were dangling when he was actually removed from a stormy scene with only one out in the fifth.

Kennedy Runs Into Trouble.

The lack of skill on the part of the lad who registered 21 victories last year was evidenced by four hits in the first inning. Three more assaulted him in the second. There were two more in the third, the latter pair accounting for the Browns' fifth run. In the fourth Kennedy actually kept the enemy off the base lines but the fifth was different. Five of them hit him safely before he was granted relief. Another hit was added before John Rigney could mop up. Seven Browns scored during this unrestrained mêlée and three more went home against Rigney in the sixth.

One of the fourteen safe hits recorded by the Browns during Kennedy's régime was exceptionally choice. It came from none other than old man Rogers Hornsby, doubling as a second baseman and manager. The ancient Rogers touched off the fifth inning assault with a real homer which sailed on a line into the distant center field bleachers. But it wasn't the only extra base drive off the Sox ace. Altogether Kennedy yielded 14 hits for 26 bases in his 4 1-3 inning workout. Five of the Browns' total of 22 hits were the offerings of Harland Clift, one of them a home run and two of them doubles.

Sox Hit Too Late.

The Sox did a lot of hitting on their own behalf but most of it came too late to be of value. They actually got into a tie by leaping on Oral Hildebrand for two runs in the second. They pulled up to within one of a tie with two more in the fifth, just before the heavy Brownie firing got under way. Then they remained more or less orderly until the eighth when, with Hildebrand looking anxiously toward the bull pen for relief, they let go with an attack which netted six runs. But by this time six runs constituted nothing more than harmless fun.

After three Sox had dropped in succession in the first inning it didn't take Kennedy long to learn his foes were tough. Knickerbocker blew open the Browns' attack with a single to center. West popped to Appling, but Vosmik walked. Bell lined a single to center, Knickerbocker scoring and Vosmik going to third. Bell headed for second on the throw in, but Appling flagged the toss and Bell was

U. S. G. A. ALLOTS COMMITTEE JOBS TO 8 CHICAGOANS

Women's Association Gets Representation.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Eight Chicagoans have been named chairmen or members of committees of the United States Golf association for the 1937 season, according to an announcement yesterday by John G. Jackson of New York, president of the association.

Harry Radix.

George W. Blossom Jr. will be chairman of the implement and ball and museum committees, and also will serve as a member of the championship, amateur status, and public links groups. R. Arthur Wood is chairman of the public links committee and a member of the rules of golf committee. Mrs. H. D. Raymond, representing the Women's Western Golf association, and Mrs. George C. Davis, acting for the Chicago Women's District Golf association, have been named members of the women's national committee. Norman Freer will be a member of the committee on sectional affairs, while Chick Evans will have a post on the museum committee. Harry E. Radix and C. E. Tregillus will be colleagues on the green section group.

Mohawk Country club in Bensenville will be the scene of two important high school golf meets next month, according to Lew Waldron, club pro. The first will be Fenwick High's intramural meet on May 9, and the second will decide the Catholic High School league championship on May 15. Mohawk also is a contender for the qualifying rounds of the Illinois P. G. A. to be played on May 3.

Jock Anderson of Techny Fields announces that his club is now open for the season. No immediate changes are planned, but it is expected that a few revisions in the course will be made, following the next visit of A. W. Tillinghast, P. G. A. consultant architect.

Extensive improvements at Sunset Ridge Country club are nearing completion and the increased facilities should be available to the membership by May 1. Extension of the locker rooms for both men and women has been made, complete new shower and kitchen equipment added, and a new cocktail lounge has been built. H. B. Payne, president of the club, announces the appointment of E. J. Ehmann as club manager. Dave Tosh, Sunset Ridge pro for several years, returns to his post to find his pro shop and club storage department enlarged 50 per cent.

Funeral services for John Crane, for the last seven years starter at the Westgate Valley Country club, were held yesterday from St. Brendan church. Mr. Crane, who was 66 years old, died Sunday morning. He is survived by his brother Thomas and three sons, Joseph, Dr. Cyril, and Thomas II.

Wally Reich is the new professional at the Big Run Golf club, 135th street and Archer avenue. The clubhouse has been enlarged.

Lincolnshire, Bunker Hill, and Cog-Hill report successful openings of the 1937 season over the last week-end.

A number of changes have been made at the Burnham Woods club, 142d street and Avenue O, according to Professional Jim Noonan, who has just returned from a winter in Miami. The third green has been rebuilt, six sand traps have been remodeled, and 2,000 trees planted. Noonan reports the play exceptionally good. Tom Pollock will supervise the maintenance of the course.

Walter Keller's practice fairway at 5400 North Elston avenue, has opened for play, with a number of improvements completed. Keller, who has been stationed at the Illinois Athletic club during the winter, still talks of the drive made by Jimmy Thomson at his fairway last year. Thomson smacked a ball thirty feet above a train which was passing by the Keller lot, 310 yards away. Keller wonders if the mighty Montague of California could match this one.

HEALY-CULVER TEAM WINS IN HANDBALL MEET

The Don Healy-Al Culver and Bob Quinn-John Stenson teams last night advanced to the semifinals in the state doubles handball tournament at the Madison Athletic club.

Healy and Culver, representing the Hamilton club, eliminated Marty and Jack McElligott of the home club, 21-17, 21-11, while Quinn and Stenson of the Madison A. C. turned in a 21-12, 21-15 victory over Tom Lyons and Tim Barrett of the Chicago fire department.

The semifinals will be held tonight and the finals tomorrow evening.

Helstrom, O'Grabney Win Feature Bouts at Armory

Johnny Helstrom, lightweight, and Marty O'Grabney, welterweight, won the five round feature bouts at the 124th Field Artillery armory last night. Helstrom defeated Gene Spencer, while O'Grabney was awarded the decision over Howard Miller. Other results:

Ray Wozniak beat Otto Fischl [3].

Dog Owners Ask Protection for Their Pets

How to raise, train and feed dogs is expertly told in Bob Becker's "The Dog Book"—96 pages, 72 illustrations. On sale at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower. Price, 25c; by postpaid mail, 30c.

BY BOB BECKER.

With the rabies quarantine still in force in Chicagoland and with dog catchers busy picking up stray dogs on the street, many dog owners are aroused about conditions affecting their pets. Some of these dog owners are bombarding us with letters about the situation. These communications suggest many things that dog owners might do for self-protection.

H. K. L., for example, feels that much injustice is being done by some of the present regulations and thinks it's about time dog owners organize some kind of a protective league. He writes:

"I would like to know what legal status a dog owner has. If it is as bad as I am led to believe something should be done."

An Interesting Point.

H. K. L. has brought up an extremely interesting point when he mentions the legal status of the dog and the rights of the dog owner. In most states and cities the laws and regulations are either outmoded, ambiguous or quite unfair to dog owners. Illinois furnishes a good example. In a city downstate a man poisoned 15 dogs and the only defense he gave was that he did not like dogs. Authorities were unable to convict this man of any offense, as there was no law covering it in any of the statutes, according to Everett Peters of the state legislature.

The judge ruled that [under the law] the dog is not classed as a "domestic animal," according to the old Illinois law now in force. Therefore, the court had no power to do anything with the dog poisoner. The sentiment growing out of this case was so strong that house bill No. 506 has been introduced in the state legislature to revise the law so that it specifically refers to "any dog or domestic animal." Under this bill the dog poisoner would be fined $1,000 [if convicted] with the possibility of a penitentiary term as well.

A Useful Animal.

In view of the fact that the dog is a domestic animal, has been the servant and friend of man for many centuries, is kept in the home, and is used in many ways—from cattle and sheep herding to hunting and guiding the blind—it's surprising to find that many states still give the dog little legal status and do not class the dog as a domestic animal.

Some dog owners believe that by taking out a dog license and having the pet inoculated against rabies the dog and owner have special privileges. According to Chicago ordinances such is not the case. The dog catcher picks up that dog [if it is unmuzzled] so long as it is on the streets running free.

In the Wake of the News

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR HARVEY: I am an old official, now past 70 years of age. While I am no longer officiating, for at least thirty years I did officiate at a great many professional sports games, tournaments, and contests. Among my experiences I list baseball, boxing, wrestling, and many other sports.

I have heard the jeers of the crowd, have received threatening letters, have been insulted, and never so far as I can recall been applauded, yet through it all I cherish memories of experiences that have been mine and am not soured. Neither am I cynical.

The thing that prompted me to write you is the recent attacks that have been made on the nine umpires in Washington, commonly called the Supreme court. I appreciate the position of these men because I have been in a similar position a great many times. It is now being suggested that umpires be selected who will give one side all the close decisions.

That is nothing new. Many a time I was approached by interested parties because my name was submitted as a possible referee for a fight or a game. I never accepted any proposition because, after all, I loved athletics and I realized that when I stepped into the ring I was under obligation to treat both parties fairly and to render my decision honestly.

I note there has been a veiled suggestion that the Supreme court umpires accept a bribe, the bribe being in the nature of a life salary provided they will retire from active duty. I, too, in my lifetime have been offered bribes. In conclusion I want to say, Harvey, that in all my lifetime I have known very few officials who I thought worked a contest with their minds made up to favor one or the other contestant.

I have made mistakes and my fellow officials have made mistakes, but never have I heard suggestions that umpires be selected who will indicate in advance that they will call them all one way. Old Time Official.

In regard to the coming fight we all know that professional boxing is highly commercialized, that the bout will go to the biggest box office attractions, unless some court intervenes, whether it be Louis or Schmeling who meets Braddock. No matter who are the principals, intense racial prejudice will be evident in this bout. I have seen fights in this country and England for fifty years.

They Wouldn't Stay Down Then.

Speaking of fighters, John L. Sullivan floored George Robinson sixty-eight times in a four round bout in San Francisco in 1884. Robinson dropped to the floor about twenty-five times without being hit, which was not then against the rules. Later my playmate, Jim Corbett, won the title from Sullivan. Mort S. A.

The Call.

I heard your call in the twilight's song . . .
I dared not listen for very long,
For you were going another way
And I, the gypsy, had learned to stray
As free as the birdlings that fly at eve;
I heard your call . . . but my heart deceived
A deeper law from the stars above
And I wandered on, but I passed my love.

I heard your call when the night was new,
The summer breezes about us blew
And I felt your kiss, in your tender voice,
And my gypsy soul and my heart rejoiced
But now I weep at close of day.

regional, with eight boys remaining in each weight. These 64 fought last month at Paris for the 1937 titles. Present champions are probably not the best eight in France, since the winners of last year's Olympic meet were disinclined to compete, feeling that they already had won the best honors," Rousseau said.

List of Champions.

Bantamweight—Gabriel Fayaud, Toulouse.
Featherweight—George Vignes, Section Paloise of Pau.
Welterweight—Marcel Renaudie, Toulouse.
Middleweight—Jean Zigan, Football Club Sochaux, Montbeliard.
Heavyweight—André Menegaut, Association Sportive Troyes, St. Savine.

"In addition to these tourneys," Rousseau added, "there are the academy and university championships and those held by the army, navy, and air departments. The air corps has been included for the first time this year, and Jean Despeaux, Olympic middleweight winner, although not competing in the nationals, is expected to fight in the meet held by the air corps, of which he is a member. Roger Michelot, light heavyweight champion of the Olympics, also has forfeited his national title. He was unemployed until recently, and is now preparing to take the police examination."

Lauds Italian Boxers.

M. Rousseau is positive that the Milan tournament will be the greatest in the history of European competition due to the incentive offered of a trip to Chicago. He spoke highly of the Italian boxers, whom he considers the strongest nation in amateur boxing at the present time, with the advantage of fighting in home territory. Rousseau is familiar with Chicago's Golden Gloves, having visited there in 1932, when the German team and the Glovers fought a draw. He is of the opinion that Europe's boxers have an excellent chance of beating the Chicagoans.

GREENLEAF WINS 14TH TITLE IN POCKET BILLIARDS

Defeats Ponzi in Second Playoff Round.

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, New York veteran, came back after a four year lapse to win the world pocket billiard championship for the fourteenth time when he defeated Andrew Ponzi, also of New York, 125 to 107, in twelve innings tonight.

Greenleaf clinched the title with an unfinished run of 53 points.

His victory climaxed a tournament which needed two extra round-robin playoffs to decide the champion. When the regular tourney ended Saturday night, Ponzi, Greenleaf, Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., the defending champion, and Irving Crane of Rochester, N. Y., were in a four way tie. The first playoff left Greenleaf, Ponzi, and Caras tied and forced today's playoff matches.

Both Whip Caras.

Greenleaf whipped Caras, 125 to 60, in 12 innings this afternoon, but Ponzi kept pace by trimming the title holder, 125 to 120.

Ponzi seemed on his way to victory in tonight's final when he scored 25 points in the first inning before scratching. In perfect stroke, he added 23 more in the fifth after playing three safeties and was out in front, 46 to 21. In the sixth Ponzi played safe again and added 33 points when he came to the table in the seventh.

Greenleaf ran 30 in the eighth, and Ponzi in his turn made a long shot and then missed a ball at the other end of the table. Greenleaf made five balls in the ninth and then scratched off a four ball combination.

Ponzi Plays Safe.

Ponzi made 12 and played safe, seemingly secure with a 94 to 55 lead. Greenleaf picked up 17 in the eleventh before missing a long shot, but Ponzi was able to pocket only 13 balls before missing a two ball combination.

Greenleaf came on the table and with careful precision dropped the 53 balls that gave him the title and the top prize of $1,500. Ponzi, who went into second place, received $1,100, while Caras, third, won $900.

GREENLEAF—0 10 0 13 0 0 0 30 5 0 17 53—128. Scratches, 3. Total, 125. High run, 53.

RUFFING'S PRICE NOW $15,500, BUT YANKS WON'T PAY

Star Hurler Is Ready to End Sitdown.

Charles [Red] Ruffing, the big right hander who won 20 games for the New York Yankees last season, said last night he was ready to call off his holdout campaign if Owner Jack Ruppert would give him $15,500. Most persistent of the important holdouts, he had insisted on $16,000.

Charles Ruffing.

Ruffing, who had held out for a contract calling for $15,000 for pitching and $1,000 for his pinch-hitting ability, wasted no words when asked if he was willing to split the $1,000 with the Yankees.

"I'll sign for $15,500," he snapped, "and I'm ready to leave tomorrow. Haven't talked with a representative of the club for quite a while, but if they say $15,500, I'll accept."

At the start of his holdout campaign Ruffing doggedly insisted that he would "sit here all summer," rather than take a dollar less than $16,000. He said he was Manager Joe McCarthy's first choice for pinch hitting duty last season, and saw no reason why he shouldn't be paid for the service. He batted .291 last season.

YANKEE BOSSES ADAMANT

New York, April 21.—(AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy and Business Manager Ed Barrow of the New York Yankees indicated tonight holdout Pitcher Charley Ruffing's offer to "split the salary differences" would not be acceptable to the club.

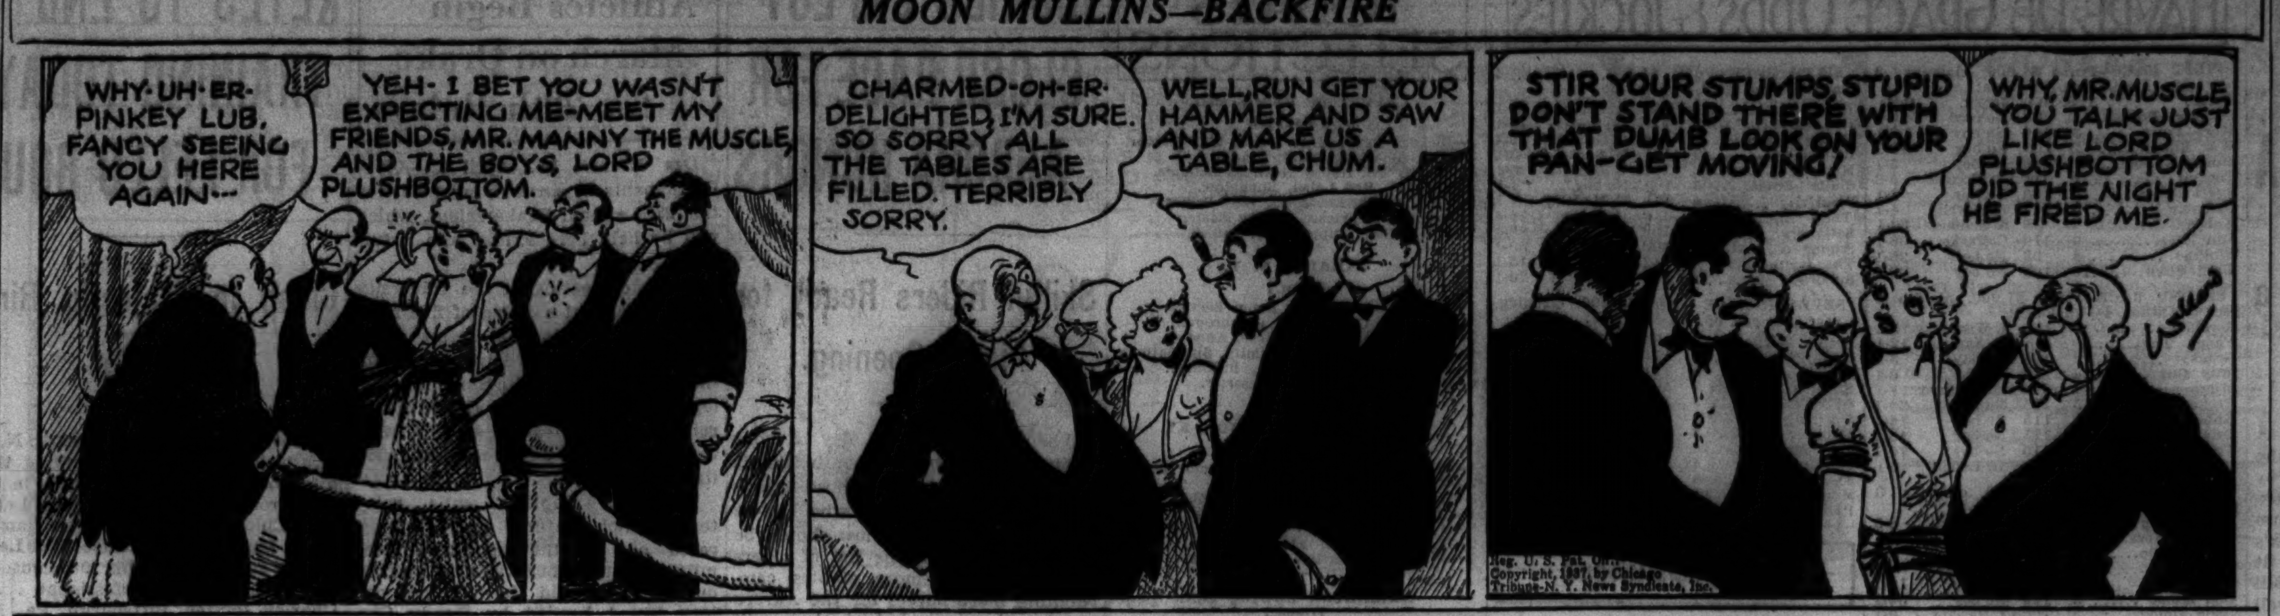
Both said the club had received no word of the pitcher's latest announcement that he would be willing to accept $15,500.

Ruffing received $13,500 last year. He was the only 20 game pitching winner for the world champions, and was used as the number one pinch hitter for the club. Early this spring Ruffing announced he wanted $30,000 for this year. Since then he has gradually reduced his demands.

Reports that the Yanks were getting ready to trade Ruffing, possibly for Vernon Kennedy, star righthander of the Chicago White Sox, were scoffed at by both Barrow and McCarthy.

TRADE? NOT FOR KENNEDY

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—[Special.]—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, tonight said he would not consider trading his ace pitcher, Vernon Kennedy, to New York for Charley Ruffing. He said he had offered Pitcher John Whitehead for Ruffing but had not been approached on a deal involving Kennedy.



Browns Rout Kennedy; Beat Sox, 15 to 10

nailed after the customary runups. Hornsby unbuckled a single to right, Vosmik scoring. Clift doubled to right and Hornsby ran as far as third after finding there were no taxis available. Bottomley ended the disturbance with a pop to Appling.

Three hits and a pass proved enough to put the Chicagoans into a 2 to 2 tie for a few moments in the second. After Bonura's long fly to Vosmik, Appling poked a single over second and Hayes walked. Berger's batting debut with the Sox was a fly to West. Then Sewell slashed a single into center, Appling scoring. Kennedy aimed a single to right and Hayes galloped home, Sewell roaming to third. The fun stopped abruptly when Radcliff, after fouling a couple, missed his third swing.

Hemsley Hits Double.

Hemsley assumed responsibility for heading Kennedy into another two run incident in the home second. Hemsley led off with a two bagger over Radcliff's head and Berger, after fumbling momentarily on Hildebrand's bunt, cut loose with a bulletlike throw which got his man.

Knickerbocker doubled to right to score Hemsley. West singled to right and Knickerbocker scored. Kennedy avoided further jostling for the moment by getting Vosmik on a pop to Hayes and serving strikes to Bell.

The Sox compiled a couple of hits in the third but the threat was wild. Bonura singled to right and Appling beat out a hit to second. The trouble was they came after two were out and Hayes couldn't lend assistance. In the Browns' half there was more leveling on Kennedy's pitching, one scoring. After Hornsby had been tossed out by Hayes, Clift dropped a fly in short center and stretched it into a double on Rosenthal's leisurely throw-in. Bottomley died on strikes, but Hemsley singled and Clift registered, giving the Brownies a 5 to 2 edge.

Sox Score in Fifth.

The fifth inning action, which resulted in two Sox runners finding their way around to the plate began with Radcliff's two bagger to center. West snared a long fly off Rosenthal's bat. Walker sailed a fly to center, but West couldn't reach this one and it bounced against the wall for a triple, Radcliff scoring. Bonura singled to right and Walker counted. The agility of West kept Appling's drive from sailing into left center for extra bases and Hayes closed the inning with a tap to Hildebrand.

The final blowoff in Kennedy's honor came after the first man had been expunged in the home fifth. Hornsby belted his terrific homer into the center field bleacher, a mere drive of some 430 feet. A moment later Clift dropped his homer into the left field seats.

This disturbed Kennedy to the extent that he walked Bottomley. Hemsley beat out a scratch hit. Hildebrand doubled to left, Bottomley and Hemsley scoring. Knickerbocker doubled to right, scoring Hemsley, whereupon Dykes concluded the time for Kennedy's removal had arrived. Rigney finally halted the suffering after two more had scored on a pass to West and Bell's double.

Business Is Brisk.

Business was so brisk for Rigney in the sixth that five men faced him before an out was hung up. Clift, Bottomley and Hemsley singled in order, one scoring. A pass to Hildebrand filled the bases. Knickerbocker's single sent Bottomley and Hemsley home. Rigney then wised up to what was going on. He fanned West and the next two popped to Sewell.

Probably because they wanted to prove that they were still on their feet the Sox engaged themselves in the production of six runs in the eighth. A pass to Berger, a single by Rensa and a free ticket for Rigney filled the bases with none out. Radcliff hit the right field screen for a single, two scoring. Rigney counted on Rosenthal's force of Radcliff. The three other runs slipped home on singles by Walker and Bonura, Appling's long fly and Hayes' double.

WHY PHILLIES ARE FREE OF BITTER, BITEY, RASPY TASTE

Bayuk selects and buys for PHILLIES the finest and mildest types of Havana, Domestic and Sumatra tobaccos. They are the very pick of the crops.

All PHILLIES tobaccos are aged and mellowed for at least two years—and are cured by the same methods used in making the most expensive cigars : : : BUT BAYUK DOESN'T STOP HERE.

Bayuk owns an exclusive, patented process that removes the bitter oils and harsh elements that ordinary curing methods don't, and can't, get out. No other cigar manufacturer can use this process.

Are you satisfied with your present cigar? Does each one give you a mild, smooth smoke? Do you enjoy every puff—even down to the end?

If your answer is NO, do what millions of other smokers have done. Stop buying the same cigar through sheer force of HABIT—and try PHILLIES.

Why PHILLIES? Because it has no bitter, bitey, raspy taste. (Bayuk's exclusive process sees to that.) Equally important—PHILLIES gives you fine, mild, long-filler Havana and Domestic tobaccos from end to end.

Why let HABIT rob you of full cigar pleasure? Join the millions who tried PHILLIES and made it America's largest-selling cigar.

CHICOLORADO WINS EASILY IN MUD AT JAMAICA

Widener Horses Score a Triple Victory.

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—A three lengths victory through the mud was scored at Jamaica today by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Derby, Preakness and Belmont eligible, Chicolorado. The son of Chicle and Robin's Egg, he came to the races today fit and strong from the training of Bill Brennan, and showed that he is well able to sustain the responsibility of being Greentree's main reliance for the 3 year old specials.

Back of him in the driving rain were Lost Battalion, Brogue, Riparian, Jungle Chase and Orient Express. They finished as named.

Sir Damion Withdrawn.

Sir Damion, Marshall Field's main hope for the important 3 year old races, was withdrawn on account of the bad weather. Trainer George Odom didn't want him to make his seasonal debut under the circumstances. But Chicolorado made short work of rain, sloppy track, and opposition. He dashed home in 1:14 1-5, carrying 115 pounds and with Eddie Arcaro steady at the reins. It was a fine six furlong trial.

With Sir Damion out, Riparian was the only other Derby eligible. He ran in desultory fashion to do nothing much. The hero of the test was the obscure Brogue, which closed a great lot of ground to be a fast going third after being practically left at the post. Chicolorado was a receding favorite from 3 to 2 to 2 to 1. The play was for Lost Battalion, which went down from 7 to 2 to 5 to 2. This Ziegler color bearer ran his race, but he was no match for the winner.

Wideners Score Triple.

But the sensation of the day was the triple scored by Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener. They swept the first half of the card and then ran second in the fifth with Townsman. The Widener winners were the former's Cold Breeze and Mrs. Widener's Cape Race and Specify. W. F. Mullholland, right hand man to the veteran, A. J. Joyner, saddled all three. Wayne Wright rode two of them, with the light lad, E. Mower, up in Cold Breeze's saddle.

JOCKIES EXPECT CLOSE RACE FOR AURORA HONORS

Skilful Riders Ready for May 1 Opening.

When the nineteen day Aurora meeting opens the six month Illinois racing season on May 1 those followers of the thoroughbred who like to pick out a jocky to follow should be well satisfied with the list of riders on hand. With more stables campaigning more horses for the Aurora meeting than ever before, there will be more jockies on hand, as well.

Aurora brings to national prominence some outstanding youngster nearly every spring. A year ago it was Frank Chojnacki, who led the national standings for most of the season, only to wind up second to Basil James when the twelve month returns were in. A year further back Paul Keester first became a consistent winner at the Fox valley track, and before him were Eddie Arcaro and Jack Westrope, among others.

Many Riders Expected.

Over thirty riders already have signified their intention of being on hand for the opening day of the season a week from Saturday. In addition to Jose Marrero and Henry Hauer, both of whom rank near the top of the year's riding roster, successful riders due at Aurora include P. Ryan, J. Richard, C. F. Simpson, J. Dyer, W. Cornay, C. Mojena, and T. Meloche, all having brought in twenty-five or more winners so far this year.

Other jockies to ride during the Aurora meeting will be K. McCray, L. Turner, D. Barnett, F. Ward, R. Bohn, C. Hanauer, H. West, J. McCoy, R. Clemons, P. Crowhurst, G. Dobson, T. Dowell, D. Edwards, S. Erwin, F. Grill, R. Haber, W. Lang, J. Leyland, W. Lowe, C. Mills, T. P. Martin, B. Wimmer, H. Albrecht, A. Richard, G. O'Bryan, and R. Mozer.

Richard Shows Skill.

Among the more highly touted of these are Ryan and young J. Richard. Richard, who rode his first winner at Alamo Downs late in January, already has booted in over thirty front horses. He rides for Mrs. A. M. Creech, who will have a strong representation at the Aurora track.

The Illinois racing commission has announced that its list of officials for Chicago tracks will again be the same, with C. J. Fitzgerald in the stewards' stand; Oscar Bachman, chief inspector of the mutuels, and Dr. George B. McKillip, veterinarian representing the state.

Athletes Begin March on Drake for 28th Relays

Des Moines, Ia., April 21.—(AP)—Participants began arriving today for the 28th annual Drake relays, which will be held here Friday and Saturday.

Texas, competing in the university section, brought a squad of five men, who will run in the sprint relay events. Alton Terry, Olympic javelin thrower from Hardin-Simmons college and holder of the Drake relays record of 222.65 feet, arrived with the Texas squad and went through a light workout.

Oklahoma Baptists' mile relay team, which features Harold Cagle, rated one of the fastest quarter milers in the country, also worked out today, as did the Whittier college squad headed by Randy Carter, entrant in the 100 yard dash.

One hundred eighty-four schools have entered athletes in the relays events.

REAPING REWARD GOES THROUGH DRILL FOR DERBY

Louisville, Ky., April 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ethel D. Mars' Reaping Reward, one of the favorites for the Kentucky Derby which will be run at Churchill Downs on May 8, today went three-eighths of a mile in :37 3-5, breezing. It was the colt's first three-eighths workout since he arrived from Texas last Monday.

Reaping Reward was accompanied by Military, Dogaway and Fast Express, also owned by Mrs. Mars. Reaping Reward's impressive time was made over a heavy track.

Come To Taw, Philip Reilly's bay colt, breezed three-eighths in :39 1-5 and ran the quarter in :25 2-5.

FINED $1, COSTS AFTER FIGHT AT WRESTLING BOUT

Joseph H. Huse, 37 years old, 4117 Ellington avenue, Western Springs, a salesman, arrested in the Coliseum annex April 1 for alleged participation in a disturbance following a wrestling match at which he was a spectator, was fined $1 and costs by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the South State street court yesterday. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Policeman E. P. Metz of the Woodlawn station, who made the arrest, said he saw Huse throw a chair which struck Thomas Tuite, 8242 Langley avenue, secretary of the Illinois athletic commission.

KEYES TO END TRAINING TODAY FOR LELLO BOUT

Clash in Majestic Ring Tomorrow.

Bucky Keyes, strong Newark, N. J., lightweight, will finish training this afternoon for his debut here in an eight round bout against Pete Lello, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves champion, at Majestic arena tomorrow. Lello will be searching for his 19th consecutive triumph as a professional. . . . Charley Baxter, Pittsburgh, Pa., 137 pound slugger, will arrive Saturday for his ten round headliner with Davey Day at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . .

Chet Le Vere, recent conqueror of Johnny Erjavec, Duluth heavyweight, and Billy Treest, Golden Gloves alumnus, yesterday were signed to meet in the ten round main event of Promoter Leonard Harris' inaugural at Rainbo Fronton May 7. . . . Dave Clark, 1935 Golden Gloves title holder, is paired with Jack Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight contender, at Detroit May 4.

Harry Thomas, who has been doing loosening up exercises since Monday, will open sparring drills today at Trafton's gymnasium in preparation for his ten round state heavyweight title match with Champion Max Marek at the Coliseum next Wednesday. Meanwhile, Promoter Mique Malloy arranged six supporting contests. Max Zona, Chicago Heights 200 pounder, and Bernie Bowman will be opponents for six rounds. Fights at four rounds involve Andy Scrivani and Joe Miller, Phil Kenneally and Owen Woods, Carl Vinciquerra and Jack Fargo, and Alex Kettles and Webster Epperson. George Dixon II., rangy south side lightweight, likely will fight Jack Otey to round out the program.

James J. Braddock resumed training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his proposed fifteen round title defense against Joe Louis at Comiskey park June 22. He will drill again today.

In the meantime Challenger Louis is packing preparatory to heading for a two weeks' vacation at West Baden, Ind. Trainer Jack Blackburn, who has been ill at his home on the south side for the last two weeks, expects to join the Brown Bomber there Sunday.

Louis said he knows nothing about a report that he is to fight Tommy Farr, who whipped Max Baer a few days ago, or the next best available foe at London July 30. Mike Jacobs, who holds an option on the 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves monarch, explained that it is planned to have Joe appear in three contests in England, but negotiations will not be concluded until after the Braddock fight.

Louis is scheduled to box against sparmates at the show presented for the benefit of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at the Lake Shore Athletic club April 30.

WHICH WILL BE BALD

Both these men lose the same number of hairs a day. Why will one be bald?

Because one replaces every hair that falls with new, live, healthy hair. The other does not!

That's the difference between a bald-headed man, and a man with a full head of hair. Either may be you. It's all a question of the care you take.

UPSLALA was rushed up on the outside to take command over BESTEST without effort, opened a good lead midway of the stretch, and was in hand in the final 70 yards. BESTEST, first away, ran a good race, but was no match for the winner. FRANK BROOKE went evenly, but could not threaten. SCOLD raced greenly on the inside throughout. BERTILLON moved up menacingly entering the stretch, but faltered. The others were always outrun.

TOUCHE, off in the first flight, disposed of ALAHAD to take command entering the stretch and had to be kept to extreme pressure to hold LUCKY COLOR safe. Latter, shuffled back at the break, moved to the leaders with a rush approaching the stretch and was gradually wearing down the winner through the stretch. JOAN ASBESTOS dropped back at the break and then gained slowly. BAREBACK, sluggish at the start, closed a gap. ALAHAD had excellent early speed and tired from running with the winner. O'BRIEN WEDDING IS KNOCKED OUT WITH FIREWORKS

Decree Reminds Bride's Counsel of Dime Novel.

Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday signed a final decree voiding the celebrated shotgun marriage of Assistant Corporation Counsel Quin O'Brien and Miss Marguerite Eustice despite protests of her counsel, Jerome Strauss and Alfar M. Eberhardt.

They objected to the wording of the decree which the lawyers averred read more like a dime novel shocker than the usual dignified language of court. They complained about an injunction, incorporated in the decree, preventing Miss Eustice from using the O'Brien name.

Complain About Form.

And they complained about the form of the decree. Said Attorney Eberhardt: "It looks as if O'Brien planned to have about 1,000 copies run off for distribution about the city."

Finally they objected to Judge McKinlay terming the marriage a shotgun affair in which Mr. O'Brien was kidnaped by four Chicago men. If the grand jury found no evidence of kidnaping [the jury refused to return indictments], the attorneys thought that Judge McKinlay should not have ruled on this point.

Mr. O'Brien was present, conferring with his attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr. The bride's mother, Mrs. Blanche Eustice, who was one of those accused by O'Brien of aiding in the marriage ceremony at Morrison, Ill., on Feb. 3, was also in court. Her lips pressed tightly together as the court's decree was read.

Marguerite Stays Home.

But Marguerite, the bride of 29 years, who lives with her mother in the same building at 3202 Sheridan road where Quin has an apartment, was not present. She was home knitting tiny garments.

Judge McKinlay's decree remarked upon the medical evidence of Miss Eustice's approaching motherhood, but said the court was not called upon to rule on the matter of paternity.

The decree included a complete review of the case. Commenting on shotgun weddings as a phase of the American scene, Judge McKinlay remarked that Quin told a strange story of his wedding night, but that the court believed it was a true one.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Hay Prospects Poor.

April 21, 1937.

THAT hay problem at the Tribune's Wheaton Experimental farm seems likely to remain unsolved for at least another year. It goes back to the drouth of last summer, when the first cuttings of hay made light yields and the farm manager was afraid he would not have enough hay to carry the live stock through the winter.

He sold ninety-nine breeding ewes to reduce the size of the flock to fit the hay prospects. Then came abundant rains during the late summer and fall. Pastures greened up, and the late cuttings of alfalfa made heavier yields than had been expected. Several loads of wild hay were cut along fence rows and in odd patches about the farm. As a result, the barns were stocked with more hay than had been anticipated.

Buys More Ewes.

Open weather continued far into the winter, and the sheep and other animals remained on pasture, eating but little hay. It became evident that there was more hay than would be needed for the live stock on the farm. The flockmaster went to Canada and bought sixty-seven head of pure bred Southdown ewes. Again there was a balance between the size of the flock and the amount of hay. There is just about enough hay in the barns to last until pastures are ready for full time grazing.

But now more trouble is in sight. Prospects for a hay crop this year are extremely poor because most of the alfalfa seems to have been killed by alternate freezing and thawing of the ground during the winter and early spring, causing the plants to heave out of the soil. The farm manager says he has never before seen so high a percentage of alfalfa plants literally pulled up by the roots.

The fields have been rolled in an attempt to pack the soil around the roots of any green plants that remain. In past years this procedure has saved alfalfa on the farm that might otherwise have been lost. It is too early to tell whether enough alfalfa plants survive to pay to leave the fields for hay. The outlook now is discouraging.

Crops for Emergency.

The question now is what kinds of emergency hay crops to try to grow this summer to substitute for the hay normally harvested from the regular meadows. Several plans are being considered. One is to cut part of the oats for hay and grow some soy bean hay to feed with it. Another is to sow Sudan grass for hay to be fed with soy bean hay.

The farm manager may decide on Korean lespedeza for an emergency hay crop provided he can get seed at a reasonable price. This legume makes a fair tonnage of good hay in southern regions, but its dependability as a hay crop this far north has not been definitly proved.

GUS HILL DIES; STAGE PRODUCER OF FORMER DAYS

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Gus Hill, veteran theatrical producer and actor, who is credited with discovering or aiding to success many of the older stars of the American stage—among them Weber and Fields—died suddenly last night of a heart attack. He was 78 years old.

Despite his age, Mr. Hill had continued active to the end. Not long ago he succeeded Eddie Dowling as president of the Theatrical Democratic league.

On the stage he made his first success as a club swinger, and he kept on swinging clubs for many years. His biggest profits came from a succession of cartoon comedies which he presented throughout the country, in town halls, and opera houses when theaters were not available. "The Yellow Kid" and "Happy Hooligan" brought plentiful returns to Mr. Hill.

CITY EYES VALUABLE LAND AND REJECTS OFFER ON OLD LOAN

The city council was advised yesterday that it would be folly to accept $8,500 in payment of a $1,500 loan and interest made 101 years ago to Charles M. Pettit. If this money is accepted, the council was told, the city might lose title to a valuable forty acre tract on the northwest side, now part of Winnemac park, which was put up as security by Pettit and which the city obtained through foreclosure of a mortgage.

Attorney Edward R. Johnston, special counsel for the board of education, which holds the tract in trust for school purposes, and his associates sent a letter to this effect to Corporation Counsel Barnett Hodes. Mr. Hodes concurred and so informed the council.

The council then advised the finance committee, which had recommended payment Tuesday, to withhold its report. Within a few days Judge Francis B. Allegretti is expected to enter a final ruling against the heirs of the Pettit estate in their suit to have the original mortgage declared invalid.

$136,000 STOCKS LEFT WIDOW BY HOWARD J. WHITE

The balance of the estate consists of his interest in the firm, on which no value was placed. Mr. White, who died last Dec. 18, left his estate in trust for his widow, Mrs. Mabel E. White, 32 Linden avenue, Wilmette. She was given a widow's award of $7,500.

Death of J. H. Connell, 87, Recalls the Chicago Fire

Not a Laxative

"The continued use of laxatives and cathartics only aggravates constipation," says a prominent medical authority.

Nujol is an internal lubricant, not a laxative, so it cannot gripe. Take Nujol regularly and you will escape the consequences of the "laxative habit."

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

PUT 35 MILLION ARGENTINE BOND ISSUE ON MARKET

SecurityOfferingsLargest in Several Weeks.

Offering will be made today of $35,000,000 of Argentine Republic 4 per cent bonds and of two smaller bond issues. With the offering yesterday of $25,000,000 Triborough Bridge Authority 4 per cent revenue bonds, the amount of senior securities to be placed on the market this week will reach the largest total in recent weeks.

A syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. is offering the Argentine loan at 89½, plus accrued interest. It had been planned to offer this issue some time ago, but the decline in the bond market caused postponement. The new bonds will mature in 1972. Proceeds will be used to repay $16,117,500 of 6 per cent bonds issued in 1926 and $17,513,000 of 6 per cent bonds issued in 1927.

Offer Power Company Bonds.

A new issue of $4,500,000 of Marion-Serve Power company, Marion, O., first mortgage bonds, 4½ per cent series, due 1952, will be offered today at 98 by White, Weld & Co., A. C. Allyn & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., and Coffin & Burr.

Proceeds from this financing, together with $750,000 ten year serial notes, 4,900 shares of preferred stock and current cash, will be used to retire all outstanding indebtedness.

Public offering is being made of $3,300,000 Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District [California] series C 3¾ per cent bonds by Blyth & Co., Bancamerica company, Dean Witter & Co., and Weeden & Co. The bonds, which are due from July 1, 1942 to 1971, are priced to yield from 2.40 per cent for the 1942 maturity to 3.55 per cent for the 1971 maturity.

Offer New Mexico Bonds.

Phelps, Fein & Co. and associates will offer today a new issue of $2,000,000 of state of New Mexico 3¼ and 3⅜ per cent highway debentures dated May 1, 1937. The 3⅜s, due $250,000 each May 1 and Nov. 1, 1946 to 1947, will be priced to yield 3.30 per cent for the 1946 maturities and 3.35 per cent for the 1947 maturities. The 3¼s, due $250,000 each May 1 and Nov. 1, 1948 to 1949, will be priced at par to yield 3.25 per cent.

An issue of $1,500,000 Gandy Bridge company first closed mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund bonds, due April 1, 1957, is being offered by Coffin & Burr, Inc., at 100. Proceeds will be applied toward the redemption of all outstanding first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds, due Dec. 1, 1945. American Woolen.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on American Woolen.—G. M.

Answer: As the largest manufacturer of woolens and worsteds in the world, the American Woolen company accounts for about 15 per cent of total domestic output of these goods.

The men's clothing division accounts for about half of sales, the women's wear takes about one-eighth of production, and the rest of the business is done in yarns, blankets, upholstery, and miscellaneous fabrics.

As a result of a weak price structure and generally unsatisfactory conditions in the textile industry over a long period of time earnings of the company have covered preferred dividend requirements in only two of the last ten years. With better prices and sharply increased sales, substantial improvement has occurred in the last two years, but serious problems still remain to be solved.

Full dividends have not been paid on the 383,215 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock since 1926 and some plan of recapitalization appears to be inevitable. It is inconceivable that the company ever will attempt to pay in cash the tremendous preferred dividend arrears—$23,664,000, or $61.75 a share, as of Dec. 31, 1936. Payments have been made on the preferred at the rate of $1 quarterly since March, 1936. There are 400,000 shares of no par common stock.

The management repeatedly has expressed itself as most anxious to clear up the situation, but only recently said it has been unable as yet to arrive at a plan it regards as fair to both preferred and common stockholders.

One of the rumors is that the present 7 per cent stock may be replaced by a 4 or 5 per cent issue, with equity of common stockholders sharply reduced.

Since taking charge in 1931 the present management has consolidated operations in fewer and larger plants, disposing of all unused or unsuitable high cost plants.

Although sales increased from $70,317,000 in 1935 to $71,032,000 in 1936, higher costs reduced net income from $2,741,000, or $7.15 per preferred share and 15 cents per common share in 1935, to $1,930,000, or $5.04 per preferred share, in 1936.

Sales were $48,711,000 and a loss of $5,485,000 was sustained in 1934, contrasted with net income of $7,053,000, or $10.64 per common share, in 1933, when a record buying wave brought sharply higher prices and large inventory profits. Losses aggregated $20,500,000 in the preceding five years.

Everyday Economics

In response to requests from readers for simple explanations of financial terms and brief analyses of factors affecting business and finance, The Tribune presents "Everyday Economics." Rubber.

Brazil, Malaysia and southern India provide the world with the bulk of its rubber supply, a commodity which has assumed great international importance during the present century, particularly since the use of automobiles became widespread. More than half the rubber produced is consumed in the United States.

Once selling at $2 a pound, the price in 1932 touched a low of 2½ cents a pound in New York, the result of worldwide economic depression and over production. Establishment of an international agreement at that time to curb production and exports resulted in a steady rise in price for the next few years. Rubber is currently selling slightly above 23 cents a pound. Last year this country used 573,000 tons of the commodity.

Rubber futures are traded on Commodity Exchange, Inc., in New York. The contract unit of trade is ten long tons totaling 22,400 pounds. Prices are quoted in hundredths of cents per pound. Thus, a fluctuation of 1-100 cent equals $2.24 a contract and a change of one cent or 100 points totals $224 per contract. The grade traded in is "standard quality, ribbed smoked sheets, Hevea plantation rubber."

Tomorrow: Hides.

COCOA PRICES.

NEW YORK, April 21.—[Special.]—Firmness in foreign markets and buying attributed to European account lifted cocoa futures sharply today. Closing trades were at practically the top, with net gains of 15 to 22 points. Sales, 431 lots, or 6,465 tons. Range of prices [cents per pound]:

MOTOR SHARES RACE AHEAD IN BUOYANT TRADE

Chrysler Gains 4¼; Steels Prominent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 21.—With a spectacular spurt which carried prices up from fractions to more than 4 points, motor stocks set the pace for a generally buoyant share market today. Other groups to chalk impressive gains included steels, oils, chemicals, and rails. Utilities held firm in light trading. Sales totaled 1,248,380 shares.

Wall street opinion was that the tone of the market reflected a general feeling of optimism on the part of many traders. It was pointed out that excellent earnings reports continued to be issued by corporations in virtually all lines of business and that industrial strife for the moment had been pushed into the background. Motors have been carefully watched by those favoring the group, in the belief they were in a position to become barometers of the industrial division. Chrysler with a 4¼ jump was the leader, closely followed by General Motors, up more than two points.

Steel Group Prominent.

The early leaders were steels, oils, and farm equipment shares, with steels making a better showing than in recent sessions. U. S. Steel, up 3⅝, and Bethlehem, up 2⅜, were the strongest. Others to follow, but with smaller gains, were Republic, Crucible, Youngstown, and Otis.

Contrary to expected reaction to the announcement that steel prices will not be increased in the third quarter, it was believed that the move should curb speculation, as orders would tend to be more evenly spread out over the year.

Farm implements climbed. High grain prices, coupled with the prospects of large crops, aided the movement. Case at one time was up 4 points, while Deere moved into a new high with a 1¾ point rise.

Rails Show Improvement.

Rails, particularly those serving western and midwestern areas, also came in for some improvement. Atchison and Southern Pacific were leaders with gains of more than a point.

Oils continued in good demand and their turnover accounted for a large part of the activity. Several issues moved to new peaks, with Seaboard, Texas Corporation, and Standard of New Jersey the leaders at gains exceeding a point.

Aviations attracted fresh buying. Douglas crossing 60 on a gain of 1⅞ points. Wright Aero jumped 3 points, Boeing gained more than 1, and Bendix and Curtiss-Wright added small fractions.

Rubber Group Strong.

U. S. Rubber was a leader in the rubber group, which was definitly on the upside, although price gains were not large. Firmness of the price of the metals resulted in strong copper issues. Howe Sound, up 4 points; Anaconda, up 2½; Kennecott, up 1¼, were outstanding.

Among the chemicals Allied and Du Pont were leaders with gains of 3 and 5 points, respectively. Union Carbide eased slightly.

A long list of fractional gains appeared in late trading in utilities and demand picked up slightly.

FOREIGN HOLDING COMPANY PROFIT RULED TAXABLE

Washington, D. C., April 21.—(AP)—The internal revenue bureau ruled today that the personal holding company tax applied in certain cases to nonresident foreign corporations. In an opinion by Morrison Shaforth, its chief counsel, the bureau held that gains to foreign holding companies from the sale of capital assets in the United States were taxable.

Shaforth said recently there were indications some Americans had organized foreign holding companies without offices in this country to deal in American securities and escape taxes on their profits. The personal holding company levy, included in the 1936 revenue act, imposes taxes ranging from 8 to 48 per cent on profits.

MORGAN FILES 48 MILLION CLAIM ON VAN SWERINGEN

Cleveland, O., April 21.—[Special.]—Total claims against the estates of the Van Sweringen brothers were raised to more than 70 million dollars with disclosure today that a banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. has entered a deficiency claim of $48,345,961 against the personal estate of O. P. Van Sweringen.

The claim is dated March 23, 1937, and was filed shortly after. The amount includes interest on loans signed by the two brothers up to Nov. 23, 1936.

A claim for about 25 million dollars was filed by liquidators for three Cleveland banks on Monday.

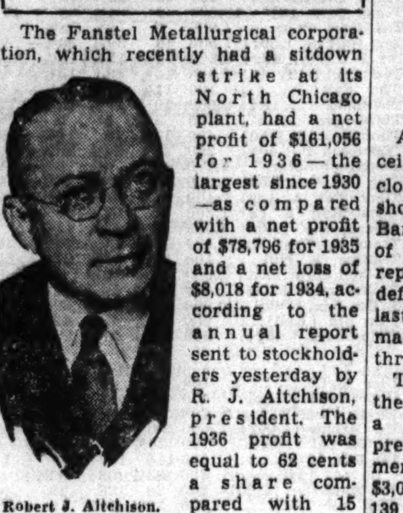
FANSTEEL EARNINGS SOAR; SALES IMPROVE DESPITE 'SIT' STRIKE

The Fanstel Metallurgical corporation, which recently had a sitdown strike at its North Chicago plant, had a net profit of $161,056 for 1936—the largest since 1930—as compared with a net profit of $78,796 for 1935 and a net loss of $8,018 for 1934, according to the annual report sent to stockholders yesterday by R. J. Aitchison, president. The 1936 profit was equal to 62 cents a share compared with 15 cents a share for 1935.



Robert J. Aitchison.

Aitchison, commenting on the recent strike, which was ended when the sitdowners were ejected by county authorities, said it would affect earnings for the first quarter of this year, but added a substantial part of the loss may be recovered from insurance.

"Despite the labor difficulties the company's sales for the first quarter of this year show an increase of slightly more than 50 per cent over the net sales for the corresponding period of 1936," Aitchison said. "On the assumption that improvement in business generally will continue, the management looks forward with confidence to satisfactory and profitable operations during 1937."

Commenting on results for 1936, Aitchison said the total volume of business showed an aggregate increase of 27 per cent over 1935.

Board of Trade Affirms Award Against Brokers

The committee of appeals of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday announced a decision affirming the award of $41,881 by the committee of arbitration of the exchange to Otto Madlener, a customer, against E. A. Pierce & Co. The award was the outgrowth of charges made by Madlener that his account had been juggled by a former employé of the brokerage firm.

Closed Bank Repayments Slow Down

BY EDWARD WILSON.

A considerable decline in both receipts and disbursements of the 142 closed Cook county state banks was shown in State Auditor Edward J. Barrett's report for the first quarter of this year, released yesterday. The report showed that depositors of 10 defunct banks received repayments last quarter, whereas 27 closed banks made repayments during the last three months of 1936.

Total receipts for the 142 banks for the last three months were $3,578,676, a decrease of $749,470 from the previous quarter's receipts. Disbursements for the same period were $3,032,728. C. H. Albers, receiver for 139 of the banks, pointed out that in many instances funds are being accumulated preparatory to small repayments to be made this year.

Collections Show Decline.

Collections for the quarter from assets were $1,957,609, compared with $2,664,060 the previous quarter. RFC loans for the quarter totaled $81,008, compared with $124,449 the previous quarter. Colections due to money advanced to protect assets for the quarter were $1,540,060, compared with $1,538,727 collected the preceding quarter.

Preferred and secured claims	$ 343,119	$42,604,043
Repay depositors	759,997	40,341,889
Receivers	24,713	1,255,584
Attorneys	129,236	5,189,870
Clerical	204,589	7,966,123
Interest	38,158	1,552,124
Advanced to protect assets	1,109,300	24,303,825
Cash on hand	545,948	5,725,673

Lists Remaining Resources.

The auditor lists the book value of remaining resources in the 142 banks at $135,564,831, a decrease of only $173,167 for the last quarter, which would indicate an improvement in the cash value of the resources.

Of the first 20 banks listed in the state auditor's report, eight are expected to make repayments to depositors in the near future. The banks are Arlington Heights State, Armitage State, Baker State, Berwyn State, Berwyn Trust and Savings, Binga State, Brighton Park State, and the Central Manufacturing District bank.

Detailed reports of the closed banks, together with best available estimates of their ultimate liquidation values, will be published in the Metropolitan sections of next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

INTEREST ON POSTAL SAVINGS MAY BE CUT, SAYS U. S. OFFICIAL

Interest on postal savings may be cut soon to a level more in line with rates paid by most banks on time deposits, Marshall Diggs, executive assistant to the federal controler of the currency and former Chicago attorney, said in an address before the Financial Advertisers' association yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

Diggs pointed out that the present rate of 2 per cent paid on postal savings deposits throws the postoffice into competition with banks in some cities. Most Chicago banks pay 1½ per cent on savings accounts.

Diggs, who represents the controler of the currency on the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, also predicted that no new banking legislation will be sought by the administration at this session of congress. The relatively few bank failures in the last two years has proved effectiveness of administration's banking program, he asserted.

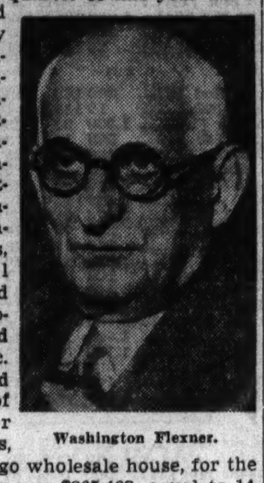
Signode Steel Raises Dividend to 62½ Cents

The Signode Steel Strapping company yesterday raised the quarterly dividend rate from 50 cents to 62½ cents a share. A dividend of the latter amount will be paid May 7 to stock of record May 3. The record date and payable date were set tentatively subject to approval by the stock exchange. The company paid 50 cents a share in February. At an earlier meeting of stockholders all directors were reëlected.

FIRST QUARTER PROFIT SHOWN BY BUTLER BROS.

Lincoln Printing Co. Reports Gain.

Substantial increases in earnings for the first quarter of this year were reported yesterday by a number of companies, including Butler Brothers, the Lincoln Printing company, General Foods, National Biscuit, and Revere Copper and Brass, Inc.



Washington Flexner.

Indicated net profit of Butler Brothers, large Chicago wholesale house, for the first quarter was $265,468, equal to 14 cents a share on the common stock. In the corresponding quarter of last year the company had a loss of $40,863. The company reported a gain of 17.2 per cent in volume of business over the first quarter of 1936.

Gain Continues in April.

"Gain in volume since April 1 continues on a satisfactory basis," the company said. "Inventories are about 30 per cent greater than at the same date last year, due partly to increased volume, and partly to the taking in of goods early to insure deliveries and to obtain lower costs. Bank loans are about $500,000 less than at the same point last year."

Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company, reported that net earnings for the first quarter amounted to $137,368 after all charges, equal to 68 cents a share on the common stock, compared to $98,745, equal to 44 cents a share, in the corresponding 1936 period.

General Foods corporation profit for the first quarter was $4,089,988, equal to 77 cents a share, against $4,067,150, or about the same amount per share a year ago.

National Biscuit reported that its first quarter profit was $2,538,757, equal to 33 cents a share, against $2,917,123, or 39 cents a share, a year ago.

Revere Copper and Brass.

Revere Copper and Brass reported a net profit of $1,414,712 for the first quarter, equal to $1.98 a share on the common stock, against a net profit of $234,769, equal to 28 cents a share, a year ago.

Profit of the Shawinigan Water & Power company for the first quarter was $1,116,600 against $781,035 in the March, 1936, quarter.

Texas Gulf Sulphur company profit was $2,100,050 for the first quarter, equal to 54 cents a share, against $2,149,018, or 55 cents a share, in the 1936 first quarter.

General Refractories reported first quarter profit of $700,899, including $100,000 of nonrecurring income, equal

Am. Telephone Head Warns Costs May Increase Rates

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—On the outcome of the race between rising costs and technical development will depend the future cost of telephone service in the United States, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, told stockholders at the annual meeting today. Increased telephone rates are inevitable, he said, unless technical advances can be made rapidly enough to offset rising taxes and other operating costs.

Gifford expressed confidence that over a long period technical improvements will result in reducing the cost of telephone service. But he added the warning that at the present rate of increase in costs it is questionable whether the technical men can keep ahead.

Rates Cut, but Costs Rise.

Gifford pointed out that telephone rates over the last 15 months have been reduced by $43,000,000 annually, while prices of other commodities and services, and taxes have risen rapidly.

"We cannot continue contrary to the general trend," he asserted. "In the long run, other things being equal, we look to development research to reduce the cost of furnishing telephone service. Obviously, however, if the prices of practically everything else continue to rise, telephone rates cannot remain stationary. They must ultimately follow unless the increase in prices is so gradual and within such limits that inventions and improvements in operating technique can be made fast enough and productive enough to create offsetting economies."

Gifford cited the tax bill of the Bell system to illustrate the problem of rising costs.

The system's total tax bill in 1929 was $83,467,000. Each year since then an increase has occurred, bringing the total to $116,300,000 in 1936. He pointed out that 1929 taxes amounted to $5.60 for each phone in service, as compared with more than $9 per phone in 1936.

Phones in Use Near Peak.

Gifford predicted that the number of telephones in use in the United States would soon recover to the all-time peak level reached in 1930. The number of phones in use is currently increasing at the rate of 90,000 to 100,000 monthly. About 2,1000,000 of the 2,500,000 phones disconnected during depression years have been put back into service. At the 1930 peak there were 15,200,000 phones in service, or 400,000 more than at the present time.

Gifford said $320,000,000 will be spent by the system for construction this year. Units are beginning to build new plants after a lapse of several years. Construction in recent years has been confined to the replacing and rebuilding of old plants.

Gifford said the company has no immediate plans for further stock offerings. He added that continued growth of the business would undoubtedly lead to further stock financing in the future. The company now has 150 to 175 million dollars cash on hand, he said.

OIL MEN DEMAND U. S. GROUNDS FOR CONSPIRACY SUIT

Madison, Wis., April 21.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone late today took under advisement the request for a bill of particulars by the defendants to two government indictments charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act in the oil industry. The beginning of the trial has been set for Sept. 27.

Defense and government atorneys battled all day over the former's demand for a court order directing that "names, dates, and places" be supplied in connection with the two indictments, returned here by a federal grand jury that year. Judge Stone's decision, which is expected before the end of the month, will mark the last major preliminary to bringing the case, involving twenty-five major oil companies, to trial.

John A. Brown of New York, president of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, appeared for arraignment today and entered a plea of not guilty. All but five of the sixty-seven defendants named in the two government indictments have now been arraigned.

Rails Will Not Take New Pension Program to Court

Washington, D. C., April 21.—[Special.]—R. V. Fletcher, counsel for the Association of American Railroads, today told the house ways and means committee that the carriers will not take the new railroad retirement tax bill to the courts.

All Horders' Directors and Officers Re-Elected

All directors and officers of Horders, Inc., were reëlected at the annual meetings yesterday. No other business was transacted.

FRENCH FRANC LOWEST SINCE DEVALUATION; BRITISH POUND RISES

The French franc dropped to a new post-devaluation low price of 4.43⅞ cents yesterday, while the British pound rose to a seven months' high price of $4.93½.

A heavy movement of capital from Paris to London was partly responsible for the decline in the franc, which closed 0.01¾ cent below Tuesday's price. The rise in the pound against the dollar was said to have resulted from the demand for British funds with which to purchase gold for shipment to this country.

Speculators and underwriters who subscribed heavily to the recent French armament loan have been heavy sellers since listing of the obligations on the Paris bourse. The bonds were first quoted on the market at 95.10 francs and rose as high as 97.50 francs. The bonds dropped yesterday to 94.90.

Gold aggregating $957,000 was engaged in England yesterday for shipment to the United States. The price of the metal in the London market was fixed at the equivalent of $34.72 an ounce. The treasury reported that its "inactive gold" fund stood at $491,563,235 on April 19, an increase of $10,200,000 over the preceding day.

COMPANY HEADS TELL MEETINGS OF ROSY FUTURE

Stockholders Given Cheer in Earnings.

Results of first quarter operations and prospects for the rest of 1937 were discussed yesterday by officials of several leading corporations at annual stockholders' meetings.

The change in the economic situation that has occurred in the last year was emphasized by the general character of discussions. The problems dealt with included rising wages and prices, the need for plant expansion and additional capital and taxes.

Criticism of management, so common at stockholders' meetings during the depression period of lean profits and meager dividends, played a small rôle in the gatherings, which for the most part were happy affairs.

Sees More Plant Needed.

James S. Knowlson, chairman of the Stewart-Warner corporation, told the stockholders' meeting in Richmond, Va., that the great increase in the company's business in the last three years has converted a problem of excessive plant capacity to one of plant shortage, and created a greatly increased need for working capital.

"Since the beginning of 1934, we have plowed back into the company the sum of $2,500,000, after paying taxes and dividends, but the $870,000 added to surplus in 1936 cost us $141,000 in taxes. It would seem that this law [the tax on surplus profit] places a penalty on conservative management."

First Quarter Profit Larger.

He reported that the company earned a profit of $841,256 in the first three months of 1937, equal to 68 cents a share. This was nearly double the $432,327, or 35 cents a share, earned in the corresponding period last year.

Sales of the company, he said, are running 40 per cent ahead of a year ago.

A two for one stock split-up was voted by the stockholders of the Owens-Illinois Glass company meeting in Toledo, O. The present 1,500,000 shares of $25 par stock were increased to 3,000,000 shares of $12.50 par stock. Following the stockholders' meeting the directors authorized an initial quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the new stock, pay-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 21.—Interest in bond trading lagged today on the New York exchange and prices moved irregularly lower. Turnover fell to $11,707,000. United States government obligations were in moderate supply, which with the absence of close bids resulted in further declines throughout that list. Second day reading of the President's budget message apparently did little to bolster sentiment in investment circles.

The turnover in treasury loans dwindled to $852,400, against $3,215,800 on the preceding day. Declines ranged from 3-32 to 16-32 point with the guaranteed obligations most vulnerable in the decline.

Mixed trends prevailed throughout the market for domestic corporate bonds, with prices recording little net change on the average. Except for selected industrial loans, including most of the convertibles, prices were a shade easier. Secondary railroad issues reacted slightly from the highs earlier in the week, while utility bonds about held their own.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were steady yesterday in moderate trading, with 40 advancing, 31 declining, and 44 remaining unchanged. One new high was reached, being in Standard Dredging preferred, which touched 19½ and closed at 19¼. Consumers common was the most active, transactions totaling 3,550. Cord sold down fractionally on a turnover of 3,100 shares. Chicago corporation also was active.

The governing committee approved three new stock listings and one additional listing. The new listings follow: Aetna Ball Bearing company, Chicago, 121,500 common shares, $1 par; Fuller Manufacturing company, Kalamazoo, Mich., automotive equipment and power shovels, 325,000 common shares, $1 par; Trane company, La Crosse, Wis., air conditioning and ventilating equipment, 255,000 common shares, $2 par value. The additional listing consisted of 55,230 common shares, $1 par, of Mickelberry's Food Products company.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were mixed yesterday. Continental Illinois was quoted $1 lower. First National was quoted $1 to $3 higher by various dealers, and American National stock was unchanged to $5 higher. Other bank stocks were steady.

Commodities

A vigorous rally in European commodity markets, induced by renewed denials that the United States treasury planned to change the gold price, yesterday spread to other markets throughout the world. Short covering and resumption of speculative and trade buying were reported in both London and New York. Profit taking trimmed gains in some commodities late in the day, but cotton, copper, tin, rubber, and several other basic articles finished near peak levels.

Copper futures in New York bounded nearly half a cent a pound on reports of active business in the domestic market as well as in London. The new price of 14½ cents for domestic copper appeared to have brought new buyers into the market as sales for Tuesday were 2,884,000 pounds, compared with 572,000 pounds on Monday when the price was 15⅛ cents.

Export copper opened at 14 cents a pound, fractionally below the closing price Tuesday, but climbed as high as 14.40 cents in a few sales. Final transactions were made at 14.30 cents a pound. Prices follow:

*Since trading in the future started.
All prices are for July delivery except barley which is for May; butter for November, eggs for October and hides for June.

Grain.

Grain markets made a firm start and a tame finish yesterday. Strength in wheat abroad and a marked revival in the European demand for the cash article led to fairly general buying of futures during the fore part of the session.

However, an upturn of nearly 2 cents a bushel in May wheat was short lived, due to profit taking sales and trade reports indicating that 2,000,000 bushels of cash wheat had been bought to come here in the last two days from Kansas City and Omaha.

Closing trades in all pits were near the lowest levels of the day. Wheat finished with net losses of ⅜ to 1 cent and corn was ⅝ to 1¼ cents a bushel lower. Oats lost a small fraction of a cent, while rye was unsettled.

Soy beans advanced 2 to 2¼ cents, with the July delivery at a new high for the season.

Reports of rains in part of the dry area in the American and Canadian northwestern spring wheat belt had some effect on the market in the late trading yesterday.

Wheat at Liverpool advanced 2 to 5⅛ cents a bushel with the May delivery showing the most strength, reflecting the removal of hedges against the sales to Spain. The May delivery in the English market closed at $1.44⅛, or 14⅝ cents a bushel above the low point on Saturday.

Corn and other grains were largely affected by the action of wheat.

Rain Soaks 'Dust Bowl.'

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 21.—(AP)—The heaviest rainfall in eleven months soaked into thirsty southwestern soil tonight, giving thousands of drought-harassed farmers high hopes of harvesting the biggest crops since 1931.

The rain, varying up to four inches, was heaviest in Oklahoma but reports of adequate moisture in many other sections aroused agricultural experts to forecast a "normal crop year."

Live Stock.

With the exception of lambs, which weakened slightly despite light receipts, the trend of live stock markets was strong to higher yesterday. Advances of 5 to 15 cents were registered in hogs. The top, $10.40, paid for 224 pound butchers, showed a gain of 10 cents and was highest in twenty-three days and the average of $10.10 was highest since March 30.

Another decrease in receipts at all leading packing centers offset a 50 cent break in fresh pork in the east.

Best steers in Omaha, Neb., soared to $16.75, a new eighteen year April high mark, but top cattle were absent in Chicago, the best available bringing $15.25. No strictly prime steers have sold here for almost two weeks, but would bring $16.75 if they were available, it was said.

The bulk sole at $9 to $13. Competition again centered in the lower priced stock, in steers quoted downward from $11 and hefers at $10 and under. These were strong to slightly higher. Other classes were steady to strong. Calves sold slightly higher.

Only 2,000 lambs arrived, but they sold slightly lower. The top of $13.10 showed 5 cents loss.

Lard.

Short covering and commission house buying of lard futures, based on strength in grains and hogs, lifted prices nearly 20 cents at the extreme yesterday. Scattered liquidation and hedging pressure checked the upturn. Closing trades were at net gains of 5 to 15 cents. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 10 to 20 cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at $11.55; loose, $10.92½; leaf, $10.75, and clear bellies at $15.75 per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

SEC'S CRITICISMS ARE ASSAILED BY I. B. A. PRESIDENT

Hall Urges Close Tie of Companies, Bankers.

New York, April 21.—[Special.]—Close relationship between corporations and their investment bankers in corporate financing today was advocated as beneficial to both the corporations and the public by Edward B. Hall, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America and of Harris, Hall & Co., Chicago.

Edward B. Hall.

Speaking before the Bond Club of New York, Hall took issue with several of the criticisms of financing methods made before the same group a month ago by William O. Douglas, member of the Securities and Exchange commission. Hall's statements were regarded by some as indicating that certain bonds might not be selling as much below offering prices as they are had there been less competitive bidding and closer relationship between industry and its investment bankers.

Well Below Offering Prices.

"The market is full of recent bond issues contracted for in the hope of realizing gross profits of 2½ per cent or less, and now quoted at 5 to 10 points below their offering prices," said Hall.

He quoted a recent study which showed that some issues sold on competitive bids in a strong market during the last year or two brought fancy prices and were handled on unusually narrow margins of profit, but did not stand up as well as did similar issues offered during the same period and handled by regular bankers for the companies in the usual way.

Hall agreed with Commissioner Douglas that the investment banker can and should exert a wholesome influence to prevent complicated and unsound capital structures, insure protective clauses in charters and indentures, and make provision for security holders to participate in formulation of management policies.

Replies to Douglas.

Inasmuch as an investment banker should be intimately acquainted with a company to do this, however, Hall said it was "difficult to reconcile the suggestions by Douglas as to how bankers can exert a wholesome influence, with the belief that 'continuity of banking relationship is of unestablished value to any one except the banker.'"

Hall opposed segregation of underwriters and distributors of securities on the grounds that smaller investment houses forming a natural link to many corporations need both types of business to survive. Segregation would tend further to concentrate business in larger cities and larger houses, he said.

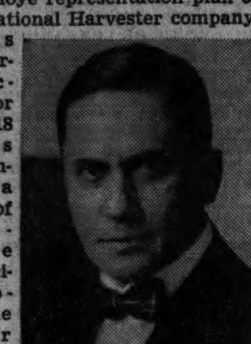
International Harvester Drops Employe Council System

The employé representation plan of the International Harvester company, which has been operating successfully for the last 18 years, has been abandoned as a result of the Supreme court decision upholding the Wagner labor act, Sydney G. McAllister, president, announced yesterday.



Sydney G. McAllister.

The company, a pioneer in the field of labor relations, will withdraw its appeal of the ruling made last November by the national labor relations board, ordering the dissolution of the "industrial council" at the company's Fort Wayne, Ind., plant.

International Harvester is the first of the large corporations which have maintained employé councils in the past to announce the abandonment of the system.

Others May Modify Systems.

Several other concerns have indicated that they would attempt to salvage something out of their present systems which would conform with the terms of the Wagner law.

Other Chicago concerns which have maintained similar systems are Swift, Armour and the other packers, and the Western Electric company. None of these concerns has announced whether the system will be continued. The consensus of attorneys is that reorganization of the company union type of labor organization must be so drastic under the terms of the act that the units may as well be abandoned.

The reason for the Harvester company's decision was discussed at length by President McAllister in a letter sent yesterday to all employés. The decisions, it was explained, will not affect the pension system.

Tells Reasons for Course.

"The company is taking this action," he said, "because of its desire to coöperate with the government's efforts to eliminate industrial strife and in the belief it is not for the best interests of the employés or the company to continue collective bargaining under a plan which has been subject to criticism, even though the criticism may not be justified."

During the years of operation under the system the company has not experienced a strike and has effected several peaceful settlements of questions affecting hours, wages and working conditions.

McAllister said the company will continue to negotiate with individual employés or authorized representatives of workers on matters of mutual interest. He warned employés against the danger of coercive organization methods in the formation of new unions.

STEEL INDUSTRY HUMS AT HIGHEST RATE SINCE 1929

Output Rises to 92 Pct. of Mills' Capacity.

Steel ingot production this week was estimated yesterday by the magazine Iron Age at 92 per cent of the nation's capacity, a new high since midsummer of 1929, and a gain of 1 point over last week.

The weekly output at the present rate was estimated at 1,204,979 tons, exceeding the all-time record of the weekly average during May, 1929, by more than 11,000 tons. At that time, the capacity of the industry in open harth and Bessemer plants was 60,990,810 tons annually, against the present plant capacity of 68,290,862 tons.

The sharpest increase in operating rate this week was in the Cleveland-Lorain district, where operations rose 12 points to 87 per cent of capacity.

Price Situation Clarified.

New business with most companies has been running 10 to 30 per cent behind that of the corresponding period in March, but much of the lag was due to uncertainty about third quarter steel prices. Announcement was made Tuesday night by Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation of a continuation of present prices to Sept. 30.

Heavy shipments of finished steel have relieved the situation somewhat, leaving a few open spaces in the June schedules of mills.

Pig Iron Output Rises.

Inquiry for pig iron for export has brought offers of $28 a ton at Atlantic ports, with little available even at this price.

Scrap iron prices declined further last week for the third consecutive week. Heavy melting steel was $1 lower at Philadelphia, and 50 cents lower at Chicago and Pittsburgh. The Iron Age scrap composite declined 67 cents to $20.75 a ton, the same price as during the first week of March this year.

BANK WILL ASK REHEARING OF LIABILITY SUIT

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday moved to contest the recent decision of the Illinois Supreme court freeing stockholders of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank from double liability on their stock. The bank's attorneys filed notice with the clerk of the Supreme court at Springfield giving notice that they will file a petition for a rehearing.

The court ruled that stockholders were not liable for twice their stock holdings to make up for the deficit on the loan granted by the Continental Illinois to the Peoples Trust to enable it to close in 1932 without loss to depositors. The Continental Illinois had sought to collect $2,500,000 from approximately 200 stockholders.

COMPANY HEADS TELL MEETINGS OF ROSY OUTLOOK

able May 15 to stock of record April 29.

Stockholders were informed that net earnings for the year ended March 31 were $11,046,985, equal to $8.30 a share, compared with $7,923,152, or $6.25 a share, in the preceding year.

Acme Steel Orders Climb.

R. H. Norton, president of the Acme Steel company, told stockholders at their meeting here that orders for specialty steel items have been so great that the company found it necessary to appropriate $1,500,000 for plant expansion this year. The company decided it was unwise to finance the additions out of earnings because of the federal tax and will probably sell additional common stock, he said.

Prospects indicated sales in 1937 would reach $20,000,000, largest in the company's history, Norton said. Sales last year totaled $16,729,369. First quarter sales totaled $7,225,977, compared with $3,662,000 during the corresponding 1936 period.

Acme stockholders approved a plan for the sale of stock to employés in amounts equal to 15 per cent of salaries at a price to be determined by the directors. All directors and officers were reëlected.

Borden's Business Improves.

Arthur W. Milburn, president of the Borden company, reported a "gratifying" improvement in first quarter business over last year. He said at the current rate of operations the company will earn its full dividend requirements this year.

A. G. Milbank, chairman, explained the company's new profit incentive plan under which $229,000 was distributed among 300 "important" men in the organization last year.

Less than $50,000 of the total, he said, went to officers and much less that amount went to directors. Drivers are receiving a fixed rate of pay of $39 a week, against $37.50 a year ago, plus their sales commissions.

Plans to Pay Back Dividends.

F. B. Hufnagel, president of the Crucible Steel company, reported at the stockholders' meeting in Jersey City, N. J., that the company is considering means of liquidating back dividends on the preferred stock, which amount to $26.75 a share. He said the arrearages would be paid in "some form," but would not forecast the method.

Howard S. Palmer, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, told stockholders in New Haven that the directors are pushing reorganization plans vigorously. He said a plan probably will be submitted by June 1 to the federal court. He estimated the first quarter deficit of the road at $670,000.

Principal and semi-annual interest, January 1 and July 1, payable at the Bank of America, N. T. & S. A., San Francisco, and at the Manufacturers Trust Company, New York City. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, with privilege of registration as to both principal and interest.
